

Chemistry Professor Receives GIS Society Teaching Award

Dr. Paul K. Calaway, professor of Chemistry, has received a Teaching Award of Merit by the Texas A&M University Chapter of the Gamma Sigma Delta Society.

The teacher was honored during recent ceremonies which initiated nine faculty members and 64 students into the chapter. Gamma Sigma Delta is an agricultural honor society.

Faculty members were Dr. H. O. Kunkel, associate director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; Dr. H. G. Applegate, Plant Sciences Department; Dr. C. W. Horne, Extension plant pathologist; Dr. E. C. Bashaw, Soil and Crop Sciences Department; and Dr. T. C. Cartwright, Animal Science Department.

Also, Dr. Alvin Price, Dean, College of Veterinary Medicine; Dr. Leslie Reid, head, Recreation and Parks Department; Dr. Leon H. Russell, Veterinary Public Health Department; and J. W. Sorenson, Agricultural Engineering Department.

The main speaker was Dr. Karl E. Gardner, associate dean of agriculture at the University of Illinois who talked on "Preparing Professional People for Tomorrow."

Special awards of merit went to four undergraduate students: John M. Davis of College Station, senior in animal science; James Henry Wright of San Antonio, fourth year veterinary science; Milton K. Herrmann of Houston, second year pre-veterinary medicine; and Lynn Ray Irby of Irving, sophomore, wildlife science major.

Professor Calaway's award was presented by Dr. R. E. Patterson, dean of the College of Agriculture, who cited the professor's role in teaching and molding the character of students in the agricultural sciences.

The chemist was director of the Georgia Institute of Technology Engineering Experiment Station before he came to Texas A&M in 1957 as head of the Chemistry Department. He served in that capacity until 1964.

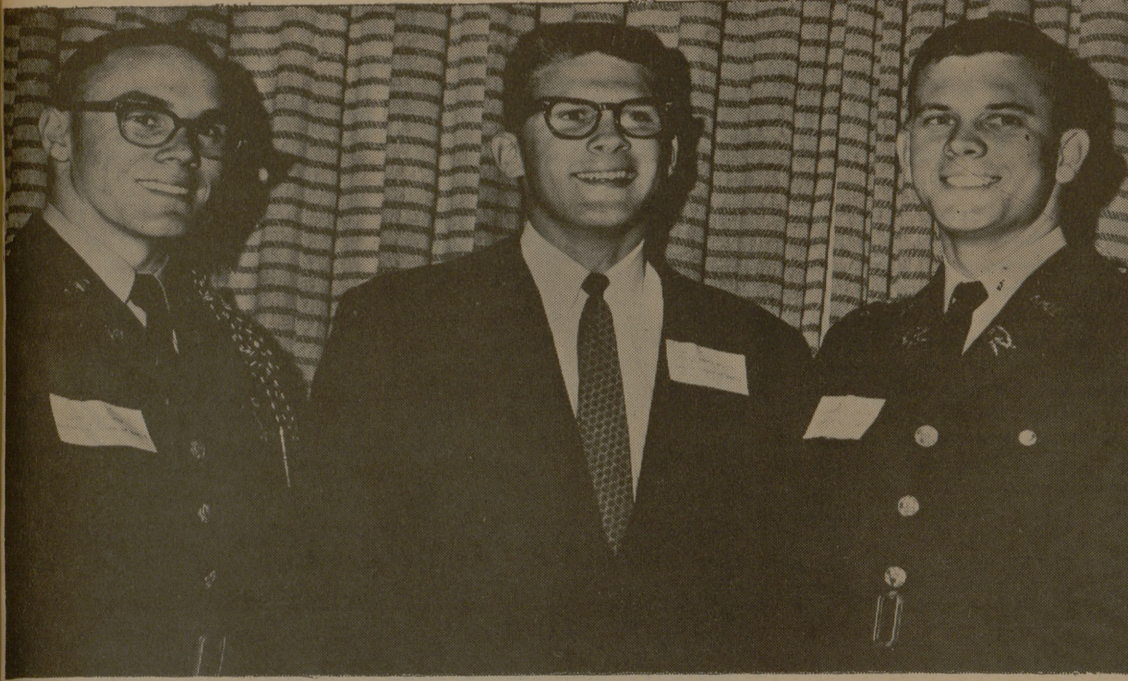

Professor Calaway holds membership in the American Chemical Society, Sigma Xi and Phi Lambda Upsilon, and is listed in American Men of Science, Who's Who in Education, Who's Who in Chemistry and Who's Who in America's.

