Radios Connect Campus Points

Through the use of modern electronics, a large amount of normal and emergency activity on the campus is handled through one central office, the Radio Communication Center at the Texas A&M University Physical Plant. "The Center was established in 1963," explains Wesley W. Wayland, communication center chief, "and uses three shortwave radio base stations in its operations."

KEO 355 is the base station used for communication with University maintenance personnel and with the Fire Department. There are 26 battery-operated hand units and five mobile units operating on its frequency. The hand units operate on rechargeable batteries and provide great mobility in normal and emergency situations.

KEV 919 base station ties-in the Campus Security Office, the Bryan and College Station Police Department, the County Sheriff's office, and the State police.

For civil emergencies such as floods or tornadoes, the center operates KMT 1815 base station.

The Chief Dispatcher at the Radio Communication Center, Mrs. Cherry Woodyard, is on duty Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. She is relieved by regular student employees who work Monday through Friday, 4 p.m. to 8 a.m. and weekends. In addition there are two student standby employees.

ALL INCOMING calls to the center go to the dispatcher, who can then take a message and deliver it or even connect the telephone caller with someone in a vehicle. If necessary, the dispatcher is the one who sets off the fire alarm.

Insurance Men
 Discuss Salary
 At SAM Meet

Two representatives of the Aetna Life Insurance Company recently told the Society for the Advancement of Management that $6,600 is the starting salary for college graduates with their company.

The two speakers, Bob Riem and Jay Gardner, both 1961 college graduates, Monday night gave a brief description of the company and the opportunities it has to offer. Gardner, an A&M graduate, received his degree in personnel management. A member of the Corps of Cadets, he was the commanding officer of Squadron 4. Riem received his business degree from Knox College.

Aetna, with 19,000 employees, is the largest multiple line insurance company in the world, according to Gardner. Beginning employees go to school for four months and then receive a raise to $7,000 a year plus a company car. Most beginning positions are as insurance salesmen.

Riem, who is with the casualty division, said that the sale of disability insurance provides most salesmen with 60 percent of their salary. Company benefits listed by Riem included continued schooling, with Aetna footing half the bill, the chance to work in other countries, and being able to draw seniority while in the armed forces.

The shortage of qualified people is so acute, Riem continued, that Aetna is not able to open another office this year.

In other business David Morgan, club president, handed out membership cards for this school year. The society was invited to enter a candidate for queen of the Agronomy Society Cotton Pageant and Ball, which will be on April 1. Another invitation has been extended to the club by the Duncan Coffee Co. of Houston to visit and observe the operation of the company.

Accountant Group Offers Aid Grant

The American Institute of Certified Public Accountants has announced it will award $400-$450-a-month grants-in-aid for doctoral dissertations in accounting.

In order to be eligible for a grant, a student must be working for a doctorate at a school that is a member of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, and he must express an intent to become a teacher of accounting.

The grants will provide $400 a month for single persons and $450 a month for married persons for a maximum of 12 months.

No application blank needs to be filled out to be eligible for a grant. An interested student, however, should submit "a plan that defines the scope of the dissertation, specifies kinds of information upon which the dissertation is based and estimates time required to do research and write the dissertation."

A SUMMARY of the proposed research in 100 words or fewer, along with a recommendation from the faculty advisor who will supervise the dissertation, should be included in an application. Biographical information on the student and an official transcript of all college courses and grades should also be included.

Interested persons should address their applications to Chairman, Committee on Relations with Universities, American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, 666 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y. The applications must be received by the Institute before March 1. Grants will be awarded April 1 or as soon thereafter as possible.
