STEER TYING

Typical of action displayed in the 1967 Aggie Intercollegiate Rodeo this past weekend was the "rough and tumble" cadet steer tying contest. Company C-1 won top honors in the contest composed of teams of three individuals, each team representing its respective unit.

SWTJC, Sam Houston Take Top Honors In Aggie Rodeo

By JOHN McCARROLL
Battalion Special Writer

Seventeen college teams competed May 4-6 at the Aggie Rodeo Arena in the last National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's regional contest.

The number one boy's team at the Aggie Rodeo was from South West Texas Junior College. The girl's team winning first place was from Sam Houston State College. Team placing was determined by the number of points compiled by the individuals from the different colleges.

PHIL LYNES from SWTJC was awarded the title of All-Around Cowboy and Willie Greggson from SHSC was selected the All-Around Cowgirl.
Winning teams and individuals in the regional rodeos held throughout the year will compete in the NIRA finals in Saint George, Utah, this summer.
Warren Moore and Johnny Hodges will represent A&M in the national finals.

Mrs. Rehmet Named 1967 Aggie Mother

Mom Of Year Has Three Aggie Sons

By BILL ALDRICH
Battalion Staff Writer

Presentation of Mrs. Joseph R. Rehmet as the 1967 Aggie Mother of the Year will be the highlight of the many events scheduled for Sunday's Parents Appreciation Day.
Mrs. Rehmet was entered by her three sons, all students at Texas A&M. Her oldest son is Joseph Don Rehmet, commanding officer of Company A-2, a senior Yell Leader, a member of the Ross Volunteer Company and a senior civil engineering major.

HER SECOND son is Patrick G. Rehmet, a junior civil engineering major. He is First Sergeant of Company C-2, a member of the Ross Volunteers, chairman of SCONA XIII and Deputy Corps Commander for the coming year.
Larry F. Rehmet is the youngest of the three Aggies. He is a freshman finance major in Company A-1.

In entering their mother, the Rehmet said, "Prior to 1941, the year she married an Aggie, our mother had little connection with Texas A&M. Since that time, though, she has served it in an unofficial capacity in many ways.
"AS PRESIDENT of the Brush Country A&M Mothers Club for two years, she has helped to raise funds for certain projects each year that our Hometown Club has participated in. Also, she has been a sponsor for a number of years of the Duchess from the Brush Country A&M Mothers Club to the annual Agronomy Society Cotton Pageant and Ball."
The presentation will be the highlight of the Memorial Student Center-sponsored program scheduled for G. Rollie White Coliseum Sunday morning at 9 a.m.

Prior to the program will be a flower pinning ceremony in the dorm areas. The mother of the company or squadron's commanding officer will pin a flower on each cadet's uniform.

THE BEST drilled freshmen and sophomores will be announced and at 8:30, unit commanders will be presented gifts from their units.

On the afternoon agenda the Ross Volunteers will perform a special drill on the main drill field at 1:30. The Corps will pass in review at 2 and the Fish Drill Team will present a program at 3. The Ross Volunteers will follow this with a program at the MSC.

Also on the afternoon program is an open house of cadet dormitories from 3:30 - 5 p.m.

Texas Maritime Aggies Stage Spring Dance, Pick Favorite

Texas A&M's sea-going cadets held their first Spring Dance and chose a sweetheart last weekend at Galveston's Galvez Hotel.

Camille Thiel, an 18-year-old senior at Ursuline Academy, was selected the first Texas Maritime Academy Sweetheart. Aggie Sweetheart Kathi Austin presented Miss Thiel at the dance.
A 5'-4" blonde, Camille competed with four other finalists for the title. She was escorted by Harold Brown and plans to attend Saint Edwards University at Austin in the fall.

PATSY STALLINGS, Gwendolyn Bush, Sharon Bush and Kathy

Morrow were the other four finalists.

Miss Stallings, a Houston secretary, was the escort of Van Waggon.
Gwendolyn and Sharon Bush are sisters. The Pecos girls were escorted by G. Wildon Mareno and Robert Wise, respectively.
Gwendolyn is a pharmacy major at San Angelo Junior College and Sharon is a registered nurse.

A Galveston senior at Ursuline Academy, Miss Morrow was escorted by James King.

MISS AUSTIN was the guest of the Academy for the weekend and toured the Galveston campus and "Texas Clipper" for the first time. She was escorted by Thomas Craig, executive officer.

Cadet Commander William Pickavance presented Kathi a "sea chest" in which to keep her Aggie memories. Inscribed on the chest was:

To Kathi Austin
Aggie Sweetheart '67
From the Sea Goin' Ags
Of Texas Maritime Academy

MUSIC FOR the dance was provided by the "Innkeepers" of LaMarque. The dance was sponsored by the Propeller Club of the Port of Texas Maritime Academy. Club President, John Eckert and Secretary Otto Schikschneit presided.

MARITIME SWEETHEART

Camille Thiel was named the Texas Maritime Academy's first sweetheart at the Sea-going cadets' first Spring Dance.

Photo Salon Has Lots Of Variety

Photographs of people, news events, fashion, nature and still life will begin arriving at the Memorial Student Center early this week for the ninth Intercollegiate Photo Salon sponsored by the Texas A&M Camera Committee.

An overall Salon '67 winning picture and photographer will be selected Saturday, May 13, along with three top winners in each of eight categories.

Photographic Society of America exhibitor Joe Hedrick of Lufkin; Herman Kelly, photographer-writer of the Texas Highway Department's travel information division, and Roy Allison, artist-typographer of the A&M Press, will judge entries from colleges and universities across the nation.
Entry deadline for the salon is 5 p.m. Wednesday.
