

Ags At Austin Saturday For Day Game With Texas

By GARY SHERER
Battalion Sports Editor
The Aggies will take the floor Saturday afternoon at Austin in Texas' Gregory Gym for a 2 p.m. encounter with the Longhorns.
TEXAS WILL be looking to gain revenge for the loss they suffered at College Station last month, 68-59. The Aggies on the other hand will want to top the Longhorns, as a win will give the Aggies their only clean sweep of another Southwest Conference team this year.

Longhorn Coach Harold Bradley currently has his team at 6-5 in the SWC and 12-9 overall. Texas has had good and bad moments this year, as they were expected to be a contender. The team has been averaging over 80 points a game, led by their guard-duo of Noel Stout and Billy Arnold.
Stout, 6-3 senior from Dallas, leads the scoring in the SWC with a 16-point average. He is 16.1 for the season. Arnold, a junior from Fort Worth, is runner-up in SWC scoring with a 15.5 average and is 15.7 for the season.

THE LONGHORNS are on a two-game losing streak in the SWC, falling to Baylor, 101-75, last Saturday and Tuesday night were knocked off by hot Texas Tech, 88-78.
The Steers lost one of their better scorers to academic ineligibility in the form of Dale Dotson. Dotson had been a starter since transferred to Texas from Lon Morris JC last year.

Since losing Dotson, the Longhorns have gone 2-3 in the SWC. This has been the case with Texas all year, however, as they have not been consistent, but have managed to keep a winning record.
The Aggies have won three out of the last five ball games and are now 6-3 at home. However, they have not been able to find the winning touch on the road.

Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf was really pleased with his team Tuesday night when they came back from a 17-point deficit to top Baylor, 71-69. He praised the team for its never-give-up attitude and hopes they can carry their hot streak to Austin Saturday afternoon.
Sonny Benefield still leads the team in SWC scoring with a 12.2 count. John Underwood, Billy Bob Barnett and Ronnie Peret are 11.3, 11.2 and 10.8, respectively.

PERET, Benefield and Barnett are running one-two-three in season scoring with 12.4, 12.1 and 11.0 readings, respectively.
Peret and Barnett are having a friendly duel for the team rebound leadership. Peret is well ahead for the season, leading 186-144. Barnett, however, leads in SWC play with a slim 83-82 margin. None of the other players are close to the two sophomores in this department.

HOWEVER, the third-leading Aggie rebounder is Underwood, and this is quite a feat for the Honey Grove junior, as he plays on the outside. He has still managed to grab off 83 rebounds for the season and 32 in the SWC.
This game will be the next-to-last road game for the Aggies, who are now 5-6 in the SWC and 6-15 overall. They will be home Tuesday night against league-leading Southern Methodist.

Fish Ball Begins Saturday At 8 p.m.

The 1967 Fish Sweetheart will be crowned Saturday night during ceremonies in the annual Fish Ball at Sbis Dining Hall.
A judging committee, including class officers and advisors, plus Aggie Sweetheart Kathi Austin, will choose from seven finalists in the competition whose names were submitted by first-year students here. The seven were among 35 entries, according to Fish Social Secretary James St. John of Dallas.
The candidates are Glenda Jean Phillips, a senior at Winnsboro High School; Karen Cox, a senior at Fort Worth Eastern Hills High School; Janet Feldmann, a junior at Marlin High School; Cheryl Ann Schneider of San Antonio, a Robert E. Lee High School senior; Kathy Frances Crews, a junior at Temple High School; Betsy Stark of San Antonio, a SMU freshman; and Deborah Ann Spurlock of San Antonio, a freshman at Trinity University.
THEIR ESCORTS FOR the dance are, respectively, Richard Conley, Blaine Purcell, Virgil Yoakum, Robert Burnside, Gary T. DeCola, Ken Trawick, and Lewis Radicke.
Theme of the dance will be "Under Water in Blue," according to St. John. Two bands, the Yaks and the Aggieband Orchestra, will provide music.
Tickets to the ball, which will last from 8 to 12, remain on sale from class officers until Saturday night and will then be sold at the door, St. John added.

