

Aggies Face Tough Raiders

By GARY SHERER
The Aggies get their second Southwest Conference test at Lubbock's Jones Stadium tomorrow night. The competition will be provided by the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

The Tech-men were picked for a fourth place finish in pre-season forecasting but as everyone knows, upset the apperant with a 19-13 victory over Texas. The Aggies SWC record stands at 0-1 after the opening day setback at the hands of Southern Methodist.

RAIDER Coach J. T. King has an experienced offense to work with this season. The attack is under the leadership of junior quarterback John Scovell. The rangy field general has been piloting up some impressive total offense figures in Tech's first three games.

Scovell has adequate help in halfback Mike Leinert, fullback Jackie Stewart and end Larry Gilbert. Clearing the way up front will be toughies like tackle Stan Edwards, guard Phil Tucker and center Jerry Turner.

Over on the defense side, King was supposed to have trouble, as he lost most of his defensive unit from last season. However, the supposedly 'green' defense has held their opponents to 20 points thus far. One of the top huns on defense is linebacker Ed Mooney. The 235-pound shotputter from New York has received great praise from Tech opposition this season.

PROBABLY the most effective part of the Tech attack is its place-kicking duo of Ken Vinyard and Jerry Sanders.

Both specialists have 50-plus field goals to their credit from last season. Vinyard performed for the varsity last year and sophomore Sanders played with the Tech freshman team.

Any time the Red Raiders get inside the 50-yard line, they become a distinct threat, with a pair of talented toes on the bench, ready for those three-pointers.

Aggie Coach Gene Stallings says his club is in the best shape of the last two games for the Tech encounter. He has made some more changes in the defensive unit in addition to the ones made last week. Regular split end Tommy Maxwell has been moved to safety and regular safety Curley Hallman has moved to defensive back.

Jimmy Adams who started out the year at end (has been moved back to split end for the Tech game. The sophomore from Houston was moved to a defensive back post for the LSU and Florida State games at the defensive post.

Stallings hopes these changes will help the play of the defensive secondary which he was unhappy with after the Florida State game.

THE AGGIES, now 0-4 for the season are picked as underdogs to the Red Raiders. They were also picked as underdogs last season when Texas Tech came into College Station. The Aggies ran over Tech 35-14 and the win started a three game streak that gave the Aggies an early season SWC lead.

Both teams will be high for the game. A sell-out crowd is assured as SRO will be the order of the night. Both these facts make certain it will be a bang-up SWC affair.

The Aggies looked the best yet last week while Tech was upset by Mississippi State. A loss for the Maroon and White would seriously hurt their chances at contending for the conference crown.

This game is the first of the six remaining conference games for the Aggies this season. It is a must game for the Maroon and White and a win would put them solidly on that road back to the SWC top.

AP Picks Hogs And Tech

Three more chances to make the intersectional record respectable and two games counting heavily in the standings are on the Southwest Conference football schedule for the weekend.

The conference games send Texas A&M to Lubbock to test crestfallen Texas Tech and Arkansas to Waco to engage Baylor. Both are night games.

THE AGGIES are seeking their first victory after dropping four straight games, while Tech is trying to rally from an unexpected trouncing from the winless Mississippi State last week.

Tech is favored by about a field goal's difference on the obvious basis that the Mississippi State licking will react to the Red Raiders' benefit. It should get them down from the clouds on which they floated after their glittering triumph over Texas.

Arkansas is a solid selection over Baylor, which has had a season similar to Arkansas, winning its first game last week. Arkansas was moving in old time style as it shuffled Texas Christian into a 26-0 defeat. Baylor barely managed to clip victoryless Washington State 10-8.

The Razorbacks are rated better than a touchdown over the Bears. ARKANSAS, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist lead the conference race with 1-0 records.

It's the time of the Texas-Oklahoma clash that always packs them into the Cotton Bowl whether the battle is important to the rankings or anything else. Texas and Oklahoma meet for the 62nd time with the Sooners boasting an unbeaten record but Texas favored although it has lost two.

The Longhorns, having some problems with injuries, and Oklahoma fearing some of its boys won't be in top shape as the result of a virus outbreak, tangle before 75,504 Saturday afternoon. The odds favor Texas by four which is close enough to indicate a see-saw game going into the final minutes for a decision.

