AN OPEN LETTER!

Hello Aggies—

Welcome back home Aggies! We have missed you.

Well another school year is beginning and it is our hope you do well in all of your endeavors and that you accomplish all of your undertakings.

When you find time for recreation we hope you will visit us and renew old acquaintances. You know we are open 7 days a week 'til midnight and you'll always find some of your friends here.

We've added a brand new 5x10 Carom table to our center and this now gives us 2 - 5x10 pocket tables, 2 - 5x10 snooker tables, 2 - 4 1/2x9 ft. pocket tables, 14 - 4x8 pocket tables, 9 of the latest pin ball machines, Toosball table (the new sensation form coast to coast and a new bumper table. We also have a new supply of jointed cue sticks from $9.95 to $95.00.

Let's all join forces and pull a little harder and help put the Aggies back to NUMBER ONE in 1967. It can be done!

Union Seeks Greater GPR

U. S. Views & World Rapport recently obtained an exclusive interview with Walter Reuthless, head of the United Students Association (USA), and asked about the expected strike against major colleges across the country.

Q. Mr. Reuthless, in this year's bargaining for new contracts, what is foremost on the agenda?

A. Well, this year we're pushing something which we've been pushing for several years now, and that's a guaranteed annual GPR of at least a 1.5.

Q. Just how do you justify such a demand?

A. Simple. We feel that a student shows good faith when he signs up for a course at registration. This should automatically give him a 1.5 in the course because he has helped fill the class quota and thus enables the prof to have a class to teach, for which he is duly paid.

Q. Then what you're saying is that a student could pass a course by never attending class, is that true?

A. Right. Understand, though, that this is only for the minimum GPR. Some students want to make high grades and will want to attend class regularly. For those students we want the number of allowable cuts per semester increased from three to fifteen. This is also a "local demand" for those students in the Department of Journalism at Texas A&M. We're trying to get them 50 cuts per semester.

Q. Is it also true that you want to abolish quizzes?

A. Not so. We want to abolish quiz-taking. It makes a student feel inferior when others in class score higher than he on quizzes and causes him to be depressed. It's discrimination. Quizzes should be optional.

Q. This brings up the question of what you call "note sharing." Would you explain that, please?

A. Certainly. As you are probably aware, we have gone to court over this issue in the past. We think that the school administrations should make it possible for a prof's notes to be made available to the student before a quiz. This could be done by mimeographing with no trouble. If quiz questions come from a textbook, exact pages should be given to study. It's only fair. Hard quizzes are on the upswing. Students should be allowed to know what's on them beforehand.

Q. What is the issue concerning notations in the college catalogues?

A. I'm glad you asked that question. Certain courses, such as English, Chemistry, Math, Spanish, etc., have what we call a "high mortality rate." We want a notation beside these courses which states: CAUTION: Taking this course may be hazardous to your GPR.

Q. Do you think it would help?

A. I seriously doubt it. Students will take these courses because they're required. But it will make some people happy to see it in print.

Q. What about your demand for more say-so in the manner in which some courses are taught?

A. Well, this is only in some areas, you understand. One particular area is in the School of Business. We find that students are being given an unrealistic point of view on what to expect in the world today. They're being taught things like free enterprise, non-government controls and the like. Today a person only needs to know one of two things: How to fill out an income tax return or the correct method of endorsing welfare checks.

Q. What about local demands across the country?

A. We have a few. For example, at Texas A&M there are 2900. These include quiz files in the restrooms of the building in which the particular course is taught, free meals in the cafeteria and a share in its profits.

Q. But how can it have profits if it gives you free meals?

A. That's their problem, not ours. Also, we want drinking fountains in every room and soft drink machines on every floor.

Q. Do you think you can get the drinking fountains in every room?

A. We got the pencil sharpeners, didn't we? Next we want student parking lots and faculty-staff lots completely reserved. We want traffic tickets abolished for students and the fines increased on everyone else's.

Q. Mr. Reuthless, is it true that you are trying to expand your union into a worldwide organization? If so, what is being done now?

A. Well, right now we're thinking of expanding in Europe. We have a man now going from country to country with our cause.

Q. And who is that?

A. Charlie DeGaul.

Q. I thought he had his nose in other affairs.

A. Charlie's nose is big enough for ALL affairs.

Q. Mr. Reuthless, if your demands aren't met, when will you strike?

A. If we don't get a satisfactory contract by Christmas, we'll strike at the end of the semester and picket spring registration.

Q. Is there a chance you'll strike before then?

A. Are you kidding? And lose all of this semester?

Q. One final question, sir. What will you do if the colleges shut down and you don't get back in school?

A. Simple. We'll go join the UAW and be plant sweepers. For $9,000 a year, who needs a college degree?

Deadline Approaches For Who's Who

Texas A&M nominations for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" must be made by Friday, Dean of Students James P. Hannigan announced.

BEULA

Forms for nominating seniors and graduate students are supplied at ballot boxes in the Housing Office, Commandant's Office and Memorial Student Center. Nominations also may be made through the various deans. The Red Cross reported 30,622 evacuees reached 158 emergency shelters at scattered points by 5 a.m. It said there were 622 shelters available with a total capacity of 492,000.

Marine Recruiters Will Visit Campus

A Marine Corps officer selection team is on campus this week to explain the Corps' commissioning programs and interview prospective students.

Capt. C. G. Pool, who heads the Austin-based team, said representatives will be available to meet with students at a booth in the Memorial Student Center daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through Friday.

The Marine officer also will be featured speaker for a meeting of the Texas A&M chapter of the Semper Parvulus Society at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Room 107 of the Biology Building. The society is primarily composed of students who are enrolled in one of the Marine Corps officer training programs.

The Marine Corps conducts a Platoon Leaders Class program for undergraduates, beginning as early as the freshman year, and an Officer Candidate program for students who have already received their degrees.

In the next few years, Du Pont engineers and scientists will be working on new ideas and products to improve man's diet, housing, clothing and shoes; reduce the toll of viral diseases; make light without heat; enhance X-ray diagnosis; control insect plagues; repair human hearts or kidneys; turn oceans into drinking water...

and anything else that you might think of.

The 165-year history of Du Pont is a history of its people's ideas—ideas evolved, focused, and engineered into new processes, products and plants. The future will be the same. It all depends upon you.

You're an individual from the first day. There is no formal training period. You enter professional work immediately. Your personal development is stimulated by real problems and by opportunities to continue your academic studies under a tuition refund program.

You'll be in a small group, where individual contributions are swiftly recognized and rewarded. We promote from within.

You will do significant work, in an exciting technical environment, with the best men in their fields, and with every necessary facility.

Sign up today for an interview with the Du Pont recruiter. Or mail the coupon for more information about career opportunities. These opportunities lie both in technical fields—Ch.E., M.E., E.E., I.E., Chemistry, Physics and related disciplines—and in Business Administration, Accounting and associated functions.
