Whiteley Plans To Attend D.C. Inaugural

At least two Bryan-College Station residents, Dr. and Mrs. Eli L. Whiteley, will attend the inauguration of President Richard Nixon and related activities.

Whiteley, associate professor of agronomy, is one of 297 Congressional Medal of Honor winners invited to participate in the Washington festivities.

Prior to the Monday swearing-in ceremonies, the couple will be guests for a U.S. House of Representatives' Veterans Affairs Committee reception Friday, and American Legion reception and the inaugural gala Saturday and a State Department luncheon and governors' reception Sunday.

After witnessing the inauguration, Dr. and Mrs. Whiteley will sit in the White House reviewing stand for the inaugural parade and attend the inaugural ball Monday evening.

Whiteley, a 1942 graduate of A&M and native of Georgetown, won his Medal of Honor in a World War II battle with German SS troops for the fortress city of Sigolsheim, France, Dec. 26, 1944.

He is one of six former A&M students awarded the nation's highest honor during World War II. Four of the awards were made posthumously and the fifth recipient died in 1963.

Whiteley estimated 175 CMH winners will attend the inaugural activities.
