U.S. Holding Lead Over Soviet Arms

By TIM SEARSON

Soviet military policy and trends in the past decade have been overrated, according to Air Force Capt. Edward L. Warner.

Warner, a political science instructor at the Air Force Academy and an expert on Soviet military capabilities, told an audience of 100 in the Memorial Student Center ballroom Wednesday night that in his opinion, the Soviets are making advances in their potential, but have not yet excelled the United States.

All Aliens Warned To Register By End Of January

All aliens in the United States must report their addresses during the month of January, according to John W. Holland, director of the San Antonio District Immigration Office.

Report forms should be picked up, filled out and returned to any post office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Holland noted that parents or guardians of aliens under fourteen years old should submit reports for such children.

He warned that willful failure to comply with reporting requirements may lead to serious consequences.

"Of course, all information furnished by aliens has been declared confidential by statute," Holland added.

16 Cowan Paintings On Exhibit In MSC

Sixteen paintings and prints of works by sportsman-artist John P. (Jack) Cowan are on display in the Memorial Student Center.

The Contemporary Arts exhibit will be on view until Jan. 20, announced Committee Chairman Don Prycer of Edinburg.

Cowan's water color paintings feature authentically detailed scenes familiar to hunters and fishermen of the Southwest.

The Pratt Institute Art School graduate is recognized for his realistic style of painting and remarkable attention to detail. Cowan's realism derives in part from close personal involvement with his subject matter while hunting and fishing.

His work has illustrated "Life," "Look," "Sports Afield," "Colliers," "Fortune" and "Saturday Evening Post" magazines. Thirty Cowan paintings, will go into "Golden Crescent," a limited edition book on the Gulf Coast outdoors by Houston Chronicle outdoors editor Bob Bristler to be published next spring.

Black Students Seize Building At Brandeis U.

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—Dissenting Negro students crippled the Brandeis University communications system Wednesday in a non-violent bid for virtual autonomy in Negro affairs on campus.

University President Morris B. Abram called the seizure of Ford Hall an affront to the university community. The faculty voted condemnation of the action and called on the approximately 70 Negroes to abandon their demonstration.

The students answered by barricading doors to the three-story red brick building. They said they had enough food stockpiled to last three days.

Wednesday night Abram entered Ford Hall for about 10 minutes to talk with the students.

In a statement following the brief meeting, Abram said he "had no intentions of negotiating the demands under the present circumstances."

Negro men blocked entrances to the building which houses the university switchboard, faculty offices and an auditorium. They also barred doors to an adjacent building containing laboratories and the university computer.

Abram said the last thing he wanted to do was to summon police.

The Negroes presented a list of 10 "non-negotiable" demands, including:

—Establishment of an African studies department with power to hire and fire and an independent budget.

—Establishment of a year around recruitment of black students by black students and headed by a black director.

—Immediate action on hiring of black professors.

—Establishment of an Afro-American center to be designed by black students.

Abram contended that the students acted "without prior complaint to the administration." He said that lines of communications within Brandeis have "always been open and have been blocked only by the force employed by those who have seized the facilities. . . ."

by Superior Court Judge Edward O'Day only hours after students and teachers had bombarded police with stones, bottles, sticks and fireworks during a violent melee.

AND ACTING President S. I. Hayakawa, his voice breaking and his hands shaking slightly, told newsmen for the first time since the strike began:

"Attendance is not normal." O'Day, acting on an application by state college trustees, temporarily banned picketing and other strike action by the American Federation of Teachers, Local 1352, Trustees also seek unspecified damages.

Wednesday's violence came after the AFT, for the second straight day, lost control of the picket line and jeering, profanity-shouting students took over.

AFTER THE line had swelled to about 1,000, police moved about 12 men into the line to open a corridor to allow non-strikers to enter the campus.

Officers herded strikers into 19th Avenue, a main thoroughfare. Traffic was immediately backed up and street cars were brought to a standstill.

During the confusion, a striking AFT member, Ron Daidle, 32, was knocked down and injured by a street car—an incident which seemed to trigger a barrage of rocks, bottles, two-by-four lumber and fireworks at police.

POLICE reinforcements were rushed from staging areas and their number swelled to about 150. Mounted police galloped into the lines of retreating students.

