

Poor Manners

In the crowd that flowed into campus streets and sidewalks after Saturday night's ballgame were several people, obviously not students of A&M, who wandered onto the lawn adjoining the Memorial Student Center. Not knowing it is a memorial to Aggies who died for their country, they did not realize their mistake until it was too late.

As soon as one alert Aggie spotted them, he shouted that they should immediately "get off" the grass. He was soon joined by a half-dozen other students shouting various uncomplimentary statements about the severity of their transgression.

The silent visitors were completely humiliated. It is true that Aggies hold these grounds in high respect, but they mean nothing to those not acquainted with our campus.

This was a case of extremely poor manners on the part of the Aggies involved. Let's be more respectful to our visitors and leave them with a better impression of our student body.

New Course Being Taught

Aggies prone to stretch the truth ever so slightly at times are warned to keep their distance from the Engineering Extension Annex for the next six weeks.

The Annex is the site of the polygraph examiner's school sponsored by the Police Training Division of the Texas A&M Engineering Extension Service.

Polygraph is, to the uninitiated, another term for "lie detector."

The course is being conducted

Oct. 10-Nov. 18, and is open to municipal police, state police, county peace officers, and industrial and retail security workers.

The course is designed to develop qualified persons in the field of law enforcement, industrial security and personnel investigation work in theory techniques and operation of the polygraph instrument.

This is the fourth such school conducted by the Police Training Division this year.

'Turning Aggie Tide'

By BARNEY FUDGE

Man, what a year. This is the year of the "Turning Aggie Tide." Everyone is getting a chance to become better acquainted with their dates at football games, and guess what—we, the Aggies, even returned a symbolic mascot that we didn't take in the first place. It was the head of the TCU "Horned Frog" costume. An Aggie senior obtained the head from high school students who had gotten it by dubious means.

Returning the head to the rest of the costume was quite a treat; the TCU "Frog is not a male frog She's cute, too!"

Turning matters in a more serious vein, the Student Senate has a couple of things on its mind. The first of which is our Campus Chest, which apparently no one knows anything about. It is a fund that comes under the auspices of the Senate and is to be used for the benefit of deserving Aggies. By deserving, we mean a person who is in dire financial straits because of an illness in the family or because he is suffering from an insufficient amount of funds to continue his education. Don Allen, Student Welfare chairman, handles the problems of this nature. If you have a problem such as this, let us try to help. That's what your Campus Chest is for.

Next on the agenda is our current telephone problem. Many people have been asking about the service, or lack of it, that our campus has been receiving. At the next Student Senate meeting there will be a representative from the phone company present. He is going to shed some light on just exactly what our problems are and what is being done to alleviate them.

Remember the Campus Chest. Let's go beat Baylor and win the Southwest Conference. See you at the football game.

RICHARD C. HOTTELET

SPEAKING ON
"Behind the International Headlines"

OCTOBER 19, 1966 at 8 P. M.

The outstanding CBS news commentator was assigned to Vietnam for the critical summer months of 1966. Well known for his radio and TV coverage of the United Nations for CBS News, during his stay he got to know at first hand the people of Vietnam, their problems and how they are solving them. He talked with military and political leaders, and also spent considerable time in side-by-side, day-by-day living with combat GI's.

ON OCTOBER 20, 1966 at 8 P. M.

KENNETH S. ARMSTRONG

SPEAKING ON
"World Around Us"

OCTOBER 27, 1966 at 8 P. M.

He has jeoped through Viet Nam villages, met with the Vietnamese people in cities and hamlets; interviewed their leaders; faced the crossbows of the primitive and unpredictable Montagnards. The story behind the headlines is portrayed in color film of historical significance. Mr. Armstrong points out that only through deeper knowledge of the people, their history, religion and customs, can one understand the events in this chaotic area.

DR. FRED BULLARD

SPEAKING ON
"World Around Us"

OCTOBER 27, 1966 at 8 P. M.

"The Birth of a Volcano" will be presented in both color slides and movies.

In 1943, Dr. Bullard visited Paricutin, Mexico, three months after Paricutin Volcano was born. In 1944 Dr. Bullard lived several months in a cabin at the base of the cone. One lava flow advanced within 30 ft. of the cabin and then in late 1948, the cabin was finally buried by an advancing lava flow.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Way back in 1953 I started writing this column about campus life. Today, a full 13 years later, I am still writing this column, for my interest in undergraduates is as keen and lively as ever. This is called "arrested development."

But where else can a writer find a subject as fascinating as the American campus? Where else are minds so nettled, bodies so roiled, psyches so unglued?

Right now, for example, though the new school year has just begun, you've already encountered the following disasters:

1. You hate your teachers.
2. You hate your courses.
3. You hate your room-mates.
4. You have no time to study.
5. You have no place to study.

Friends, let us, without despair, examine your problems one by one.

1. You hate your teachers. For shame, friends! Try looking at things their way. Take your English teacher, for instance. Here's a man who is one of the world's authorities on Robert Browning, yet he wears $30 tweeds and a pre-war necktie while his brother Sam, a high school dropout, earns 70 thou a year in aluminum siding. Is it so hard to understand why he writes "F" on top of your themes and "Eeyich!" in the margin? Instead of hating him, should you not admire his dedication to scholarship, his disdain for the blandishments of commerce? Of course you should. You may flunk, but Pippa passes.

2. You hate your courses. You say, for example, that you don't see the use of studying Macbeth when you are majoring in veterinary medicine. You're wrong, friends. Believe me, some day when you are running a busy kennel, you'll be mighty glad you learned "Out, damned Spot!"

3. You hate your room-mates. This is, unquestionably, a big problem—in fact, the second biggest problem on American campuses. (The first biggest, of course, is on which side of your mortar board do you dangle the tassel at Commencement?) But there is an answer to the roommate problem: keep changing room-mates. The optimum interval, I have found, is every four hours.

4. You have no time to study. Friends, I'm glad to report there is a simple way to find extra time in your busy schedule. All you have to do is buy some Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades. Then you won't be wasting precious hours hacking away with inferior blades, mangling your face again and again in a tedious, feckless effort to winnow your whiskers. Personna shaves you quickly and slickly, easily and breezily, hacklessly, scrapelessly, tuglessly, nicklessly, scratchlessly, matchlessly. Furthermore, Personna Blades last and last. Moreover, they are available both in double-edge and injector style. And, as if this weren't enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a fistful of $100 bills. The Personna Super Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running! You can win $10,000 and even more. Get over to your Personna dealer for details and an entry blank. Don't just stand there!

5. You have no place to study. This is a thorny one, I'll admit, what with the library so jammed and the dorms so noisy. But with a little ingenuity, you can still find a quiet, deserted spot—like the ticket office of the lacrosse team. Or a testimonial dinner for the dean. Or the nearest recruiting station.

You see, friends? When you've got a problem, don't lie down and quit. Attack! Remember: America did not become the world's greatest producer of milk solids and sorghum by running away from a fight!

The makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades (double-edge or injector style) and Burma-Shave (regular or menthol) are pleased (or apprehensive) to bring you another year of Max Shulman's uninhibited, uncensored column.
