

College Papers Give Support To RFK, EJM

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey of college newspapers across the nation shows that editorial endorsements in the Democratic presidential race are predominantly split between Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn. But the editorials are in agreement in urging the defeat of President Johnson.

Editorial comments vary from calling Kennedy's entrance into the campaign a "malicious display of political opportunism"—Daily Illini, University of Illinois—to praising Kennedy as someone who can return the nation to the "ideals of the New Frontier"—The Spectrum, New York State University at Buffalo. McCarthy was praised for breaking "the somber barriers of apathy . . . and giving hope to a Democratic party which was rapidly becoming a detached, atrophied clique of party hacks"—The Daily Princetonian, Princeton University.

Even newspapers which supported Kennedy had praise for McCarthy.

"We feel nothing but admiration for the courageous Minnesotan who gave so many students renewed hope in a political process that seemed—and may well be—in capable of coping with the nation's crisis," said the Harvard Crimson.

THE CRIMSON gave its endorsement to Kennedy, and urged McCarthy "to step aside in favor of Kennedy who offers the best hope of winning."

In Wisconsin where McCarthy is now campaigning, three major college newspapers are supporting the Minnesota Democrat in the primary. Editors of the newspapers say any switch to Kennedy would not come until after the April 2 primary.

THE MILWAUKEE Post at the University of Wisconsin said Tuesday in an editorial endorsement of McCarthy for the primary:

"It is clear that the United States will not end the war in Vietnam of its own volition as long as Johnson is president, and it is also a safe bet that Richard Nixon, the likely Republican nominee, would not win the war either."

YR Members Will Attend State Meet

Sixteen delegates and seven alternates will represent Texas A&M at the annual Texas Young Republican Federation Convention this weekend in Ft. Worth.

The main purpose of the convention will be to elect officers, ratify a platform, and conduct other business. As one of the largest clubs in the state, A&M Young Republicans will have a major vote in these matters. "Although the convention is not expected to be as controversial as last year, there will be plenty of issues before the delegates, one of the most important being redistricting," according to convention chairman Gordon Sorral. Cadets will act as Sergeant-at-Arms at the convention, under the leadership of club treasurer Charles Chesnut.

Burt Co-Authors Fresh English Text

Dr. Forrest D. Burt of Texas A&M is co-authoring a freshman English text to be published next year.

"The Forand Writer" will be the combined efforts of Burt and Dr. Anthony Dube, English assistant professor at Texas Wesleyan College.

The book will follow an integrated inductive approach to writing, stressing student learning of coordinated concepts. It will integrate concepts presently scattered through several texts.

Allyn and Bacon will publish the book, to be completed in late August. The title consists of the first three letters of the authors' given names. Dr. Dube goes by Andy.

An assistant professor, Dr. Burt is co-chairman of freshman English. He will present a paper, "A New Methodology for Psychological Criticism of Literature," in a March 29-30 Conference of College Teachers of English at Southwest Texas State, San Marcos.
