

Credit School Speakers Set

Three more financiers and educators have been lined up as speakers for the 15th annual Texas Farm and Ranch Credit School for Commercial Bankers Nov. 9-11 at A&M University.

They are Dr. Charles N. Shepardson of Washington, D. C., member of the Federal Reserve System Board of Governors; George Logan of Waco, vice president of the First National Bank; and Tom Prater, Extension farm management specialist at A&M.

Between 100 and 200 commercial bankers are expected to attend the session, according to Ken Wolf, publicity chairman and agribusiness economist in the A&M Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department. "Financing a Profitable Agriculture" is the theme.

Shepardson will talk on "Sources of Funds to Meet Credit Needs." The speaker was directly connected with technical agriculture for several years before becoming dean of agriculture at A&M in 1944, Wolf said. In 1955, he was appointed to the Federal Reserve System Board of Governors.

Logan, an A&M graduate, has been with Waco's First National Bank since 1951. Wolf said he is a recognized leader in agricultural finance and has been an instructor in the Southwest Graduate School of Banking in Dallas.

"Financing Stocker Cattle" is Logan's topic. Prater will discuss the "Farm Credit Analysis Handbook." The speaker holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in agricultural economics and has authored several publications on beef cow-calf operations.

BA Seminar Begins Sunday

Texas A&M University's School of Business Administration will conduct its 11th semi-annual management seminar at the Ramada Inn, Oct. 23-29, announced Dr. John E. Pearson.

Pearson, director of the School of Business Administration, said approximately 30 representatives from a dozen Southwest business and industrial firms will attend the session.

The seminar helps participants develop insights and concepts which they can translate into managerial skills, Pearson explained. The primary objective of this training is to help managers become more effective in their present jobs and to show them how they can develop their abilities for advancement into positions of greater responsibility, he continued.

Eight distinguished businessmen and educators will serve as guest speakers for the week-long meeting. They are: Dr. J. P. Abbott, distinguished professor of English, Texas A&M; Jack F. Wolfram, former vice president of General Motors and general manager of Oldsmobile, Lansing, Mich.; D. B. Campbell, manager, Plastics Dept., E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., Inc., Orange, Texas; William Oncken, Jr., Oncken Associates, New York City; Edward J. Green, Green Associates, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert J. Potts, regional director, Mobil Oil Co., Dallas; J. W. Miller, vice president, Employers Casualty Company, Dallas; L. D. Collins, vice president-operations, Central Power and Light Co., Corpus Christi.

COMMON COMBINATION

Ken Reese and his Agfa Silette-Lera are a common sight at Texas A&M. The two-year Camera Committee chairman takes pictures of Memorial Student Center functions as part of his busy schedule.

Camera Chairman Stretches Time

"Busy as a bee" doesn't describe Ken Reese. Bees can't buzz that fast.

Reese serves as chairman of the Texas A&M Memorial Student Center's camera committee, works for a Bryan consulting engineer, averages 1.9 on A&M's 3.0 grade point system and still finds time to "soup" 50 pictures a month.

"Ken does a fabulous job with the camera committee," declared MSC Director Wayne Stark. "He goes far beyond what is required in the line of duty."

The 29-year-old electrical engineering major is in his second year of committee chairmanship. Under Reese's direction, the 88-member club has its largest membership ever, with a 100-percent increase over 1964-65 enrollment. The club is planning color darkroom facilities, doubled the number of entries in its 1965 Intercollegiate Photo Salon and is seeking national participation this year. Committee members won half the Salon ribbons here last year.

Reese's photo work takes him away from his wife Sandra and five-year-old son Barry many nights, but the understanding wife doesn't mind.

Ken's so interested in it, I try not to say anything," the Physical Plant Department secretary remarked. "Interest is the main ingredient of his success."

The Olden, Tex., native took up photography as a hobby six years ago. He stuck his fingers in hypo while serving with the Army in Germany and can't wash it off. Reese still hasn't caught up printing negatives he shot in Germany, France, Austria, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Ireland and Newfoundland during 20,000 miles of Army traveling.

Reese may have the only free-world picture of a top Russian general, made during a secret review in West Germany. He shot color slides in Heidelberg's Corn Market, where "The Student Prince" was filmed.

