

COORDINATORS

Ai Lan Doan, 18, of Da Nang, South Vietnam, and Jim Morrisey, 21, of San Antonio, were named International Student Affairs coordinators at Texas A&M's Baptist Student Center. Aggieiland was one of three Texas universities selected to initiate the special summer Baptist Christian Education Commission program.

Purdue Professor Bassman To Join A&M Economics

Dr. Robert L. Bassman of Purdue University will join the faculty of Texas A&M's Department of Economics in September, announced Dr. M. L. Greenhut, economics head.

Bassman becomes the second internationally recognized economist to affiliate with the College of Liberal Arts' department. Dr. Oskar Morgenstern, Princeton mathematical economist, will serve as adjunct distinguished professor.

Bassman is a renowned econometrician.

Greenhut said Bassman will teach and help to develop the "expanding econometric and quantitative economics program" in the A&M department.

Bassman, a Fellow of the Econometrics Society, is author of more than 30 technical publications in the areas of econometrics and quantitative economics.

Among many other important works, Greenhut added, Bassman has made "path-breaking" contributions in the area of simultaneous equation estimation, being one of the originators of the two-stage least squares method.

"His research in this phase of econometrics relates to a background interest in national income theory," Greenhut noted.

Bassman received his doctorate from Iowa State and has taught at Northwestern, University of Chicago and University of Minnesota prior to Purdue.

BSC Active Year - Round, Seeks International Aggies

While many campus activities tend to fade out, or at least slow down in the summer, Texas A&M's Baptist Student Center is moving full steam ahead.

Because of its year-long active program among Aggies, it is one of three Texas universities to receive two student coordinators of International Student Affairs.

Named were Ai Lan Doan, 18, of Da Nang, South Vietnam, and Jim Morrisey, 21, of San Antonio.

Director Bob Burch pointed out the center's primary goal the next 10 weeks will be directed towards A&M's international student body.

"That doesn't mean we will neglect others," he said. "It means we are beefing-up our international program."

International Aggies have long made a strong showing at state-wide BSU meetings.

During April, A&M international students were the largest single group attending the International Student Conference at Camp Lakeview near Palestine.

Burch said Aggie Internationals exceeded the combined attendance of the University of Texas at Austin and the University of Houston which traditionally have larger international enrollments.

There are more than 90 Baptist Student Unions throughout the state at various colleges and universities.

Miss Doan, a senior at Texas Woman's University, was born in Da Nang. She came to the U. S. in early 1967 with the aid of a Navy chaplain who had been stationed in South Vietnam.

Although she needed one and one-half years to complete her high school studies in Vietnam, she successfully passed Texas achievement tests, completing her studies in four months.

The oldest of seven children, Miss Doan entered TWU in the summer of 1967. She will graduate next spring, but hopes to continue medical studies in the states.

Morrisey, a senior at Howard Payne, has been active in Youth for Christ programs several years. A psychology major, he anticipates graduate studies following commencement next May.

"We have come to make friends," they agreed.

"We hope to be able to present a good program through the summer for everyone," Morrisey added.

"There will be something interesting for everyone," smiled

Miss Doan.

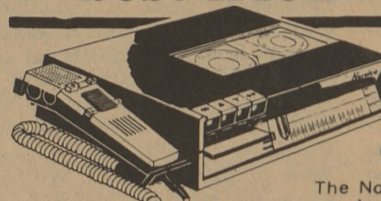

In addition to weekday programs, the youth coordinators have planned two weekend trips this summer.

The first, June 27-29, will be to Houston with visits to NASA and the Astrodome.

A second trip to "LBJ" country July 25-27 will highlight a tour of the state capitol including meetings with legislators and a Texas style barbecue at the LBJ Lake.

A new program, "Open Forum on International Affairs," will be held weekly at the center, 201 North Main in College Station.
