

Two Ags Promoted

Recent promotion of two A&M graduates in the U. S. Army included presentation of the colonel's silver eagles to Russell B. Jones Jr. of Takoma Park, Md., a 1944 graduate.

Colonel Jones, member of the electronic warfare study group at Arlington Hall Station, Va., received insignia from Maj. Gen. Charles J. Denholm, Army Security Agency commander.

The new colonel studied electrical engineering at A&M. He was a Company "A" Signal cadet and on the composite regimental staff.

Vincent D. Coreil was promoted to captain in Vietnam. The 1966 graduate in industrial education is assistant operations and training officer in the 268th Combat Aviation Battalion near Phu Hiep. He was a cadet lieutenant in Company B-2 in 1965 and a member of the Sky Diving Club, among other student activities.

NYT Refuses To Take Back Agnew Blurb

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times was asked again Wednesday to retract editorials critical of Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, Republican vice-presidential nominee, but the paper refused, a Times official said.

Harding F. Bancroft, the Times' executive vice president, said George W. White Jr., Agnew's campaign manager and lawyer, stated he felt Agnew had been libelled and the Times had taken a "dishonest action."

Bancroft said he told White he disagreed. Bancroft said White did not threaten to file a libel suit.

THE TIMES published one editorial Saturday, a second Tuesday and a third Wednesday criticizing Agnew in connection with a real estate purchase and with directorship of a bank while holding office in Maryland. The Times said Agnew's activities presented conflicts of interest and made him unfit to be vice president.

In its Wednesday editorial, the paper said, "The Times unequivocally rejects the charges of libel." It said Agnew's denial of conflict-of-interest charges "underscores his inability to perceive the ethical judgments demanded of persons in high positions of public trust."

THE TIMES said it did not accuse Agnew of violating the law, but only suggested "that he failed to act with sufficient sense of propriety in maintaining the essential distance between public office and the very possibility of any private gain that might be derived therefrom."

Agnew commented in St. Petersburg, Fla.: "I had a great deal of respect for the New York Times and when they came out and endorsed me for governor in 1966 I thought they had some sense.

A&M Staffers Contribute To Book On Cotton Production And Utility

Six men associated with Texas A&M contributed to a new book, "Advances in Production and Utilization of Quality Cotton: Principles and Practices."

One of the three editors of the 532-page volume is Fred Elliott, Extension Service cotton specialist.

Co-authors of chapters are Dr. T. R. Richmon, USDA agronomist attached to the A&M Soil and Crop Sciences Department; Lambert H. Wilkes, Agricultural Engineering Department; Dr. C. D. Welch, Extension soil chemist;

Dr. L. S. Bird, Plant Science Department; and Dr. D. E. Logganecker of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Station at El Paso.

The book gives basic information on cotton production. Beginning with history of the crop, the chapters move into morphology, physiology, soil and insect tillage, planting and cultivation, weed control, fertilization, irrigation, disease and insect control, harvesting and harvest aids, and ginning.
