A&M Consolidated Sets Homecoming

A bonfire, football game, queen, and a dance will feature the A&M Consolidated High School Homecoming this week. Tonight at 7:30 the traditional bonfire will be ignited, highlighted by a yell practice and effigy burning. Consolidated students, under parent supervision, have chopped and gathered wood from the Landsford farm for the bonfire.

Friday night the Consolidated Tigers will meet the Brenham Cubs at Tiger Stadium.

Half-time activities will include performances by the Bengal Belles doing a ripple and their trophy-winning routine, "the '66 line dance," and by the Consolidated High School Band, directed by Bill Atkins.

Topping the half-time activities will be the presentation of Homecoming Queen nominees, Kim White, Charmille Bridges, Kathy Litterest, Celia Stack, Susie Goldsmith, Cindy Boyd, Cheron Moore, Toni Eibert, and Shelly Reid, escorted by their fathers. Then two princesses will be announced and a queen for Homecoming 1966 will be crowned by Meg Huebner, president of the student body at CHS.

Following the game, the student council of Consolidated High will sponsor a dance in the Junior High School cafeteria honoring the queen and her court. Music will be provided by the "Yaks" from 10:15 to 12:15.

SCONA To Hold Thursday Meet

Committees will be named for the Student Conference on National Affairs at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Assembly Room of the Memorial Student Center.

After assignments, a work session will begin in the separate committees.

"These work sessions are important to make our conference the success we are all working for," said C. R. (Bob) Heaton, SCONA chairman.

"We hope to be finished by eight so that those who wish may attend the World Around Us Series in the Ballroom," Heaton said.

Conferences Attract A&M Faculty Group

Several faculty members of the Meteorology Department are attending widespread conferences this week.

Dr. Vance E. Moyer, acting department head and Dr. Robert A. Clark, associate professor, presented two papers at the 12th Conference on Radar Meteorology at the University of Oklahoma. The papers were on "Research in Radar Meteorology Being Conducted at Texas A&M."

R. C. Runnels, an instructor, and J. C. Schmidt, a graduate assistant, accompanied Dr. Moyer and Dr. Clark to the conference. The four-day conference will end today.

Associate Professor Dr. G. A. Franceschini and Dr. El-Sayed journeyed to Lake Arrowhead, Calif., to attend the Eastern Tropical Pacific meeting.

Dr. Franceschini will travel from there to the Air-Sea Interaction Conference at Florida State University. This conference in Tallahassee, Fla. will end Saturday.

John F. Griffiths, associate professor, attended a seminar at the University of Houston Thursday.