Five persons were arrested then and police continued to pull student strike leaders from the picket line the remainder of the afternoon.

Hayakawa said "striking faculty will soon eliminate themselves" if they fail to report to work for five days, which by law means they automatically resign.

The teachers, besides supporting student demands, seek better pay, official recognition, more voice in campus policy and other demands.

STUDENT strikers have 15 demands, including autonomous Black Studies Department, liberal admission requirements for minority students, resignation of some school officials and amnesty for those facing discipline for strike activity.

Hayakawa told a news conference the picket line was a "marching circus" and added that "internally the campus functioned beautifully."

Of the college enrollment, about 2,000 are nonwhite and 836 are Negroes. The AFT claims to represent one-quarter of the school's 1100 faculty.

'Hams' To Test Emergency Plan For Brazos County Disasters

By JANIE WALLACE
Battalion Staff Writer

Members of the Brazos County Amateur Radio Emergency Corps, consisting mainly of A&M students, will conduct a simulated emergency test of the Brazos County emergency plan on Jan. 25.

The plan will provide the Bryan-College Station area with emergency facilities, in the event of a disaster that might damage or incapacitate normal communications," said Franklin H. Perry, emergency coordinator of the American Radio Relay.

The AREC is a group of amateur radio operators who volunteer their time and radio stations so that the area will never be without communication because of failure of telephone, telegraph or power lines.

The test, conducted nationally by the Amateur Radio Public Service Corps, will emphasize cooperation with Red Cross chapters and civil defense agencies.

Perry's control station with call letters WA5RXO, is located at 202-D Spruce Street and will direct all operations. If necessary, an alternate control station will be operated by David Hoffman, WA5SQT. A number of mobile short-range radio stations will be situated at strategic points around Bryan-College Station and a long-range fixed station will supply contact with distant points.

Also, a mobile cruising unit will be operated by Jess Rhoden, WA5KXC. The local network will be tied in with the National Traffic System for swift communication with points outside the local area.

As a part of the test, participating amateurs will originate messages to their section emergency coordinators and civil defense directors will communicate with civil defense officials at the state and federal level. Red Cross chapter executive officers will report by radio to area and national offices through the National Traffic System and other facilities.

The AREC is a part of the National Amateur Radio Public Service Corps. Other local operators participating are Ed Campbell, K5SQRT; Brian Drex, WB2HEY/5; Steve Pearce, WN5UDV; and Gene Whitehurst, WA5GZX.

'Hot Poop' System To Improve

Several improvements in telephone dial-a-announcement will make for "better and more dependable service," Ed Cooper and Logan Weston jointly predicted recently.

"We think it's going to work much better and be more dependable," said Cooper, director of civilian student activities.

THE NEW communications system was initiated soon after the start of the fall semester. It is a part of the campus Centrex system.

"All a student has to do is dial 845-6311" added Weston, YMCA general secretary. "He then gets the latest announcements."

Several changes have occurred since the program first got underway in the Student Program office located in the Memorial Student Center.

IT HAS BEEN moved to the Housing office in the YMCA Building. Major areas of interest—including the University Calendar, Athletic Department, Corps Commandant's office, civilian student activities and student program's offices—are checked daily for items of interest, Weston pointed out.

In addition, individuals and department personnel may call Weston's office, 845-1626, and dictate news information between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., for recording.

ONE REASON for relocating the recording instrument was to keep announcements current, Cooper said.

"Announcements would get off late because the office was not open in the evening," he noted. Recording is now done between 8 and 8:30 each night.

Weston pointed out, too, that persons with messages can get them recorded if they call before 8 p.m.

NEW announcements for the next day may be heard after 8:30 p.m.

Saturday and Sunday announcements must be recorded Friday evening. However, a new recording replaces the old one Sunday night for Monday announcements.

"Monday announcements should be placed on Friday when possible," Weston urged.

COOPER SAID he felt the improved service would be a "great help" to day students.

"It is convenient for day students to call at night and learn what is going on the next day," he added.

The system operates with 10 rotating lines to accommodate students and faculty-staff members.

Weston said the telephone company will soon place a monitoring device on the recording instrument to help his office determine the number of persons using the service and peak periods.
