

Aggies To Leave For Conference At Illinois College

Four A&M sophomores were to leave this afternoon to attend the Principia College Public Affairs Conference in Elmhurst, Ill., Wednesday through Saturday.

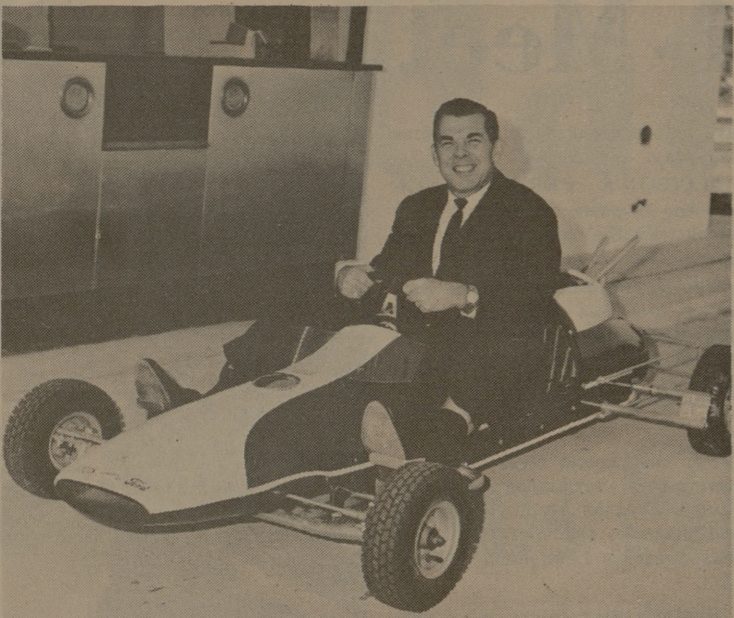

They are Jim Willbanks, Bill Howell, John Fuller and Scott Spitzer.

The four were chosen from the Memorial Student Center's Student Conference on National Affairs committee. SCONA annually sends outstanding sophomores to the meeting, which has been the basis for the A&M program and the Student Conference on United States Affairs at West Point, among others.

Students from throughout the U.S. will discuss the conference topic, "Poverty, Crime, Rights: A Blueprint for Action."

Howell, a chemical engineering major from Brenham, is vice-chairman of SCONA XIII, set for December. He is a member of the Aggie Band and an Army cadet.

The students, assisted by the A&M Student Chapter of the Association of Computer Machinery, will be hosts to AIIE student groups from Houston and San Antonio and to the Senior AIIE Chapter from Houston.

LOTUS FORD GIVEN AWAY
Robert P. Beals, assistant professor of industrial engineering, won the scale model Lotus Ford given away in conjunction with the opening of the Bank of A&M.

Standard Oil Job Comparator Available At Placement Office

A job offer comparator prepared by The Standard Oil Company (Ohio) is available to job hunters at the Placement Office.

The purpose of the comparator is to help the prospective employee decide which of his job offers is the best. Eleven factors are listed to help the individual determine the best job offer. Each one is broken into subfactors to give a more complete picture.

The 11 factors are pay, initial training, supervision, working conditions and facilities, the company, the industry, advancement, benefits, expenses paid, advice or ratings of others, and the job.

An example of the subfactors into which each factor is divided is the breakdown of the last factor, the job. The subfactors are the scope of the job, the degree of delegated responsibility, interest and satisfaction, travel involved, prestige of the job, and the possibility of horizontal moves.

"The comparator lists things that one does not usually consider," W. R. Horsley, director of the Placement Office, said.

"It lists little things that can grow into big things that are important later on. The prospective employee should go over all the things on this list before deciding which job offer to accept."
