By BILL ALDRICH

The Corps of Cadets will take a back seat in campus activities Saturday, as Civilian Weekend swings in with a barbeque, a Town Hall Extra and a dance.

THE FESTIVITIES begin at noon with the barbeque. That afternoon "Randy Matson Day" will be celebrated at the triangular track meet between Texas Tech, Baylor, and Texas A&M. The meet is scheduled for 1 p.m. A proclamation and a plaque will be presented to Matson.

The Aggie baseballers will also be in action at Travis Field against SMU at 2 p.m.

Staff Dinner Ticket Sales End Friday

Tickets for Texas A&M's board of directors-faculty-staff dinner April 24 will be available through Friday, announced Robert G. Cherry, assistant to A&M President Earl Rudder.

Cherry said the $2.50 tickets may be purchased from department heads and directors or at the Memorial Student Center.

The stag banquet in Sbisba Hall includes a 6:30 p.m. reception and dinner at 7:15.

All of the board members plan to be in the receiving line during the reception, Cherry noted.

The program includes after-dinner remarks by Board President H. C. Heldenfels of Corpus Christi.

Cherry said the annual dinner affords faculty and staff members an opportunity to become better acquainted with the university's directors and with each other.

Although billed as a stag dinner, Cherry emphasized that women faculty-staff members are invited.

'Weddings Can Have Humor' Says TWU Panel Member

"No wedding goes exactly according to the plans. The couple should look at minor mishaps as funny and not pay any more attention to them."

This advice was given by Kathy Nairn, a senior elementary education major at Texas Woman's University when she spoke at the last of the YMCA's Man Your Manners programs Tuesday night.

Miss Nairn, from Ft. Worth, was a panelist, along with Jo Gresham, a junior art education major from Grand Prairie; Jill Anderson, a junior interior design major from Amarillo, and Jane Eilers, a sophomore library science major from Sioux City, Iowa.

"The financial responsibility of the groom" was the topic of Miss Nairn.

"The groom is responsible for the wedding rings, the marriage license, the gifts for the bride, the best man and the ushers; the minister's fee, which should be given to the best man who will give it to the minister, and the bride's bouquet and the men's carnations," she said.

Miss Gresham spoke on the length of the engagement.

"I believe that a couple should wait until they can set a definite date for the wedding before they consider themselves engaged and this date should not be too far in the future," Miss Gresham advised.

Miss Eilers spoke on the problem of broken engagements and the differences between formal and civil weddings.

"When a couple is engaged for a long period of time, their attitudes may change and cause the engagement to be broken," she warned.

She also spoke on the problems of parental disapproval of the marriage, basic personality problems of the individuals and cultural differences which may cause broken engagements.

Miss Anderson spoke on the bride's responsibilities in preparation for the wedding.

"The bride and her parents are responsible for the preparation and the expenses of the wedding," she said.

Banquet To Top J-Day Activities

Humphrey, known as the dean of Southwestern journalism will speak at 7 p.m. in A&M's Memorial Student Center. His topic will be "A Newspaperman's Love Affair (or, Would Your Sister Marry a Journalist?)."

A highlight of the evening will be presentation of five departmental awards and 19 journalism scholarships. Dr. Delbert McGuire, head of A&M's Journalism Department, said seven of the scholarships will go to junior college transfers and high school students who plan to enroll at A&M.
