AN EVENT-FILLED NIGHT

It was an unusual yet profitable night for the Aggie cagers in Lubbock Saturday as they dodged everything from turkey eggs to ice-filled cups and coins thrown by the Tech spectators and still managed to outplay the Red Raiders 71-70. In the photo at left Tech coach Gene Gibson and Aggie coaches Terry Trippet and Jim Culpepper clear the floor of the eggs that crashed down when A&M's starting team was announced. Steve Niles (52) looks down at Tech's Jerry Haggard (25) as A&M's seven-foot giant gets set to jump for the injured Sonny Benefield. (Photo by Mike Wright)

About 200 reserve seats remain for tonight's Aggie-kansas basketball game. Reserve seat tickets, priced at $1.50 each, will go on sale at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the athletic bureau office in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

General admission tickets priced at $1.50 each, will go on sale at 5:30 p.m.

There are no more reserve tickets remaining for the Aggie-SMU game here Friday night. The last of them were sold Monday morning.

Aggies Set Sights On Throne

By JOHN PLATZER
Attempting to cinch at least a tie for the first Southwest Conference basketball championship since 1964, the Aggies return home from a 71-70 victory over

Texas Tech to host Arkansas tonight at 8.

The Aggies, who are 10-1 in SWC action, could sew up the title outright tonight if the second-place Baylor Bears (8-3) should stumble against defending champion Texas Christian in Waco.

In the Razorbacks, Coach Shelby Metcalf's cagers will be going up against one of the smallest yet one of the most experienced teams in the conference. Each of Arkansas' top five players have been two year starters.

Expected to answer the opening tip-off for Coach Duddy Waller's squad are seniors Benton Cone (5-11), and Gary Stephens (6-5) and juniors James Eldridge (6-5), Robert McKenzie (6-4) and Ricky Tanneberger (6-4). Donnie Watts, a 6-5 sophomore, has been the team's top reserve thus far.

Eldridge, who pumped in 20 points in Arkansas' 73-68 loss to A&M in Fayetteville, has been the Hogs' top rebounder.

Coach Shelby Metcalf is expected to counter with his usual starting five of seniors Billy Bob Barnett (6-5), Ronnie Peret (6-9), and Sonny Benefield (6-1), junior Mike Heitmann (6-4) and sophomore Steve Niles (7-0). Sophomores Bill Cooksey (6-2) and Chuck Smith (6-4), junior Bill Brown (6-1) and senior Harry Bostic (6-6) have been A&M's top reserves this season.

Barnett continues to pace A&M in scoring with a 17.7 season and 18.0 conference norm while Peret is at 16.9 in SWC action and Heitmann has hit at a 15.5 pace.

Cooksey connected on four straight long jumpers to pace the Aggies past Tech. The Houston Sam Houston product kept the Aggies ahead in the game at 63-60, 65-62, 67-64 and 71-68.

With the Red Raiders trailing by a point, Jerry Haggard tied up Benefield at midcourt with only one minute left on the clock. On the tip, the first jump was invalid as neither player hit the ball and Benefield hurt his leg while falling to the floor.

The 6-1 Sweeny product could not continue and he was replaced by the seven foot Niles to jump against the 5-11 Haggard. A&M controlled the tip to Heitmann who was fouled by Haggard and then hit in the eye by a coin thrown by one of the 9,150 spectators at Lubbock's Municipal Coliseum.

Heitmann missed his foul shot and Tech had a chance to win with 50 seconds remaining to be played. With 4 seconds left on the clock, Steve Williams sank the shot that would have turned the game around but referee Bob Smith spotted a traveling violation as the Aggies sacked up their tenth SWC victory of the season.

From your campus to ours...

Last year more than 100 graduates came to our campus at TRW Space Park in Redondo Beach, or to our Houston or Washington, D. C. operations. Of the more than 16,000 men and women in TRW Systems Group, over 7000 are college graduates. Their major fields of interest are as varied as your own: Engineering, Behavioral Sciences, Physical Sciences, Computer Sciences, Life Sciences, Management Sciences, and the Humanities.

It's characteristic of TRW Systems Group that many of our employees continue to do advanced and applied research in the same area of specialization they worked on in college. For our challenges are much like yours.

We're deeply involved in the exploration of space and the defense of the Free World. We're also applying these advanced technologies to the complex social problems of today...transportation, health, urban renewal, land planning, water and air pollution, global communication, ocean sciences.

As they work to meet these diverse challenges, many of our employees are continuing their study for advanced degrees with TRW's blessing and financial help. That's just one of the reasons so many people have found the move from their campus to ours a natural and rewarding one.

Perhaps you'd like to consider the same move. Make an appointment to see us when we're on your campus (see below), or write to Dr. W. D. McIvers, College Relations, Room 7001-J, TRW Systems Group, One Space Park, Redondo Beach, California 90278. TRW is an equal opportunity employer.

TRW Systems Group is a major operating unit of TRW INC. (Formerly Thompson Ramo Wooldridge Inc.), where more than 70,000 people at over 250 locations around the world are applying advanced technology to electronics, space, defense, automotive, aircraft and selected commercial and industrial markets.
