Seminoles Impress Stallings

By JOHN PLATZER
Florida State, the Aggies' opponents in Tallahassee this Saturday, was a good football team with an impressive defense in their 9-3 loss to Florida last weekend, according to A&M head coach Gene Stallings.

"I was really impressed with them defensively more than anything else," Stallings said at yesterday's press conference.

Stallings watched the Florida State-Florida game on television in his New Orleans hotel room before leading his team to a 35-3 victory over Tulane that night.

Instead of watching the performances of individuals during a game on television, Stallings watches the more general play of the teams.

"ON television I watch what they're trying to do formation wise more than anything," the Aggie athletic director said.

A pair of Florida State's top receivers, Ron Sellers and tight end Chip Glass, also left an impression on Stallings.

Stallings praised his team's performance in their win over Tulane saying that "they played a lot better than against LSU."

"Anytime you give the ball up without kicking, it's demoralizing to your team and stimulating to theirs and they usually get good field position out of it," Stallings said of the effect of an interception.

THE AGGIE head coach said that Ross Brupbacher did a good job at fullback particularly in the blocking category. Brupbacher will definitely start against Florida State but Stallings hasn't decided whether it will be on offense or defense as of yet.

A&M got out of the Tulane game with no new injuries but neither fullback Wendell Housley or middle guard Winston Beam have recovered enough from previous injuries to play in Tallahassee.

Aggie Fish Clash With Wogs In Real Grudge Match Tonight

By RICHARD CAMPBELL
The Texas A&M Fish football team is in Fort Worth tonight taking on the highly-touted TCU Wogs in a grudge match to even the score following their 17-15 defeat of a year ago in College Station.

Rover, Mike Lord (203); Halfbacks, Edwin Ebroom (185) and Chris Johnson (179); and Safety, David Hoot (185).

The TCU Wogs will greet Fish with one of the best it has recruited in recent years. Coming off a 3-2 season in the Wogs will feature 37 District selections in high school with six making the All-South team. Against the Fish, young frogs hold a 14-4-2 record and hope to improve on that night.

The Aggie Fish will field one of the most talent-laden teams ever recruited by Coach Gene Stallings but Fish Coach Jim Keller was reluctant to speculate on the final outcome of the game.

Three of the new freshmen crop will not play because of injuries. Steve Luebbehusen will miss this game because of a broken hand, Rick Oberlies will miss the first two games with a dislocated elbow, and Willis Winters is probably out for the season with a knee injury.

The remaining schedule for Fish will be: Baylor at Waco, 7:30 p.m.; Rice at College Station, 7:30 p.m.; Texas Tech at Lubbock, 7:30 p.m.; and Texas at College Station, 1:30 p.m.

"I know what the boys can do in practice, but I would hesitate to guess at their overall performance without ever seeing them play," Keller said. "However, the boys have exhibited a real fine attitude in practice and if that counts, then they'll be in the game all the way."

Handling the punting chores for the Fish will be Joey Herr and Lanny White with Billy Martin kicking placements.

O'Neal Paces SWC Punters

Southern Methodist's passing factory, headed by Chuck Hixson and a whole batch of Mustang receivers, is turning out a new line of Southwest Conference records and by the end of the season, the whole record book may be obsolete.

The Aggies are the top defense unit, yielding a 304.0 yard average in two games.

Hixson, last week's Associated Press Back of the Week, continued his assault last Saturday by completing 37 of 69 passes for 417 yards in a 35-14 loss to Ohio State. All three figures are SWC records.

Hixson's exploits put him out front in passing and in offense. The sophomore also has completed 64 passes in two games for a total of 700 yards and five touchdowns. His total offense figure is 695 yards to his minus five yards gained rushing.

Flanker Jerry Levias is Hixson's chief supporting character. He took over the conference lead in receiving with 15 receptions against the Buckeyes. Levias now has 20 catches for the year.

Norman Bulaich is back at the top of the rushing column, sitting out last year at TCU, an injury. Bulaich lugged the 20 times for 154 yards in Frogs' 28-17 victory over LSU.

SMU receivers practically own the league's receiving department. Led by Levias, the Ponies hold down four of the top five places in receiving.

Texas Tech's Larry Allford is instrumental in the Raiders' prising victory over Texas Tech, off punt returns of 84 yards to boost his punt return lead.

Steve O'Neal of Texas A&M continues to lead in punting with an average of 46.4 yards on 14 boots.

Alford's 84-yard return all the way for a touchdown. Ford has returned seven punts 208 yards through Tech's games. He won the punt return title last year with 320 yards and 32 returns.

FAILURE

You'll never get anywhere without it.

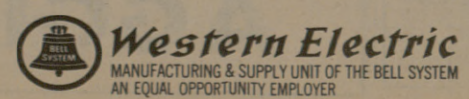

Nothing helps a young engineer's career like being given a challenge. Which is another way of saying a chance to fail now and then. To make his own mistakes.

At Western Electric we give our newly recruited engineers responsibility almost immediately. They make their own decisions. Learn from their own errors. Don't get us wrong. We keep our demands reasonable enough so that our recruits can make their decisions at their own pace. But our thinking is, a man feels awfully good about even a small decision when it's his.

If you're the type who'd like the chance to make your own moves, see our recruiter or write College Relations, 222 Broadway, New York, N. Y. 10038.

A lot of hard work never hurt anyone.
