

A&M Awarded Communications Unit

Texas A&M will receive the gift of a radio communications system through the efforts of a 1925 graduate.

Alvis A. Ward, chairman of the board for LTV Ling Altec, Inc. of Anaheim, Calif., announced his company will provide 14 VHF 30-watt radio transmitters-receivers made by the Du Mont Mobile Communications Division.

The radios will be utilized by the University Security chief, the Electronics Department of the James Connally Technical Institute at Waco, and the Texas Engineering Extension Service.

TEES officials said the radios will be used in the Texas Firemen's Training School, the Police Training School and the Electronics Institute.

LTV Ling Altec, Inc. is a subsidiary of Ling-Temco-Vought of Dallas.

Industrialists Due For Confab

Some 300 industrial relations leaders are expected for the 18th annual Texas Industrial Development Conference here Sept. 12-13.

The annual two-day meeting is sponsored by the Industrial Economics Research Division of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at Texas A&M. It is co-sponsored by the Texas Industrial Development Council.

Earl Rudder, Texas A&M president, will welcome conference participants.

Theme for the 1968 meeting is "Industrial Development in the Seventies." Conference leaders will discuss total economic growth of the community.

"We're concerned with helping a community grow through economics," said Conference Director James R. Bradley. "We try to promote all industrial facets."

Bradley, head of the sponsoring unit, pointed out the conference is usually attended by Chamber of Commerce representatives, realtors and utility personnel as well as civic-minded people "just interested in their community."

Keynote speaker is Jay C. Casey of Oklahoma City. Casey is director of the industrial development division of the Oklahoma Industrial Development and Park Department.

Two panel discussions on transportation and industrial relations will highlight first day sessions. A third panel program, "Stump the Experts," will be held Friday as a question and answer period between panelists and conference registrants.
