

Aggies Meet Baylor Bears Tonight

By GARY SHERER
The high-scoring Baylor Bears come to G. Rollie White Coliseum tonight for an 8 o'clock encounter with the Aggies.

FRESH OFF a 101-75 drubbing of Texas at Austin Saturday night, Baylor brings a potent 82.5 floor percentage with them, led by their one-two punch, Darrell Hardy and Jimmy Turner.

Hardy and Turner, both Houston products, currently are running first and second in the Southwest Conference scoring race.

Turner is the top scorer for the season with a 21.3 average for 20 games. Hardy is at 21.2, as the duo are only two points apart in the season averages. In the SWC only, Hardy leads with a 22.6 reading as compared with Turner's 20.9 mark.

WITH TWO players capable of consistent double figure scoring, Baylor is a hard team to defense. The Bears' SWC record is 5-5 and their overall mark is 11-9. Even with a strong offense, Baylor has lost quite a few because their defense against scoring is the worst in the league.

Coach Bill Menefee's charges started off slowly this year in the SWC and then went on a hot streak and won four in a row. Just as fast as they got hot, they experienced a losing streak and the win over Texas broke a three-game losing streak.

IN THEIR first game with Baylor this year, it was a second-half poor shooting performance by the Maroon and White that spelled defeat for the young team. Only down by seven points at halftime, Baylor ran away with the game in the second period and won 93-65.

Possibly the key to Baylor winning or losing is the performance of two other Baylor players. These men are 6-5 junior college transfer Ed Thorpe and 6-6 sophomore Steve Bartels. When this duo is hitting enough to back up Hardy and Turner, the result is usually a win for the Bears.

IN THE Texas game, the Hardy-Turner team hit 22 each. Bartels and Thorpe added 31 between them, while the eight other team members could contribute only 26 points. The key, then, to stopping Baylor is to stop their third and fourth scorers, as there is practically no defense for the scoring of its SWC one-two scorers.

Speaking of scoring, there wasn't very much in the Aggies game

Saturday night with the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

THE MAROON and White employed a fine deliberate style of play and controlled the ball about 70 per cent of the time. But, the Aggies lost the ball game, 41-36, at Lubbock because they could not get the lead.

The Aggies never led, and when using a deliberate style, getting the lead is a must and this meant a losing effort. The attack was in contrast to the slow-down type of offense, because the Aggies were always trying to score. The low score came because the Aggies only went for the sure shot and their first-half shooting of 100 per cent bears out the sure-shot theory.

The halftime score was 19-17. The Aggies could have been in the lead, but a streak of five missed foul shots the first part of the ball game spelled loss for the Aggies.

THE AGGIES got the tipoff to start the game and worked the ball for 2 minutes and 11 seconds. Ronnie Peret was fouled but the 6-9 sophomore failed to convert his free throw and Tech rebounded and Vernon Paul put the Red Raiders ahead 2-0 on a jump shot.

Following Peret's miss, the Aggies missed four successive foul shots and Tech took the lead 5-0. Sonny Benefield got the Aggies on the scoreboard after six minutes had elapsed with a layup to make it 5-2.

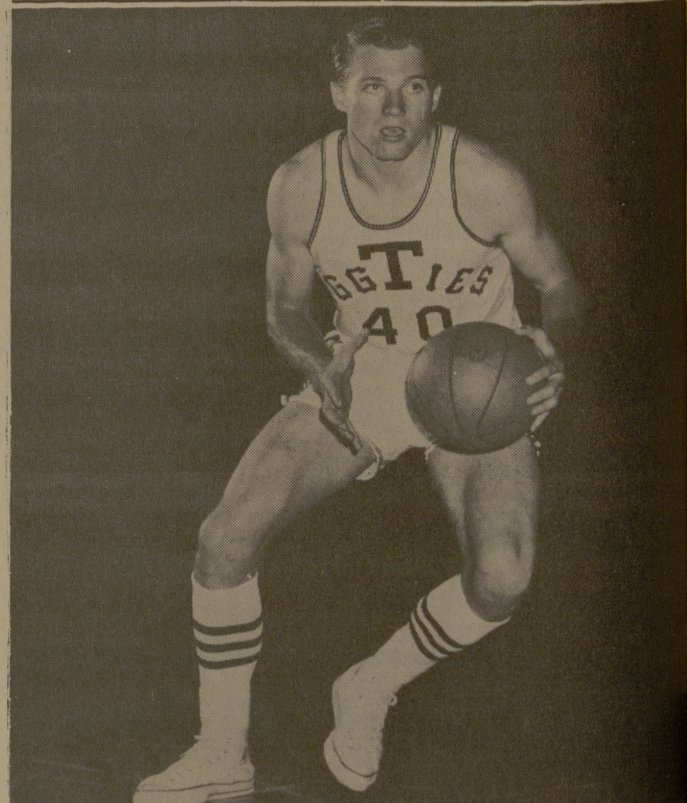

The rest of the game saw the Aggies controlling the ball and trying to catch-up. The team followed the game plan well and had the Tech players confused much of the time. But as this style of play is very precise, mistakes can be frequent because of excessive ball-handling. The Aggies unfortunately made too many turnovers before they could get a shot off.

AS THE Tech players were confused, the crowd was also. Their reaction to the Aggies game plan was quite a bit less than happy. In many ways, they showed their discontent and it did not add to the observation of the ballgame by many of the fans.