Dr. Carl Vanderzant of the Animal Science Department, chapter president, said Gamma Sigma Delta was organized at Texas A&M in 1965 to "encourage high standards of scholarship and proficiency in all branches of agricultural science and education, and a high degree of excellence in the practice of agricultural pursuits."

He said the society also honors those undergraduates and graduate students, faculty and A&M alumni in all branches of agriculture by electing them to membership for demonstrating outstanding services to agriculture.

Other chapter officers are Dr. W. F. Krueger of the Poultry Science Department, vice president; Dr. Otto Kunze, Agricultural Engineering Department, secretary; Dr. James D. Smith, Plant Sciences Department, treasurer; and Dr. R. J. Kohel, Soil and Crop Sciences Department, historian.

MERIT AWARD WINNERS

Top Violinist Will Perform For MSC Series Sunday

Violinist Sergiu Luca, a 23-year-old who plays with the flawless technique of a veteran, will perform Sunday afternoon at Bryan's

Civic Auditorium. The 3 p.m. program is sponsored by the Memorial Student Center Town Hall Committee as part of its "Music for a Sunday Afternoon Series."

Town Hall Chairman Sammy Pearson announced no seats will be reserved for the program. Tickets are available at the MSC Student Program Office.

Pearson said A&M student activity cards and Town Hall season tickets are acceptable. Special transportation to the auditorium from the MSC will be available free to A&M students at 2 and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Luca, a native of Bucharest, Romania, began violin lessons at the age of four from a gypsy. At 13, he began four years of work under Max Rostal in London and the Berne Konservatorium in Switzerland.

In 1964, Luca won the Philadelphia Orchestra youth auditions and performed the Sibelius Concerto with the orchestra. He played with the Cosmopolitan Youth Orchestra at Carnegie Hall later that year. Luca performed as soloist with the Deluth, Miami, Richmond and Johnstown Symphonies in 1965-66, and gave numerous recitals throughout the nation when time permitted.

His repertoire here will include selections from Beethoven, Faure, Shumann, Bartok, Paganini, Brahms and Bach.

ACCLAIMED PERFORMER

The Bryan Civic Auditorium will host Sergiu Luca, Sunday. The young violinist has won standing ovations and dazzled his audiences.

Posts 3.20 In Animal Science

A 3.20 grade point ratio on a three point system? Impossible? Not quite, as freshman David Earl Ellermann proves once again that it can be done.

Such an average was achieved by maintaining straight A's in all courses. P.E. was included in the computation, giving Ellermann an extra three grade points.

"Such grades as these are rare in my knowledge of freshmen students. This was made possible because of dedication to academic achievements," Dr. R. C. Potts, assistant dean of agriculture, said.

Ellermann, majoring in animal science, comes to A&M from Needville where he won a two-year scholarship to study agriculture. The scholarship was awarded by five Fort Bend County firms and the soil conservation district.

In high school Ellermann was salutatorian for the 1966 graduating class at Needville. While in high school he was a member of the FFA, 4-H, JETS, and the science club. He also was on the basketball and track teams.

As a member of the meat judging team in FFA he helped his team win first place in the state. This fall he missed three days of classes to represent the Texas meat judging teams at the national contest in Kansas City, Mo. Potts sums it all up with one remark:

"Such a well-rounded student, fresh out of high school, with grades as high as he has is something the whole College of Agriculture can be proud of."

Phi Delta Sigma Spring Rush Set

Phi Delta Sigma, off-campus social fraternity, will conduct its spring rush next week, announced David Barton, fraternity president.

Barton said rush is open to all male freshmen, sophomores and juniors in good standing with the university.

In addition to its social activities, Phi Delta Sigma participates in various civic programs. Last semester the group sent cigarettes to the 1st Cavalry Division in Vietnam.

Barton said the fraternity plans to stress even more the civic service aspects of the organization this semester.

The fraternity president requested that students interested in joining the group send self-addressed stamped postcards to him at Box 4993, College Station.

Postcards must be received by Saturday, Feb. 18.

dated in March, 1966 for a new five-year period by the American Council on Education for Journalism, one of 47 schools and departments of journalism in the United States so listed."

McGuire has served on the ACEJ Accreditation Committee since 1961. Enrollment in the department has grown from 32 in 1961, to approximately 100 at present; scholarships and grants have increased during that period from $1,600 to $7,700 per year.

"The support of the media has been outstanding," McGuire said.

"We appreciate the confidence that they have shown in our program, as well as that of the high schools and junior colleges."

Dr. McGuire was named head of Texas A&M's journalism department in 1961 after serving 11 years as a journalism professor at North Texas State.

McGuire indicated that he had not yet accepted a position elsewhere.
