

7 New Members Named To BA Faculty

Seven new faculty members have been announced for Texas A&M's College of Business Administration by Dean John E. Pearson.

Pearson named Dr. Joseph A. Hess as associate professor and head of the Department of Finance.

Hess, who received his Ph.D. from Northwestern, currently serves as assistant professor of finance for Ohio University.

He has extensive industrial experience and previously served as assistant corporate financial vice president for two major New York Stock Exchange listed firms.

Hess' major field of study is in finance with emphasis on investments and corporate finance.

Also named to the department of finance from Ohio is Dr. Wayne E. Etter.

Etter serves on the research staff of the Credit Life and Disability Insurance Study being conducted at the university. He will serve as an assistant professor at A&M.

Etter received his Ph.D. from the University of Texas in Austin.

Pearson named Arthur V. Wolff, a businessman, to associate professor in the Department of Management. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, Wisconsin and Columbia.

He presently serves as corporate director of Employee Relations for a "Fortune 500" industrial Coastal States Gas Production Company in Corpus Christi.

Howard Chamberlain will serve as associate professor in the Department of Management. He is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and Oregon State where he taught in the division of continuing education.

He previously owned Chamberlain Aircraft Leasing in Seattle, Wash., and worked as an industrial engineer with the Boeing Company Missile and Information Systems Division.

Chamberlain is presently a doctoral candidate at the University of Washington.

Three other doctoral candidates also will be added to the A&M college.

They are August W. Smith, University of Texas at Austin; James H. Sellers, University of Arkansas, and Robert D. McWilliams, Texas Technological University.

Smith will serve in the college's Department of Management. Sellers will teach in the Department of Accounting and McWilliams will be in the Department of Marketing. All three men will serve as assistant professors.

Married Student Apartments Construction Ahead Of Plan

Construction on Texas A&M's 1,085,262 married student apartment project is ahead of schedule, despite the above-normal rainfall since the project started March 15.

Student Apartment Manager Calvin Moore described the construction as progressing "very nicely."

er days since the start, yet the construction "is coming along good."

The new apartments will have 12 one-bedroom air-conditioned apartments in each unit. If the four units are completed — only two were expected to be completed by September—it will give the university 24 more apartments than it expected for the start of fall classes.

When completed, seven new units with 84 apartments will be available. The construction replaces seven College View barracks-type units with 56 apartments, giving A&M a net gain of 28 apartments.

The new units also will be called College View Apartments, according to Moore. He stated that the rent will be $115 for the new apartments, which are larger than Hensel and have individual clothes washers and dryers.

Physics Dept. Lands AF Grant

Texas A&M University's Physics Department has been awarded a $96,500 grant by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research for continuation of studies in theoretical nuclear physics.

Dr. John Nuttall, principal investigator for the project, said one of the major aspects of the Texas A&M program involves determination of new and improved ways to solve interaction problems of three particles.

'Mural Program Begins Next Week

Intramurals at Texas A&M during the summer months begin next week according to Intramural Director Raymond L. Fletcher.

Persons interested in participating in softball, bowling, and golf should come by the intramural office in DeWare Field House and sign up by Friday at noon, Fletcher noted.

Intramurals will continue throughout the summer, Fletcher said, with everyone who is interested and eligible able to compete.

"All utilities are included in the rent," said Moore. "They will be completely furnished, so students living in the apartments will have no housing expenses except the rent."

When completed, the new units will bring the total university-owned apartment total to 804.

Completion of the project will not come too soon for Moore.

"At the present time, we are full up to the hilt," Moore noted.

The associate professor noted physicists today have little difficulty with problems involving two particles, but the addition of a third particle presents an entirely different situation.

Nuttall noted the Air Force Office of Scientific Research previously provided A&M $260,000 for theoretical work in nuclear physics.
