Cal Tech Physicist To Give Lectures At A&M

Dr. Pesse W. M. DuMond, a A&M University next week.

A consultant for the optical alignment of Stanford University's two-mile accelerator, Dr. Du-Mond will discuss the accelerator in a public lecture at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Biological Sciences Building lecture room.

The 13-year member of the National Academy of Science will lecture on "Recent Developments in the Evaluation of the Fundamental Constants" during a Physics Department colloquium Wednesday. The presentation will be at 4 p.m. in Room 146 of the Physics Building.

Additionally, the Cal Tech physicist at California Institute professor will participate in semiof Technology, will present two nars Monday, Tuesday, Thursday lectures and participate in four and Friday in the Physics Buildseminars during a visit to Texas ing. Topics on nuclear energy spectra, polarization, levels and properties will begin at 3 p.m. in Room 145 Monday. Other seminars will be held in Room 146.

> Professor DuMond, 74, has been associated with Cal Tech more than 30 years. He has taught and directed graduate research in X-rays, atomic and nuclear physics and designed and developed numerous precision instruments for research in each of these fields. He is noted for development of the curved crystal gamma spectrograph and iron-free beta ray spectograph.
