Madeley said detailed memorandums concerning summer school reservation procedures are now posted in each dormitory.

Parent's Appreciation Day Is Sunday At Texas A&M

Mother's Day is Sunday everywhere, but at Texas A&M the Corps of Cadets takes the custom one step further with Parents' Appreciation Day.

During the seven hours of ceremonies, programs and awards, parents will get a first-hand view of the campus and its activities.

For the cadets, it is the end of a lot of work trying for the Gen. George F. Moore Trophy and the Academic Achievement Award. The Moore award goes to the best overall unit in the Corps of Cadets.

After unit awards are presented in the dormitory areas, a 9:00 a.m. assembly will be held in G. Rollie White Coliseum. Awards will be presented and the "Aggie Mother of the Year," Mrs. Joseph R. Rehmet of Alice, will be introduced.

In the afternoon portion of the festivities, the Ross Volunteers will make their only on-campus appearance of the year at 1:30 on the main drill field.

The Corps of Cadets will then pass in review for the last time before Final Review. The Fish Drill Team, winner of 21 trophies this year, will perform at 3.

From 3:30-5 the Ross Volunteers will present a program in the Memorial Student Center, and the cadet dormitories will be holding open house.

Auto Slams Giant Tree; Aggie Injured

Joseph Ranny McMurtry, 27, Texas A&M University graduate student, suffered serious head and other injuries early Thursday when his auto crashed into a giant oak tree in the heart of the campus.

Bryan hospital attendants reported he remained in a coma late Thursday morning from a possible brain injury.

Patrolman J. D. Gossett of the University security office spotted McMurtry's badly wrecked sedan about 2:30 a.m. He and ambulance attendants pulled the unconscious driver from under the twisted steering wheel. McMurtry had lost considerable blood.

The impact of the car peeled heavy bark from the tree near Bagley Hall.

McMurtry is a graduate assistant in chemistry and had been working late in a Chemistry Building laboratory, the department reported to campus police. Enrolled from Kingsville, McMurtry resides at 401 Dexter Street in College Station. He is working on his doctorate in chemistry.

A Texas A&M graduate, 2nd Lt. Leonard D. Holder Jr., was among five finalists for the 1966 Hughes Trophy to the nation's outstanding Army ROTC graduate.

Holder, presently assigned with the 2nd Armored Cavalry in Amberg, Germany, was among more than 10,000 Army ROTC graduates considered for the award.

The trophy displayed at A&M during the 1966-67 school year was presented to 2nd Lt. Larry Dean Estridge, a Furman University graduate.

Neil L. Keltner of A&M was awarded the 1965 trophy, a three-foot high, 100-pound eagle replica from Hughes Aircraft Co. It stood inside the main Memorial Student Center entrance.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A tilting experimental airplane crashed in a marshy area near Dallas Wednesday. A spokesman for LTV Aerospace Corp. said all three men aboard perished.

Unidentified Man Found Floating In Navasota River

The body of an unidentified man was found floating face down in the Navasota River Wednesday morning by a fisherman whom the sheriff's office declined to identify for purposes of investigation.

The body was found under the Longtulle bridge on Farm Road 2030 about 17 miles from Bryan. The bridge is an old wooden bridge which is seldom used and the location of the body would make it difficult for any one to see it from a passing auto.

Sheriff's officers described the man as a white male, in his late 20's or early 30's dressed in blue jeans, brown belt, dark shirt and multi-colored socks. The man had no identification on him. Sheriff's officers have not ruled out the possibility of foul play but would make no comment pending further investigation.

The body was taken to Hillier Funeral Home. An autopsy will be performed later.

Wilson's Government Scrubs Pooling Of Nuclear Weapons

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government has ruled out — at least for now — all question of pooling Britain's nuclear arms as a way of paying for admission to Europe's Common Market.

High officials reported Wednesday night the British intend going even further. The Cabinet, they said, is on the point of deciding to reject the option of buying the American Poseidon missile to supplant the Polaris in Britain's building fleet of four nuclear submarines.

POLITICAL, money and strategic factors are behind the decision.

The future of the nation's nuclear deterrent was injected by the opposition Conservative party leader, Edward Heath, into the debate on the pros and cons of Britain joining the six-nation Common Market.

Heath's plan for a nuclear-sharing system in Europe — with the British and French deterrent weapons held in trust for other European countries — has been spurned by Wilson, Foreign Secretary George Brown and other government leaders.

BROWN TOLD the House of Commons Heath's idea seemed to him "both dangerous and unwise." He indicated that if adopted it might wreck prospects of an international pact, now under negotiation, to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

The Heath plan nevertheless seems to have caught on among leading members of his own party, who sometimes seem to envisage a nationalist role for Britain in the world, shorn of American influence.

THE FORMER Conservative defense minister, Duncan Sandys, for instance, came out in favor of a European defense community to control both conventional and nuclear forces of member countries within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

On the issue of Poseidon, the U. S. administration already has been given advance notice by Defense Secretary Denis Healey that the ultimate British answer is likely to be no.

New Trial Denied To Jimmy Hoffa

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — James R. Hoffa's fourth motion for a new trial on jury tampering charges was denied Wednesday by U. S. Dist. Court Judge Frank W. Wilson.

Wilson said in an opinion that the Teamsters Union president and three codefendants "failed to establish that their rights were violated in any respect by the government as alleged in the motion," which was filed Feb. 28.

Wilson said the failure of Hoffa lawyers to present any evidence at a hearing Tuesday, in itself, was "sufficient cause for denial."
