

Billington On 'Hope'

Robert J. Billington of Omaha, Neb., a graduate architecture student at Texas A&M, will represent the university this fall aboard the "Hope" ship in Ceylon.

Billington, a 21-year-old distinguished student seeking a master of architecture degree in health facilities research, will join the "Hope" staff Sept. 1.

The "Hope," a 15,000-ton hospital ship, is the principal activity of the People-to-People Foundation of Washington, D. C. Objective of the independent, non-profit corporation is to teach medical, dental and technological personnel in developing countries the latest techniques of U. S. medical science.

Edward J. Romieniec, A&M's School of Architecture chairman, said Billington, who worked with the Peace Corps in Samoa last summer, will spend four months with the "Hope" to help add an architectural dimension to the over-all program.

Romieniec noted Billington was chosen from 14 applicants because of his professional experience in foreign countries. In addition to the Samoa assignment, he studied architecture in England in the summer of 1966 as an exchange student. He also has traveled in other countries with his parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. R. J. Billington, now living in Nokesville, Va.

"Billington's education and comprehension of health planning problems will be greatly enhanced by this experience abroad," Romieniec commented. "We at A&M are proud to contribute to the 'Hope's' program."

Billington is to receive six collegiate hours of credit toward the master's degree, which he is scheduled to earn at the end of the fall term.

Hospital Plan Experts Visit Architecture

Two hospital authorities will visit Thursday with graduate students in the School of Architecture's program in health facilities research.

Edward J. Romieniec, School of Architecture chairman, said architect James Moore, president of Medical Planning Associates, Malibu, Calif., and Drexel F. Toland, assistant administrator of Baptist Memorial Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., will discuss new concepts in health facilities.

Romieniec, who called the visitations an important, practical aspect of architectural education, noted Moore is involved in the planning of 36 hospitals across the nation.

NEW KYLE FIELD

This photograph, believed to be the first aerial shot of Kyle Field since completion of the second deck on the east side, was taken recently by the navigator on an RF4C Phantom reconnaissance jet piloted by 1965 A&M graduate Lt. Robert D. Smith. Lt. Smith presented prints of this and another aerial view to Squadron 2 Commander Tinker Heckman last week when Heckman's unit toured Bergstrom Air Force Base where Lt. Smith is stationed. Heckman said the lieutenant plans to give one of the prints to Coach Gene Stallings.
