

Aggie Fish Clinch Title With Win Over Yearlings

By RICHARD CAMPBELL
The Texas A&M Fish, bolstered by a weak Texas kicking game, put on one of their famous fourth quarter defensive shows Friday to edge the Yearlings, 14-13, and clinch the Southwest Conference freshman championship.

On route to their fifth straight victory of the year and the first undefeated A&M freshman year in modern history, the Fish showed 14,000 Shrine Benefit fans in Kyle Field just how important kicking is to a football team. In all, they blocked a punt, forced three Texas field goals to go awry and caused a missed extra point which was the margin they needed for the win.

In the final stanza, the Yearlings were forced to punt with a fourth down and 16 to go situation from their own 13. Tommy Woodard got off a 39-yarder but the play was called back because of a Texas offside penalty. Woodard again dropped back to boot, this time from five yards deep in his own end zone, but he never got the punt away as Edwin Ebron rushed in from the left side and blocked it. Middle guard Mike Muller pounced on the loose pigskin in the end zone for the touchdown. Billy Martin, a kicking specialist from Conroe booted the winning extra point but the game was far from over.

In the first quarter, the Fish drew first blood as David Odom returned a Woodard punt 28 yards to the Texas 38. On the first play of the series, Fish quarterback Joe King stepped back into the pocket and fired a 38-yard bomb down the left sideline to Dallas Bryan Adams speedster John Garner who latched onto the pass at the ten behind defender Tex Allhouse for the score. Martin converted and the Fish were ahead, 7-0.

Later in the quarter however, the Yearlings rode the running of Bertelsen and Paine to move 48 yards in seven plays capped by quarterback Tony Adams' four-yard ramble to even the score. After Mike Yudziky's conversion it was 7-7.

The second quarter belonged to the Yearlings as Adams hit pinpoint passes to Woodard and Tommy Lee. Bertelsen also added to his 81 first-half yards as the Yearlings moved 47 yards in nine plays to go ahead, 13-7. Adams got the score with a five-yard plunge but Yudziky's attempt was wide and the score remained 13-7 as the half ended.

The active fourth quarter found the blocked punt coming before even a minute had expired and the Fish took the lead to stay, 14-13. With eight minutes left, the Yearlings had a sustained drive going from their own 45 to the Fish 30 when Adams was separated from the football and Fish linebacker Cliff Thomas fell on it to end the march.

Five Ags Named To All-SWC

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Only Texas' Chris Gilbert and SMU's Jerry Levias were unanimous selections on the Associated Press 1968 All-Southwest Conference football team picked by the coaches. From there the voting was close and hectic, just like the season.

Texas A&M's Edd Hargett won the quarterback job by one slim ballot over sophomore star Bill Montgomery of Arkansas.

The balloting for offensive center came out in a dead heat—for Rodney Brand of Arkansas and Calvin Hunt of Baylor. The same thing happened in voting for fullback. Jackie Stewart of Texas Tech and Steve Worster of Texas ended in a tie.

Mike Richardson, SMU's bulldogish halfback, won the other halfback spot alongside Gilbert, the SWC's all-time leading ground gainer.

Deryl Comer, Texas' hard-blocking 210-pound junior, won the tight end job. At tackles, the balloting lined up Richard "Truck" Stevens of Baylor, a 235-pound linebacker's nightmare and tough Terry May of SMU.

At offensive guards, Jim Barnes of Arkansas and Don King of Texas Tech ran away with the most votes.

On defense, the only sophomore to make the first team was Mike DeNiro of Texas A&M at defensive end. Richard Campbell, Texas Tech's 225-pound junior from Matador, nailed down the other terminal spot.

The tackles went to Texas' dynamic duo of Loyd Wainscott and Leo Brooks.

The guard positions went to Larry Adams of TCU and Rolf Krueger, A&M's versatile defensive lineman who can play several spots in the trenches.

Cliff Powell of Arkansas and Bill Hobbs of Texas A&M grabbed off the linebacking spots just ahead of a fast-closing Bruce Portillo of SMU.

The three defensive backs selected were Larry Alford of Texas Tech, Jim Livingston of SMU and Gary Adams of Arkansas. Although Alford and Adams are primarily safeties the coaches gave them numerous votes and various positions in the defensive secondary.

The kicking specialists on the team are Kenny Vinyard of Texas Tech for the extra point and field goal booting duties and the punter is Steve O'Neal of A&M who has a knack of stopping the ball dead near the opponent's goal.

Montgomery is the sophomore-of-the-year and Gilbert, the player-of-the-year.
