Great Issues Chairman Wins MSC's Rountree Award

By DAVE MAYES
Battalion Managing Editor
Great Issues chairman David T. Maddox Thursday received the Thomas H. Rountree Award, highest honor for Memorial Student Center student program participation, to a standing ovation at the MSC awards banquet.

Praised for "consistently representing well the high ideals of the spirit of the MSC to the entire campus and community," Maddox built the Issues committee to a 100-member task force that turned out an average of one program a week throughout the school year.

The senior management major's crowning achievement was last week's Urban Crisis Conference, a four-day session jointly sponsored by Great Issues and the College of Engineering which attracted more than 125 delegates and drew praise from President Richard Nixon.

"The leadership given this year by David some students and staff believe will not be equalled for years to come," stated an awards brochure distributed to the more than 200 banquet guests as Maddox received his award.

A Distinguished Student four consecutive years, Maddox has also served as Student Senate vice president, member of the MSC Council and member of the MSC University Expansion committee. An Eagle Scout he was recently named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

The A&M Consolidated High School graduate is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Maddox Jr., 1002 Munson Dr.

John H. Lindsey, Houston insurance agency partner and 1944 A&M graduate, received the Lawrence Sullivan Ross Award for continued exemplary service to A&M through the MSC.

General Adviser to the Student Conference on National Affairs, Lindsey was cited for "unique and tremendous contributions to the A&M student body for a decade and a half. He has given more hours of assistance than any other person for the 14 SCONA's that have been held."

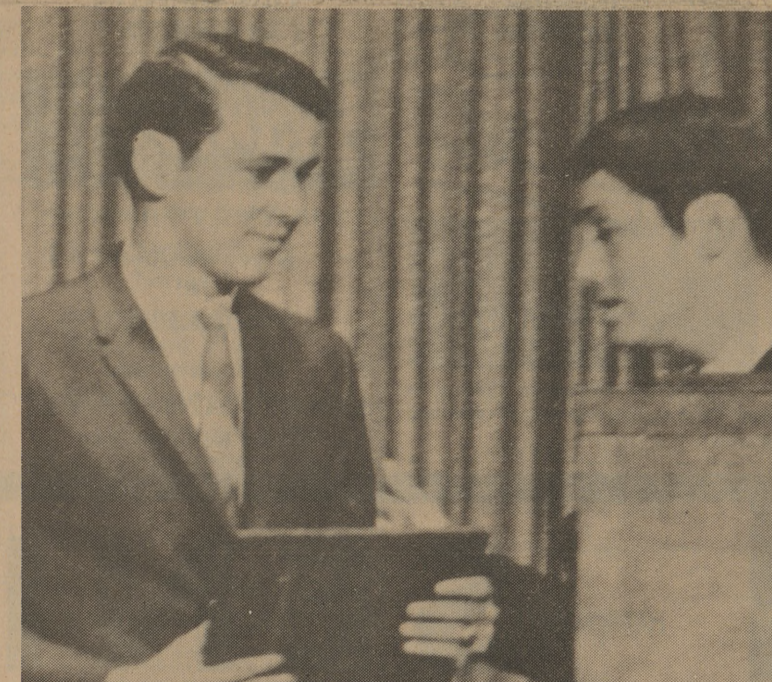

Distinguished Service Awards went to two faculty members and Mrs. Carl E. Shafer, SCONA adviser and conference manager. Faculty recipients were Miss Barbara Davis of the Management Department, Great Issues adviser, and Dr. Haskell M. Monroe of the History Department, Council member and SCONA program committee adviser.

Other award winners include: Distinguished Service Award—Robert L. Edgcomb, Great

Issues; William R. Howell Jr., SCONA finance chairman; Donald B. McCrory, SCONA chairman; Maddox; Wayne H. Prescott, Council executive vice president for programs; Benjamin J. Sims, Council president; Keller W. Webster, Council executive vice president for operations; Clyde R. Westbrook and Janet L. Whitehead, Issues; and James H. Willbanks, SCONA conference manager.

Seniors Plan Banquets, Dance

Plans have been announced for the 10th annual induction banquet, senior banquet, and the Senior Ring Dance, Early Davis, president of the Senior Class, said Thursday.

Members of the class will be honored with an induction banquet sponsored by the Association of Former Students at 6:30 p.m. May 6 in the Ramada Inn ballroom, with Darrell Chandler of Beaumont, member of the 1938 class and Association vice-president for membership, as speaker, Davis noted.

The date set for the senior banquet is May 16 at 8:30 p.m. in the Ramada Inn, Davis noted, with Newton Hielscher, a member of the 1933 class, as speaker.

"THE BANQUET will be semi-formal, with class A summer uniforms with ascots for Corps seniors, and the cost for attending the banquet will be $3.50 per person," Davis noted.

The Senior Ring Dance is scheduled for May 17 from 8-12 p.m., and dress will be formal, with class A dress uniforms for Corps seniors, Davis said.

"The cost for attending the dance is $6.50, which will include

$3.50 for color photographs," he added.

"We've mailed letters to more than 900 seniors," Richard Weikus, Former Students executive secretary, said. "But we realize there are others who are members of the senior class, who will not graduate in May and for some reason are not on our records."

HE EXPLAINED that letters were mailed to students who were listed as members of the senior class in September or who had filed as a candidate to graduate in March. He added that graduate students and seniors who will graduate either this summer or next January are also invited to attend the function.

Davis added that students can pick up tickets to the functions by presenting their identification cards at the Association of Former Students office in the Memorial Student Center.

"We need to know in advance how many seniors plan to attend the functions so that we can make food arrangements," Davis noted. "And we especially need to know how many graduate students and other than graduating seniors plan to attend."
