Indoor Records Possible As Milrose Games Begin

By RON RAPOPORT Associated Press sports writer NEW YORK (AP)—The New York indoor track season opens Thursday night with the Millrose Games and hopes are high for indoor records in the pole vault and the 60-yard dash.

Garden, which will give way to a new structure now being built atop Penn Station and should be completed by the end of the year.

Bob Seagren, holder of the indoor pole vault record of 17-feet-1, is expected to give that mark, set just last month in Saskatoon, a good test.

"Have a tall ladder ready," says Vern Wolfe, Seagren's coach at Southern California.

"He's ready to break the world indoor record in every meet in which he competes."

Bill Gaines, the 18-year-old high school student from Mullica Hill, N. J., and Charlie Greene of the University of Nebraska, will square off for the first time at 60 yards. They hold two-sixths of the indoor record of 5.9. The only other active sharer of that record is James Hines of Texas Southern, who ran 5.9 last Saturday. The others — Bob Hayes, Darel Newman and Sam Perry — have all retired from racing.

The Wanamaker mile, traditionally the strongest event of the meet, suffers this year with the absence of Jim Ryun, the world record holder from Kansas.

But Canadians Dave Bailey and Ergas Leps, NCAA champion Dave Patrick from Villanova, Kent State's Sam Bair and Newark, N. J. High Schooler Martin Liquori promise a close, if above four-minute, mile.

Because of the Kyle Field construction project, the Maroon and White baseballers will play all their home games at Bryan's Travis Park this year.
