ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Running back Brad Johnson, safety Jake ... and offensive tackle Wayne ... were suspended indefinitely from the Georgia football squad for violating curfew over the weekend.

weekend, Coach Vince Dooley said Monday.

Johnson, a junior who backs up the starters at both fullback and tailback, had gained 184 yards rushing for the sixth-ranked Bulldogs, who play at Houston Saturday night.

Scott, a sophomore, was the starting safety and one of Georgia's top offensive players in the secondary.

Byrd, a sophomore, was the No. 2 offensive tackle.

"These players violated the curfew rule over the past weekend," Dooley said in announcing the suspensions. "We have taken disciplinary measures against them, including indefinite suspension from the squad."

All Block - No Carry For Schneider In 1967

Dan Schneider, a fullback converted to tackle, had a big hand in Texas A&M's 21-3 victory over the Baylor Bears here last Saturday.

When sophomore tailback Larry Stegent broke through the line for his 11-yard touchdown run it was Schneider who blocked him into the open. Danny threw a lot of good blocks against the big, tough Bears in that game.

Schneider, from Trafford, Pa., never played tackle until this season. When he first came to Texas A&M he was a halfback. But an injury to Ronnie Lindsey just prior to Schneider's sophomore year forced the Pennsylvanian to learn the fullback duties and he played there his sophomore and junior seasons.

Blocking has been Schneider's long suit and when the Aggies came up with a shortage of offensive linemen last spring Coach Gene Stallings called on Schneider to fill one of the gaps.

Football fans in the Southwest would know a lot more about Schneider except for injuries. During spring drills prior to his junior season he fractured a shoulder and this put him behind Lindsey in their duel for the fullback job. They ended up sharing time there.

This year, against LSU, he received a gash across his forehead that required some 18 stitches. A lesser person might have sat out a few games but not Schneider. He didn't even miss practice, though he did work without a helmet and was kept out of contact drills.

Stallings often has said, "Schneider works as hard as anyone on our squad. Football is important to him and he'll be hard to beat out regardless of what position he's playing."

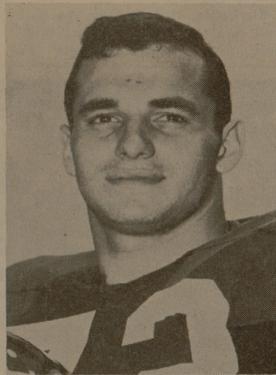

The Aggie offensive line last week knew they had a big, strong defense across from them. That Stegent was able to run for 138 yards is a credit to the offensive line's blocking.

The 21-year-old Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schneider of Trafford, played fullback at Trafford High. He was all-conference and also competed in basketball and golf.

He's a physical education and biology major who plans to coach after graduating from Texas A&M.

But, before that he has some big blocking chores coming up as he heads toward his final three collegiate games—against Arkansas, Rice and Texas.

The Detroit Tigers have drawn more than one million fans to Tiger Stadium for the last 24 baseball seasons. The 1967 figure of 1,455,614 was the highest since 1961 and the second highest since the record of 1950.

A mailing fee of 25 cents should be included in each order.

O. J.'s Injury Hurts USC

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Southern California's top-ranked Trojans face the possibility of going the rest of the season without ace halfback O. J. Simpson, the nation's leading rusher.

Simpson's foot injury, suffered in the 28-6 victory over Oregon, was diagnosed as more serious than anticipated—a sprain in the right arch.

Coach John McKay declared Simpson out indefinitely although O. J. said, "The doctors told me maybe two weeks."

Still to play for the Trojans are California, Oregon State and UCLA in that order.

"O. J. is the one who got us where we are," said McKay. "Now we've got to do it on our own."

In seven games with USC, after joining the Trojans this year as a junior college transfer from City College of San Francisco, Simpson has rushed for 1,050 yards and passed for 42 more, 3 of the aeriels going for touchdowns.

McKay hopes Simpson can return for the Oregon State and UCLA games, but added, "He can't run now, and if he can't run, he can't help us. I doubt if he'll play much more football for us—if any—this season. The doctors tell me he is out indefinitely. He is on crutches now."

After suffering the injury, Simpson was able to walk and this brought original optimism that he would be out only a couple of days.

Loss of Simpson was the second blow to the Trojan backfield. Earlier fullback Mike Hull was lost for the season with a knee injury.
