Aggies Try To Kick Jinx At Homecoming In Ozarks

By JERRY GRISHAM
 For the first time in the 1967 football season, each and every member of the Southwest Conference is playing someone in the family. As a result there are only four games involving conference members.

The league leading Texas Aggies take to the mountains Saturday in an attempt to bring home the bacon and ruin the Arkansas Razorbacks' homecoming.

A look at history indicates a rough afternoon in Fayetteville for the visiting Cadets. The Porkers never fail to get up for the homecoming game and have won nine straight of the contests. In last year's contest the Hogs clobbered the SMU Mustangs 22-0 for the Ponies only conference loss.

THE GAME will be the Aggies 13th visit to an Arkansas homecoming. The Hogs lead the homecoming series 6-4 with two ties. The Aggies, with a 7-6 win in 1957, were the last visitors to win a Hog Homecoming. It was also the last time the Ags downed the Porkers.

The SMU Mustangs have taken two straight victories from the Texas Longhorns and hope make it three in Dallas Saturday as they try to get back on a winning trail and at the same time knock some of the steam of the resurging Horns.

The momentum, however, with Texas as the Longhorns have won four in a row while Ponies have not notched a victory since the A&M win Sept. 16.

The Rice Owls and Texas Tech Red Raiders, both with visions of cotton bolls still dancing their heads, tangle at Lubbock.

THE INJURY bedeviled the Longhorns last year when they lost yet another player in a Texas game. "Utility man" Dick Phillips will be out of action against Tech with cartilage damage to his knee. Robby Shale is not expected to see duty as a quarterback for Rice but is reported that his shoulder mending satisfactorily. It was injured in the LSU opener last season.

Neither Baylor nor TCU has a conference win so far but Baylor is a tie one of the two will bring a league victory safely home Saturday when the sun sets on the Baylor stadium.

THE BEARS, blessed with great defense, will have the edge over the Frogs who haven't been able to muster an offensive this all season.
