

468 Cadets Head For Camps

Texas A&M will send 468 Army and Air Force ROTC cadets to summer training at one or another of the nation's military installations, Col. Jim H. McCoy, commandant, announced.

The training, prerequisite to a reserve officer commission, will include small unit tactics and weapons firing. Camp usually is scheduled between the junior and senior years.

Summer training also will involve as cadre most of the military personnel assigned at A&M, noted the commandant.

Most Army cadets will be at Fort Sill, Okla., for the six-week advanced camp. One of the 313 contract cadets will go to Fort Lewis, Wash. In addition, 24 students entering the two-year Army ROTC program will be at Fort Benning, Ga., for basic training. The latter group includes junior college transfers, graduate and civilian undergraduate students, McCoy said.

Virtually all Army personnel at A&M will be at Sill, with Lt. Col. Donald S. Ballard, associate professor of military science, the group's ranking officer.

AFROTC cadets headed by the 1968-69 corps commander, Hector Gutierrez Jr. of Laredo, will train at 14 Air Force bases. The majority of the 131, including 22 sophomores, will be at the Air Force Academy; March AFB, Calif.; Fairchild AFB, Wash., and Tyndall AFB, Fla.

Others will be at Gunter, Ala.; Myrtle Beach and Charleston, S. C.; Forbes, Kan.; Hamilton, Calif.; Hill, Utah; Pease, N. H.; Otis, Mass.; Plattsburgh, N. Y., and Elgin AFB, Fla.

Gutierrez, Wayne A. Fritschel of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Clyde E. Herzog of Meridian will be commissioned at camp.

Drafting Course Unfilled

Spaces are available for more students in the fifth Structural Drafting Institute to start here Monday.

Construction firm personnel, vocationally-oriented high school students and others receive 12 weeks instruction leading to better paying jobs in the institute sponsored by the Texas Engineering Extension Service and Engineering Graphics Department.

Work will cover drafting fundamentals, steel construction details and reinforced concrete construction drawing.

Institute tuition is $150. Classes will meet from 8 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. five days a week.

A&M'S PETUNIAS POPPING

Flower fanciers in general and petunia lovers in particular should drive out to see A&M's Floral Test Garden. The garden's big petunia patch, featuring a wide variety of the flower, is peaking beautifully, says Superintendent of Grounds Maintenance Bill Vitopil, left. His visitors are Mrs. Helen Ryan and Miss Mary Lee McGee of Colfe Station. In addition to petunias, Vitopil says the garden will be a blaze of color from now until the end of June with a variety of blooms, including snapdragons, geraniums, verbenas, ageratum, allysum, marigold, statice, wianthus and many others. The site is between G. Rollie White Coliseum and Jersey Street.

Houston Mothers Give A&M $1,490

The Houston A&M Mothers Club has presented checks totaling $1,490 to eight student organizations and university services.

The club is one of the largest A&M mothers groups and has contributed previously to many of the organizations receiving support for the 1969-70 school year.

Dr. Oskar Morgenstern, internationally recognized economist at Princeton University, will join the economics faculty as adjunct distinguished professor next fall.

Princeton Economist To Join University Faculty Next Fall

The announcement was made jointly by Dr. A. D. Suttle Jr., research vice president and Dr. M. L. Greenhut, economics head.

Morgenstern will serve as a visiting scholar in the university and will work closely with Suttle's research office.

A mathematical economist, Morgenstern is credited, along with the late Dr. J. Von Neumann, with the discovery of the Game Theory. The theory is a mathematical vehicle to interpret dupolistic and oligopolistic situations in economics. It has extended into such matters as military strategy and even strategy in poker. The scope of this innovation was extended to the Polaris submarine concept.

Born in Goerlitz, Silesia, Morgenstern was naturalized in March, 1944.

He received his early education in Austria, earning his doctorate in political science from the University of Vienna in 1925. He holds honorary degrees from Mannheim and Basel which he received in 1957 and 1960, respectively.

During 1925-28, he studied in universities in London, Paris and Rome, and at Columbia and Harvard on a Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fellowship.

Morgenstern currently serves as a trustee of the Institute of Advanced Studies, Vienna, and is chairman of the Board of Mathematics.

He served as a White House consultant, 1959-60, and as consultant to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission from 1955-57. Since 1958, he has been a member of the advisor panel to the Military Applications Subcommittee of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

A linguist, he speaks German, French, Italian and Swedish.
