

CADET SLOUCH by Jim Earle

"Have you noticed that some of us are impressed with being seniors?"

U. S. Aided Both Israelis, Arabs

The United States has, in the past, given the Arab Nations now involved in the Middle East War more than twice as much military aid as it has given Israel, but the military aid on both sides is far outweighed by American economic assistance.

Government records show $27.6 million in military aid has gone to Israel — mostly for tanks, a few jet fighters and some Hawk anti-aircraft defense missiles.

More than twice that amount — $66 million for war material — has gone to Jordan, aligned with Egypt and Syria in the current fighting against Israel.

U. S. policy generally has been to limit military assistance to the explosive area, but this country has sought to bolster Jordan's shaky position in the Arab world.

Another $161.7 million in U. S. military assistance has gone to Saudi Arabia and fractional amounts to Syria and Yemen.

Egypt has received no military help from this country. The military aid to Arabs and Israelis is far overshadowed by the total of more than $2 billion in U. S. aid for peaceful purposes that has gone to five Arab nations and $1.1 billion to Israel in the past 20 years.

Chain Of Events Causes Accidents

Most of us think of a traffic accident as happening very suddenly. To the driver and his passengers it does seem sudden. However, the more we are able to understand accidents, the more we can observe that accidents and their consequent injuries result from a sequence of events that begin a long time before.

Even though we don't know as much as we should about these events, it seems reasonable that there are many steps that we can take — not only as drivers, but as voters, taxpayers, consumers, parents, even as passengers — to try to interrupt this sequence.

New laws have been passed in an attempt to reduce the tragic toll on America's highways. More are needed. Last year 52,500 deaths and 4,400,000 injuries resulted from traffic accidents. The economic loss caused by these accidents amounted to $9.8 billion.

According to an authoritative report from an insurance company, research is essential. It must be coupled with the new laws, better law enforcement, and a greater stress on driver education.

Research can tell us why and how accidents will occur. Their prevention is still largely up to the driver.

Local Churches Interested In The College Generation

by NEAL COOK
Special Battalion Writer

Most churches, not only here, but everywhere, have become more interested in the college generation and have worked to get it interested in the church.

This is the opinion of J. Phil Kirby, director of the Methodist Student Center at North Gate on the feelings which area churches have in regard to the student population.

"The churches are using many new methods and experimenting in even more ways to attract the college student," Kirby explained.

"At the Methodist Student Center, we have tried 'coffee loft' discussions, films, and guest speakers on controversial topics of interest to students.

"We spent several meetings having discussions on what the true meaning is behind such songs as: 'The Sound of Silence,' 'Help' and 'I Gotta Get Out of This Place,'" Kirby said.

The Methodist Student Center has also been working to get the members to take active parts in the administration of the center.

"We have not gained noticeably in membership this year, but the quality of the students has increased," Kirby added.

One of the achievements which Kirby is most proud is the students tutoring of high school students.

"Several of the high school students were not going to be able to graduate without some help and the A&M student members were happy to spend their evenings helping them," he said.

Kirby said that this year the center reached about 300 A&M students in some manner by the evening programs.

Other College Station churches have also been active in reaching the students.

The A&M Church of Christ had an increase in student membership from 328 last year to 430 this year.

"We try to develop leadership capabilities in our students and they run the student center on an honor system," Thomas J. Seay, minister of the A&M Church of Christ, said.

"The students have keys to the center and they can come and go as they please. They can study here or they can use the kitchen to cook their dinners," Seay added.

The Church of Christ has done away with the title "Student Member" because many of the students have taken on more responsibilities than a "Student Membership" would. They teach classes and sit in on the meetings of the elders of the church.

That the center programs are popular with the students is shown by the fact that eight members are going to go into

Wick Participating In Atomic Confab

Dr. Robert S. Wick of Texas A&M is participating in an engineering conference at Oak Ridge National Laboratory Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Atomic Energy Commission-sponsored conference convened 26 faculty members from southern colleges and universities for discussion of engineering challenges under study at ORNL.

The A&M nuclear and aerospace engineering professor will study lab engineering activities and opportunities. Gas-cooled reactors, a molten-salt reactor experiment and nuclear desalination of sea water are among ORNL projects to be emphasized. Wick is one of two state representatives at the conference.

ARROW SHIRTS at Iva Starnes mens wear the service of the church and plan on beginning their ministerial training next year.

This summer the church will be having a program in which 25 students go to Rochester, Minn., to help in a two-week, city-wide "Campaign for Christ."

These students will spend their time preparing for the campaign and then teaching the church's mission to the people.

The students will pay their own expenses and for many of them, there will be postponing of summer jobs or missing the first semester of summer school as an added price.

"These students will live with families up there and they will learn to work with people and to lead them," Seay explained.

These two churches and their programs for the students are examples of what is being done to attract the student, but every church in Bryan and College Station has similar programs or other programs for the students.

The Catholic and the Lutheran Churches have study rooms for the students and open houses on important weekends such as Mother's Day, Final Review, and all football weekends. At these open houses the students can bring their parents or dates for lunch or a rest.

The Presbyterian Student Center has a study room and on Friday nights it has a "Coffee Loft." This "Coffee Loft" has an open discussion period, folk singing or games for the students.

Another indication of the growth in the desire to work with the students is in the growth of church building programs for these student facilities.

The University Lutheran Chapel and Student Center is about two years old, Our Savior's Lutheran Church and Student Center is only one year old, the Methodist Student Center is in a building which is four years old and the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation of Texas A&M is in a modern new building.

The A&M Church of Christ has plans for a new student center within the next two years.

All of the churches in College Station are trying to give the students the best possible facilities for them to further their knowledge for school and to further their knowledge of the church and the Christian way of life. Whenever a student needs someplace to study, a place for friendly discussion, or an understanding person to tell his problems, he has only to go to the church of his choice.

The Touch Of Time

What marvelous buildings has man erected through the centuries. What lofty and inspiring structures he has created.

But how many of these glorious accomplishments stand intact today? We can see famous ruins the world over — mute reminders that what man builds is not permanent.

Today our buildings contain great slabs of concrete holding hidden wire and steel that will not break with stress. But can we be sure that today's creations will be standing a hundred years or two hundred years from now? Of course not.

Of what can we be certain? What does last? Certainly the gifts of God tower indestructibly today as they have for generations . . . the things of the spirit — faith, hope and love. Our church buildings may crumble or be destroyed, but the fellowship of believers is perpetual throughout the ages.

Discover for yourself the great spiritual truths. Discover for yourself through His Church, those things which endure forever.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
