

A&M Officials To Conduct Arson Confab

Texas fire marshals and investigators, flanked by representatives from police agencies and the insurance industry, will take an active role in the 14th annual Texas Arson Conference, March 11-14, in Austin. The seminar-type program will be conducted by A&M personnel from the Firemen's Training School. The school is a unit of the Engineering Extension Service.

It is sponsored by the State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency, Texas Department of Public Safety and State Board of Insurance Commissioners. Sessions will be held in the Commodore Perry Hotel.

Computer Chapter To Get Charter

One of the nation's first eight student chapters of the Data Processing Management Association will be chartered here Monday. DPMA International President Charles L. Davis of Arlington will present the 60-member chapter of Baytown, Division 3 chairman, will present the 60-member chapter's charter.

Chapter President Joseph U. LeBlanc of Corpus Christi said the charter meeting will be at the Ramada Inn.

"A&M is one of eight schools in the U. S. chosen from 50 applicants to receive a charter under a DPMA international pilot study," noted LeBlanc, computer science graduate student.

Two other schools in the five-state division, Lamar Tech and Mississippi State, also were selected. Selection was based on student interest, business and data processing curricula and by-laws submitted by chapters.

OUR OBJECT is to promote professionalism in the data processing profession and a greater awareness of the role it plays in the life of the community," explained Stewart Carpenter, information officer of Houston.

Other officers of the undergraduate and graduate student-composed chapter are Vice President Lawrence D. Pickens of Storm Lake, Iowa; secretary Gene A. Freid of College Station; treasurer John H. Shingler, Vicksburg, Miss., and parliamentarian Edward P. Newman, Chicago. All are graduate students and in computer science except Freid and Newman, who major in business.

Davis, account director of the Dallas division of LTV subsidiary Computer Technology Inc., was elected international president in 1968. He previously served DPMA as executive vice president and international vice president three terms.

He also chaired the Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas and Mississippi division. With LTV since 1955, Davis also has data processing experience at the Red River Arsenal, Texarkana, and a Dallas wholesale drug firm.

Lucas is staff analyst with Humble at Baytown.

Crago To Chair Second Vet Series

Dr. V. G. Crago, veterinary practitioner of Youngstown, Ohio will chair the second 1969 post-graduate course series in the College of Veterinary Medicine, Dr. W. C. Banks announced.

Banks, head of the college's radiology clinic and short course director, said Crago's subject will be on inhalation anesthesia in small animals. The course starts March 10.

The course includes consideration of "volatile anesthetics in current use, with a discussion of their relative potency, safety and use," Banks added.

"Anesthetic equipment will be demonstrated and the functions of component parts will be discussed," Banks said. "Participants will be given the opportunity to gain experience in applying anesthetic techniques."