DRESS FOR the dance will be class "A" winter uniform with white shirts and bow ties for Corps members and black suits or tuxedos for civilians. Girls will wear short or long formals.
Saturday afternoon's activities in preparation for the annual event include a reception at 2:30 in the Memorial Student Center, where the sweetheart candidates will meet the judges. Class President Gerry Geistweidt said the girls will be presented during the ball at 9:30 p.m., and the announcement of the winner is scheduled for 10 p.m.

Texas A&M's military moves front and center March 3 and 4 for military weekend activities.

Two dances—the Combat and Military Balls—and a Corps of Cadets review highlight the weekend. A Saturday luncheon, commandant's reception and President Earl Rudder's buffet for distinguished guests are included in the schedule.

The Aggie Band leads off the review at 2 p.m. on the main drill field.

Colonel Baker will host the commandant's reception for guests at 5:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, with the president's buffet to follow at 7 p.m.

Great Issues Sets Lecture By Time Magazine Assistant

John Scott, special assistant to the publisher of "Time" magazine, will lecture here March 8.

Sponsored by the A&M Memorial Student Center's Great Issues Committee, Scott's 8 p.m. talk in Guion Hall is entitled "Must We Starve?"

The topic is the result of Scott's 1966 visit to Asia, South America and Europe.

Steve Kovich, Great Issues Committee chairman, said the author-lecturer has been making fact-finding trips to all parts of the globe each summer for the past 15 years.

"Immediately upon his return from these journeys," Kovich explained, "Scott writes a book-length, behind-the-scenes report to 'Time's' publisher. When the book is published, he makes up to 200 speeches to business, professional and educational groups around the world."

Among Scott's books are "East of Suez," "Asian Journey," "The New Europe — Can Six and Seven Make One?," "The Soviet Economic Offensive," "Crisis in Communist China," "How Much Progress?," and "Democracy is Not Enough."
Born in Philadelphia, Scott attended schools in the U. S. and Switzerland. He was graduated from George School in Pennsylvania and spent two years at the University of Wisconsin.

Collegian Comments

The Assassination; Did Oswald Act Alone?

Richard Dubois

"I don't agree with the Warren Commission," says Dubois. I've read Garrison's views and he backs his comments with some concrete evidence. There is too much mystery involved." Dubois is a sophomore psychology major.

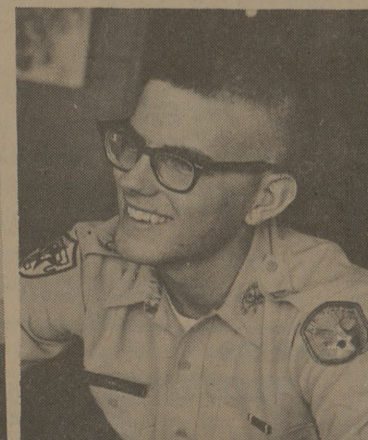

Ross Finley

"There was evidence in Dallas by some telephone operator," says Finley, "who took a call between Oswald and Ruby before the assassination. There are too many things not presented in the Warren Report." Finley is a sophomore management major.

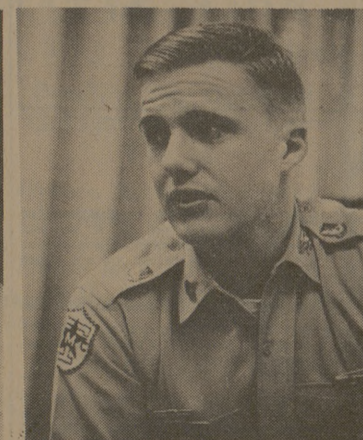

Tom McKnight

"In the light of the Warren Commission and all the articles—the deal in New Orleans for one—I think it was a group—a plot, instead of just a single man," says McKnight, a senior history major.

Chip Hill

"I think it should be investigated again!" Says Hill, a freshman aerospace engineering major. "Everything was rushed over. The Warren Commission's conclusions were arrived at too quickly."

Robert McLeroy

"You'd think such a thing would be very organized," says McLeroy, a senior math major, "and I don't think it was that well organized. It seems like a lot of sensationalism. Lots of people are just putting ideas in the air!"
