The Campus Chest Makes Its Bid

The Student Senate Welfare Committee has a productive year ahead of it—if the Moral Re-Armament League doesn't get to it first.

The Committee's major project, collection of funds for the Campus Chest, was introduced somewhat memorably last month at the first Senate meeting. Chairman David Howard made a brief talk on the Campus Chest's background; then, with remarkably dead-pan innocence, he described the accompanying contest to find "Miss Campus Chest." While Senators muddled that one through, he added that the slogan would be "Put Out for the Ags."

The bemused Senate accepted that, more or less, in that same candid spirit—with tongues tentatively in cheek. At Tuesday's "Kick-Off Dinner, though, the plot thickened. Student leaders and advisors got the word, including Howard's report on a project like that outlined below, which he termed a "car bust" ("We sorta saw a connection between a 'car bust' and 'Campus Chest,'" he pointed out, in case anybody missed it.)

The audience loved it. Student Leaders are Ags, too, after all. And for that matter, so are the rank and file who will be called on to contribute—and that's no incidental consideration.

All in all, the campaign shows imagination and vigor and every indication of record success. The committee just may have found an anti-apathy formula with truly broad appeal.

Editor, The Battalion:

This is an invitation to all Aggies and their dates or wives to participate in the Walton Warrior's SPIRIT HAPPENING. This SPIRIT HAPPENING will be a car smash held this Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. There will be two car bodies placed between Walton Hall and the hospital with spirit signs painted on them.

The smashing will be done by sledge hammers and will cost 25 cents for 3 hits. If anyone can put a hole in the metal with one hit, he will get one (1) extra hit free.

Come to the SPIRIT HAPPENING and smash the hell out of Texas Tech.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Story
Treasurer, Walton

"tell you what I'd do"

Although this is not a sports column, it is about time that something definite is said concerning the World Series. The only definite thing that can be said is that nothing definite is happening around here.

I can remember back in the old days in a West Texas town when the World Series was just about the most important even of the year. The World Series was like New Year's day for seven days out of the year. School might as well have been dismissed. Intercoms blared the games and scores were posted on bulletin boards between classes.

Everyone participated. No one ever turned down a bet on a game. Just to be able to bet many times, a person would bet against "his" team. Some days you would bet on one team and on another day on another team just to be able to say you were a part of "it."

Things are sure changing. No one has that "seven-day hearing aid" in class. No one is rushing around to get last-minute bets for the office pool. As a matter of fact, just about half the people I've talked to this year don't even know who is playing.

It is a sad state of affairs in this great nation when such a pastime as baseball is overlooked in the hustle-bustle of the world. If something is not done by next year's Series, there surely is something to worry about. What could come next... Mom's Rhubarb Pie?

In an attempt to further the exchange of ideas between College Station and Austin, we reprint in its entirety a blazing editorial from The Daily Texan:

"Despite the prompt action of our maintenance department in placing trash cans in the area of Hogg Auditorium, the refuse still remains littered around the cans.

"More shouldn't have to be said, but maybe students could strain themselves and put their trash in the cans provided."

The crusading journalists from t. u. finally have stumbled onto the solution to all their problems. Next week we are rooting for an editorial endorsing appropriating new funds to build a six-acre trash can to dispose of some of the refuse who are left around the Forty Acres.

In response to the flood of cards and letters into this office, we would like to say: "Yes, there probably are bumper stickers available to all of you armadillo breeders."

If you have not obtained your bumper sticker, please send us a card or letter telling why you want one. We will forward all requests to the Armadillo Breeders Association International office and will let you know when and if they will be available to you at the Battalion Office.

MSC Will Begin 'Coffee House' Service Friday

A coffee house recreation center for A&M student couples will open in the Memorial Student Center Friday.

According to Steve Simpson, MSC Directorate finance chairman, the coffee house will be for Aggies and their dates only, and no person without a date will be allowed in the coffee house.

The probable hours for the coming weekend are from 8-12 p.m. Friday, 10-12 p.m. Saturday, and 2-8 p.m. Sunday. At press time no regular hours had been scheduled for the coffee house.

Entertainment for the coffee house will be folk singing groups and a free jukebox.

Anyone interested in auditioning as a folksinger should contact Karen Conlee in the finance office of the MSC, Simpson noted.

A concession stand will furnish refreshments at the coffee house.