Ken thinks his most unusual picture is a time exposure of lightning during Hurricane Carla. The bolt struck south of College Station but appears to be taking a chunk out of a student housing apartment roof. His favorite photo—of Sandra and Barry on a river bank—hung in the '65 Salon.

Two Agfa cameras he purchased in Germany comprise his photo inventory, since part-time employment doesn't allow large equipment budgets.

He looks forward to commencement next May. Sandra promised him a popular 35 mm camera for graduation.

Reese worked part-time for BW Construction of Bryan in high school and college. The former carpenter now assists EE Department Head John S. Denison on REA System surveys, doing drafting and system voltage surveys.

Much of his darkroom time is spent making photos for various MSC activities. Reese credits committee success to student officers and faculty advisors C. M. Sykes (klub kop) and Roy Pledger.

"Mr. Sykes takes care of book-keeping odds-and-ends, keeps darkrooms straight and gets us supplies on his trips to Houston," said the chairman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Reese of Olden.

"Ken is the most unique undergraduate chairman the committee has ever had," Stark commented. "That he can study, raise a family, make a living and do such a remarkable job, too, fascinates me."

A&M Consolidated Lectures Begun

A new approach to drawing interest into freshman social studies has been initiated at A&M Consolidated High School.

Richard Luquette, social studies teacher at Consolidated, has allowed his students to invite people of their own choice to speak to them every other week. These speakers are chosen from the Bryan-College Station area and speak on a variety of subjects.

Ed Powell, chief of campus security at A&M, spoke to one class about the importance of traffic regulations, explaining how they are enforced by mechanical devices according to laws and city ordinances. He also pointed out that the reason for traffic regulations are accidents and property damage.

Bob Wyatt, a resident agent for the F.B.I. detached from Houston, told the students of the requirements for entering the F.B.I. He stated that a person must hold a college degree, a law degree, or be a certified public accountant, and be between the ages of 24 and 41. Then he went into a discussion of the training of an agent.

An agent, upon entering the bureau, spends four months training in the knowledge of laws, self-defense, and weapon use.

Episcopal Chapel Starts Programs

St. Thomas Episcopal Chapel has initiated a series of educational programs for its young people, announced Rev. Wesley Seeliger.

Vic Wiening, assistant professor of English at Texas A&M, will present concert readings from the works of Robert Frost, Kenneth Grahame, Ugo Betti, Herb Gardner and Jean Anouilh for the Episcopal Young Churchmen.

Programs will be given in the Chapel the next two Sundays, concluding Oct. 30. Wiening is a board member and artistic director for the civic theater group, Stage Center, Inc. During his 14 years at A&M, the Aggie Players director has given concert readings for various university and local civic clubs.

Judging Team Places In Show

The Texas A&M University Senior Livestock Judging Team placed 12th out of 24 teams competing in the American Royal Livestock Show Oct. 14-22 at Kansas City.

The Aggies won first in swine judging and had the third high point individual—Tex Nowlin of Harlingen—in the overall contest. Dexter Sagebiel of Llano was eighth high individual.

Other A&M team members were Harley Zwahr of Needville, Mack Heald of Anson, Lester Osbourn of Valley Spring, Joey Skrivaneck of Caldwell and Richard McDonald of San Benito.

First place in livestock judging went to Kansas State University, second to South Dakota State University, third to Oklahoma State University, and fourth to Colorado State University.

Area Hearings Will Probe Texas County Government

State Senator J. P. Word of Meridian has announced the dates for three area hearings of the Texas Legislative Council Study Committee on County Government.

Hearings will be conducted in Waco on October 24; Longview, October 25; and Abilene, October 26. Each will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the respective county courthouse.

This committee was set up by the last Legislature and has as its purpose: "to study county government." Based on this study, the committee will make recommendations to the forthcoming Legislature on any new laws needed to improve county government in Texas.

Other members of the committee, in addition to Senator Word as chairman, are Senator Lou Crump, San Saba; Representative George Hinson, Mineral Wells; Representative James Sluder, Texas City; and Representative Townsend of Brady.

Senator Word said that all active and appointed officials of any citizen interested in strengthening county government are invited to appear before the committee.

On the march, the Texas Aggie Band has a 12-man front row of 20 ranks and covers 35 yards of football field at a time.