BILLY BOB Barnett led the Aggies scoring with 14 points. The Brenham sophomore played probably his best game as he made good on four of seven shots from the field. Barnett also pulled down seven rebounds and performed well on defense for a fine all-around performance.

Coach Shelby Metcalf isn't saying what style his team will be using in tonight's game, but Baylor would probably like to know. The Bears, as well as a hoped for good turnout, will find out after the opening tipoff tonight as the Aggies go into their next-to-last home game.

THE LAMPASAS High School girls drill team — The Flames — will perform at halftime of tonight's game.

The 6-4 sophomore from Brenham was the high scorer Saturday night's game with Texas Tech.

Fish Meet Cubs In Crucial Freshman Game Tonight

By JERRY GRISHAM
A&M's Fish cagers will be fighting for their conference lives today when the undefeated Baylor Cubs come to G. Rollie White Coliseum at 5:45 p.m.

The Cubs, with a season record of 9-1 and an unblemished Southwest Conference record of 6-0, can sew up the league championship with a win over the young Aggies.

The Fish, on the other hand, must win to remain in contention for the conference crown. They stand at 6-3 for the season and at 4-1 for conference play, their only loss in league play coming at the hands of the Cubs in a 83-82 overtime game in Waco.

THE BAYLOR five spent last week polishing off two of the conference's toughest teams, Texas Christian and Texas. The Wogs fell 76-62 and the Shorthorns came out on the short end of an overtime battle 81-80.

The Aggies come into the game after a 10-day layoff, their last game being a 84-70 victory over the Rice Owlets Feb. 11.

After today's game the Cubs have only one more game. They take on a weak Southern Methodist squad which they slammed 87-63 earlier in the season.

A&M VICTORY over the Cubs could go far toward giving the Fish at least a share in the conference crown, but, unlike Baylor, the Aggies have two tough road games ahead. Saturday they travel to Austin to play the Shorthorns and March 2 they finish the season at Fort Worth against the Wogs.

The Cubs will be bringing in the heavy artillery tonight in the form of 6-5 forward Larry Gatewood, whose scoring average for the season is a hot 25.6. Leading rebounder for the Baylor five is a 6-4 forward, Tommy Bowman, who has averaged 16.7 rebounds per game.

THE FISH will go with the combination which has proved good to them this season. Mac Hooten and Bill Brown will start at the guard positions, Oliver Biggers and Mike Heitmann take the forward assignments and Mike Hazel will be at center.

A&M Has Five Signees Named For August 12 Big 33 Game

August 12 is still a long way off, but arrangements are already under way for the Big 33 game in Hershey, Pa.

THE GAME annually pits the best of Texas schoolboy footballers against the best of Pennsylvania's counterparts. It will mark the fourth year of the series and the Lone Star squad has taken two of the three games played thus far.

Five of the athletes that A&M already has in the fold, will participate in the Chocolate City Classic.

LEADING the A&M representatives is Dave Elmendorf, the highly-sought halfback from Houston Westbury. Another Houston product, quarterback Jimmy Sheffield of Waltrip completes the backfield men.

In the line, A&M coaches will be watching Mitch Robertson, 6-3 end from Abilene Cooper, tackle Mike Tighe from San Antonio Lee and guard Allan Sikes from 4A champ San Angelo.

THE TEXAS squad was announced Sunday and there are still some players on the team who are not committed to a school. Two very heralded boys that A&M is interested in along with many others, are among the unsigned. They are fullback Steve Worster from Bridge City and tackle Bill Ateasis from Houston Jones.

Ag Netters Top St. Edwards U.

By CHARLES ROWTON

The Texas A&M tennis team won five out of six singles matches with St. Edward's University and went on to win their first dual meet of the year by a score of six to three.

Number one Aggie netter Pete Faust stopped Lee Marias in the feature match, 7-5 and 6-0, Joe Tillerson took a win from Werner Braun, 6-3 and 6-2, and Marcus Beleck beat Bob Gonzales, 6-4 and 8-6.

Terry Smith had little trouble in winning his match with Bob Murphy, 6-0 and 6-1, and Martin Halpern completed the Aggies' singles wins with a 6-2 and 6-4 victory over John Williams. Tom Farrow topped Carroll Schubert, 2-6, 6-2 and 6-2, for St. Edward's only win in the singles competition.

The Aggies didn't fare so well in the doubles play, winning only one of the three matches played. Tillerson and Smith formed the successful doubles team as they subdued Gonzalez and Farrow, 6-0 and 6-1. They were the only Aggie netters who came out of the meet unbeaten.

The top Aggie pair of Faust and Beleck lost to Marias and Schubert and Halpern dropped their match to Murphy and Williams, 6-4, 5-7, and 6-4.

Coach Omar Smith thought that the performances in the doubles matches the Aggies were ragged but the singles play was excellent. Rightly proud his young athletes, Smith marked that they were tight in play began but soon settled down to take the victory.

The Aggies will take to the courts once again this Saturday when they take on the University of Houston Cougars. According to Smith, Houston has a better than average team with more experience than the Aggies. Houston has more depth than the Aggies but Smith believes the two matches will be fairly close.

The freshmen will be twice as busy as the varsity with matches Friday and Saturday. They play the University of Houston freshmen Saturday in conjunction with the varsity match in addition, facing San Jacinto Junior College Friday.
