

CADET SLOUCH by Jim Earle

"There's no mystery to it! I did like you said and studied!"

Sound Off

Editor, The Battalion:

I would like to say a few words in defense of the "non-regs"...

A little question for C.H.R.—How many of the Corp Freshmen do you think would attend the Yell Practices if they were not forced to?

Another point stressed by the biting author, was the fact that the civilians want all the glory and the best seats after obtaining their spirit an hour before the game...

game. If he was, then he should have been soaking wet like the rest of us out there...

Last, and worst of all we civilians are accused of hogging all the student seats in Kyle Field at the game...

I found this letter completely out of taste and was a deliberate slur on the civilian student...

Sincerely, Dan Morgan

It seems "frosh" Morgan has little knowledge of Aggie tradition. So you will know in the future, "frosh" Morgan, yell practices are held Monday and Thursday nights on weeks of away games and Monday nights and midnight Friday nights on weeks of home games...

Kissing On First Down???

John Hotard

This past weekend in Dallas may go down in history as a first in the annals of Aggie football watching.

I had a date with a Tessie. My first. It may well be my last. Now then, before all you Tessie fans get violent, let me explain. School affiliation had nothing to do with the problem...

To keep a harmonious relationship between the two schools, the merits and faults of Tessies will not be discussed here.

The problem was that this girl had never attended an Aggie game. In fact she wasn't too sure what a football game was.

Now there are obvious advantages — and obvious disadvantages — with a date such as this. To wit: "What time does the game start?"

"Kickoff is at 7:30." "What time is it now?" "5:30."

"Then why are we sitting here by ourselves in the stands?" "See that line down there? That is the fifty-yard line. I am a senior. I have been going to school a long time. I have seen many Aggie football games...

"I have a question. How will I know when the good guys—the Aggies—come on the field?"

"Haven't you ever seen a football game before?"

"No." "NO?! You mean you have NEVER... not ONCE?? ... O.K. Listen. See that large opening at the end of the field? Pretty soon men in uniform will come out of there...

"Gotcha. I think they're coming now. I see men in uniforms... there they are... a whole bunch of them... people are wildcatting... Hey!... they're carrying musical instruments... and playing marching music... they look just like a band."

"I was in my high school band." "You were? I thought you said that you had never seen a football game? Didn't your band play at the games? What did you do during the game?"

"I always talked to the girl who played the piccolo. We never watched the game."

(She talked to the piccolo player. Women. I wonder if that junior over there needs a date to the game...)

"By the way, there are certain traditions that we observe at

A&M football games. For instance, every time A&M makes a first down or completes a pass, the Aggie kisses his date."

"Says who?" "Whatayamean, 'Says who?'" "Nobody. It's tradition."

"I don't believe you. A girlfriend of mine says it's only when you score."

Boy, 16, Declared Adult For Trial

GEROGETOWN, (AP) — Dist. Judge Kirby Vance bound over 16-year-old James Wolcott to the Williamson County Grand Jury Tuesday after a closed-door examining trial.

Purpose of the trial was to determine if there was sufficient evidence against Wolcott in the Aug. 5 slaying of his parents and sister to send the case to the grand jury.

Vance refused to discuss Tuesday's proceedings, saying trials had been reversed for premature disclosure of evidence.

County Atty. Sam Stone, the Williamson County juvenile judge, certified Wolcott as an adult and bound him over to district court jurisdiction.

The bodies of his father, Dr. Gordon Wolcott, a Southwestern University biology professor; his mother, and his sister, Elizabeth, 17, were found shot to death in the Wolcott home.

A&M's Rifle Team Opens Competition

Texas A&M's rifle team opens its 1967-68 season Saturday, firing against Prairie View A&M on the six-point range in the Military Science Building.

The Saturday morning match will be the first of 15, according to Maj. Luther Crum, officer-in-charge.

A National Rifle Association All-American shooter, Christopher M. West of San Antonio, will lead A&M's old hands into the inaugural match. Others who will shoot Saturday are David P. Bailey of Waco and William P. Herring of Clint, sophomores; senior John W. Schuepbach of

British Psychologist Sees End To Engagement Period

LONDON, (AP) — Engagement rings are doomed. White wedding will be rituals of the past. Couples will wed only after they've lived together. Who says all this? Psychologist James Hemming in "Marriage Guidance," official publication of Britain's Marriage Guidance Council.

Most British cities have state-supported marriage guidance councils where citizens may go for free advice on marriage and marital problems.

If Dr. Hemming is right, the word marriage itself could become obsolete, replaced by the expression "pair-bound."

Dr. Hemming says that to the next generation marriage will no longer be regarded as the only respectable way of having any sexual life.

"Social emphasis will not be on maintaining chastity at all costs," he contends.

Instead, couples will concentrate on "sincerity, mutual concern and responsible mate selection."

He does not prophesy that marriage will go completely out of style.

He says marriage will become "a social statement of intent, if and when partners desire it."

His article is entitled "Is There a Future for Marriage?"

What does the Marriage Guidance Council think of Dr. Hemming's views?

Said Gerald Sanctuary, secretary of the council: "My personal view is that Dr. Hemming is wrong. The developments he predicts would mean later marriage and less marriage."

This new Norelco Rechargeable Tripleheader packs the longest charge in history. Or economics. Or math. Or wherever you shave.

And it delivers twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable. All you have to do is charge it overnight for two weeks of close, fast, comfortable Norelco shaves.

Either way you'll get Norelco shaves that are 35% closer. So close, we dare to match them with a blade.

But comfortable too because Norelco Microgroove™ floating heads and rotary blades stroke your whiskers away without a nick or a pinch.

There's a pop-up trimmer for sideburns. Altogether, more features than any other shaver.