The big weekend starts Friday night when Southern Methodist, which seems to be in its best shape since the opener with Texas

A&M a month ago, tries an Army team that compares well with the 1966 outfit that compiled an 8-3 record.

Army is rated three points better and that's about the same situation that existed in 1966 when the Methodists played Navy in the Cotton Bowl. But SMU won that one and with quarterbacks Mike Livingston and Ian Perez available again and only regular end Sam Holden on its doubtful list, the Mustangs could swing back onto the victory rail after losses to Missouri and Minnesota.

THE OTHER intersectional pits Rice against Northwestern of the Big Ten at Houston Saturday night. Again the Southwest is favored with Rice being accorded a touchdown edge.

Rice won one of the four intersectional games the league has been able to boast this season when it clipped Navy two weeks ago. And while Northwestern is rated as good if not better than the Tars, the Owls remain solid choices.

Top U.S. Pros In Ryder Match

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper and Julius Boros head the 10-man U.S. team of professional golfers favored to beat Britain's best in the 17th biennial Ryder Cup matches here next weekend.

THE TOURNEY - toughened Yanks are shooting for their 14th victory in a series dating back to 1927. They've lost only three times — the last time in 1957 at Lindrick in Leeds, England.

The site of the matches is the Champions Golf Club, a picturesque, relatively flat but exacting course built by two ex-Ryder Cuppers, Jack Burke and Jimmy Demaret.

Twenty-four 18-hole matches will be played — eight Scotch foursomes Friday, eight four-ball matches Saturday and eight individual contests Sunday. The Americans won 9½ to 12½ at Southport, England, two years ago.

THE BRITISH are sending over a seasoned team consisting of seven veterans and three newcomers.

Two of the invaders, Peter Alliss and Bernard Hunt, have played in 21 matches each. Palmer, the season's leading money winner on the American tour with more than $180,000, has played in 16 but he has won 11 compared with nine for Alliss, the best mark of the British.

Palmer, Casper, Boros and former Open champion Gene Littler have been on three Ryder Cup teams while Johnny Pott has played on one. Five newcomers on the U. S. squad are Bobby Nichols, Al Geiberger, Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders and Gardner Dickinson.

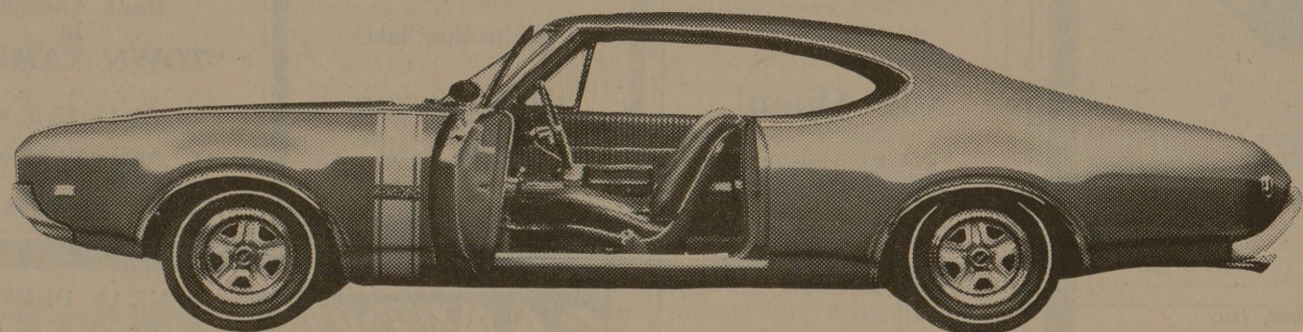

THE AMERICAN team is unique in that it is missing both the reigning U. S. Open champion, Jack Nicklaus, and the Professional Golfers Association titleholder, Don January.

'68 Oldsmobile: Great spot for a sit-in.

You're looking at the year's sweetest place for a sit-in—Olds 4-4-2. This is the scene: Louvered hood up front. Crisp sculpturing in the rear. Rally Stripe and Custom Sport Wheels available in between.

And what gleams beneath that rakish afterdeck? Two telltale flared exhausts that give voice to a 400-cube, 4-barrel, 350-hp Rocket V-8.

And look where you live: in foam-padded, bucket-seat comfort.

The center console is also available, as is the clock/tach/engine gauge Rally Pac.

And with all the new GM safety features, including energy-absorbing steering column, 4-4-2 is the greatest sit-in you ever sat in.
