ON OTHER CAMPUSES

By MONTY STANLEY
Happy '69. If only there were words to describe what a groove it is to return from Christmas in California to Finals at A&M. But rest assured there aren't.

The only news received at the Batt office has consisted of papers out just before the holidays, so don't expect to be really snowed today. The only big news came from Tarrant County Junior College, and it's sad. It looks like their rodeo club may disband at mid-semester. It seems the president of the club is quitting school to join the Air Force, while the vice-presidents have jobs which will keep them from participating.

There is a ray of hope from Austin, however. Editor of the Daily Texan, Merry Clark, in her typically dynamic journalistic style, has promised to fearlessly press the important issues in the new year. Flowering her editorials with her favorite dynamic expressions such as "the editor hopes," "the editor especially hopes," "the editor prepared this list," and "the editor believes," the editor of the Daily Texan indeed presses on.

It was reported earlier that at Texas Tech, the fall '69 semester would start the last week of August to complete the semester before Christmas. The same proposal has now been made at Texas, but is meeting heavy opposition from the faculty. The new schedule would eliminate those nine remaining school days between Christmas vacation and semester break. These protesting profs say that time is needed to allow the students time to get into an "intellectual frame of mind before exams." Honest, straight out of the Daily Texan. How's that for a grabber? That's what we all said to ourselves as we excused ourselves after the turkey dinner to finish up that term paper, isn't it? "Boy, it'll be good to get back to school and get back into the proper 'frame of mind' for my finals!" It really makes one feel sorry for the students at those schools like the University of Oregon, the University of California, or the University of Washington, all on the quarter system, who are forced to leave school for Christmas with their work completed, and who are then forced to start off the new year fresh, with a new school term.

A more accurate description of this lame-duck semester period we're in now came from a girl at TWU, who called the session a "2 1/2 week hangover of the Old Year into the New."

Students and faculty members at North Texas claim their brand new University Theater is already haunted. Several said they have heard voices calling for help through air-conditioning ducts and have seen locked doors open.

Coordinating Board Sees Big Growth In Education

AUSTIN (AP) — Higher education is already the largest industry in Texas and it promises to double in the next 12 years, the Coordinating Board for the Texas College and University System reported Thursday night.

The board, of 18 members, completing a three-year survey of Texas education, presented its report to legislative and executive leaders of Texas.

"The average citizen has no idea of the magnitude of higher education," board Chairman John Gray of Beaumont said.

"ALTHOUGH higher education is already the largest industry in Texas, it promises to double in the next 12 years. Enrollment in public colleges and universities will increase by 102 per cent, and private institutions will grow by 34 per cent."

Gray said enrollment in higher education facilities will increase from 375,000 in 1969 to 707,800 in 1980.

To care for this growing mass of student population, Gray said, will take by 1975, a total of $401,400,000 in federal, state and local funds for additional public facilities, and about $404 million in state funds annually for educational programs.

THE BLUEPRINT for progress outlined by the board used three basic points in its plan. It is designed to (1) care for the rapidly increasing growth in enrollment, while (2) providing a rising level of excellence in higher education, in (3) the most efficient and effective methods possible.

The blueprint divides the higher education system in three component groups—community junior colleges, senior colleges with program expansion possibilities through first-level graduate offerings, and complex universities with program jurisdiction over doctoral-level graduate work and post-baccalaureate education for the professions.

THE BOARD recommended creation of 53 community junior college regions, each an area where most of the community junior college students will come and where at least one junior college district is feasible during the next 20 years.

The board also recommends creation of six new senior colleges—four-year institutions in San Antonio and Houston and upper-division colleges in Midland-Odessa, Corpus Christi, Dallas, and Houston.

Other senior college recommendations call for stabilization of enrollments in existing institutions and acceptance by the University of Texas System board of regents of the Southwest Center for Advanced Studies in Dallas.

THE COORDINATING board recommends establishment of new medical schools in Houston and Lubbock, and increased enrollments at existing facilities.

Establishment of a new dental school at San Antonio was recommended along with state help in expansion of Baylor University College of Dentistry to ease the dental problem.

McCarthy Yields Membership On Foreign Relations Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a surprise move, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., surrendered Thursday the Senate Foreign Relations Committee seat that had given added drive to his all-out assault on the administration's Vietnam policies.

And he turned it over to one of the Senate's foremost hawks—Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo.

McCarthy's official explanation, read by his office, was that he wanted to facilitate a reduction in the committee size and allow Senate Democratic leaders to keep a pledge to restore McGee.

THE STATEMENT did not cover why McCarthy, in view of his strongly held views on the war, would give up the highly prestigious forum on international affairs to a successor who has solidly backed the Vietnam military effort.

McCarthy, a Minnesota Democrat, made a long, hard-fought battle for the Democratic presidential nomination on an anti-war platform.

After he lost the nomination to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy said he would continue to air his anti-war views.

HE INDICATED he would utilize the foreign relations post as a principal forum.

In an 11th-hour, lukewarm endorsement of Humphrey for president, McCarthy said he would not again seek the Democratic nomination for president nor run for re-election to the Senate as a Democrat in 1970.

He has since given no further hint of his political plans.

men. He said that at the first meeting a resolution had been passed to have a Fish Weekend this year, instead of just a Fish Ball.

This would mean, Vickers said, that there would be activities Friday night and Saturday as well as the formal dance Saturday night.
