finished for this school year. REBEL students striving to close the 25,000-student Ivy League university altogether mounted a boycott of classes Monday morning. By noon, about 300 manned token picket lines before more than a dozen buildings. But after minor early morning shouted and jeered at unsympathetic students and staff members striding through their lines. The original aims of the student protesters appeared lost in the brief history of their revolt.

Before city police stormed the five buildings they occupied and arrested 720 persons in the dead of night last Tuesday, they already had won a suspension of construction of a university gymnasium on a city park separating Columbia from Negro Harlem.

THE SECOND goal, dissolution of Columbia's ties with a defense research project, has been quietly shunted aside lately.

Now the students, backed up by segments of the faculty, are demanding a wider student and faculty say in running the university. The administration has said it will study this demand.

The movement to call off formal classes almost four weeks before the official end of the term May 29 was led by Columbia College, two centuries old and largest of the university's units. Its faculty voted to take that step Sunday

THE PRESTIGIOUS School of Journalism and the anthropology department followed Monday morning and then 12 more units announced they would hold only informal classes for the rest of the semester.

Only nine units tried to hold normal, every-day classes but rebel leaders claimed support from 5,000 students and that their strike was 95 per cent effective. The university administration furnished no attendance liberalism" and "Columbia and warfare state." Columbia College gave its students the alternative of taking either a passing, failing or incomplete grade on the basis of their work as of April 23. If they were unsatisfied with any of these, they were told to speak with their professors and work out individual solutions. ADMINISTRATION officials, who merely threw open the doors scuffling, the pickets merely and instructed the university's various units to fend for themselves, gave no indication what this meant for seniors or whether commencement exercises would be held.

The police department, meanwhile, defended itself against charges that it used undue force in clearing the five occupied buildings at 2 a.m. last Tuesday. The department countered that the demonstrators and sympathetic faculty members outside waged large-scale violence on its "POLICE were punched, bitten

Gen. Johnson To Appear At Final Review

U. S. Army Chief of Staff Gen. Harold K. Johnson will address new second lieutenants at commissioning ceremonies here

General Johnson will be the distinguished military guest for the 1967-68 Corps of Cadets' final full-dress event of the year, announced Col. Jim H. McCoy, commandant.

Final Review will follow the 1:30 p.m. commissioning in G. Rollie White Coliseum. Commencement will be at 9 a.m.

General Johnson, 56, has been at the Pentagon since 1963 and became chief of staff in 1964.

During his 35 years military service, the Pembina County, N.D., native served in the Philippines, Bataan, Korea, Germany and in other parts of Europe and the Far East.

THE WEST POINT graduate participated in the death march after the fall of Bataan in April, 1942. The Japanese imprisoned him at Camps O'Donnell and Cabanatuan and Bilibid Prison in the Philippines. While being moved to Japan in the winter of 1944, allied aircraft twice attacked the ships. After transfer from Japan to Korea, he was liberated by the 7th Division following its occupational landing at Inchon in September 1945.

Johnson attended and served on the faculty of the Command and General Staff College of which he was later to be commandant. Returning to command, he served in the Far East during 1950-51 with the 5th and 8th Cavalry Regiments and the

The 33rd Degree Mason was joint war plans branch chief, plans division assistant chief and executive officer of the assistant chief of staff's office during his first Washington tour in 1953-56.

JOHNSON WAS promoted to brigadier general in 1956 and was assigned assistant commander, 8th Infantry Division, which gyroscoped to Germany. While there he was chief of staff of 7th Army Headquarters, Stuttgart-Vaihingen, and the Central Army Group, a NATO headquarters which planned peacetime employment of troops and their control in event of armed conflict.

General Johnson returned to Fort Leavenworth as commandant in 1960 and became an assistant deputy chief of staff at the Pentagon in 1963.

The recipient of Boy Scout Silver Beaver and Silver Buffalo awards wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit with three Oak Leaf Clusters, Bronze Star and Combat Infantryman's Badge among other decorations.
