D. Z. Johnson Wins $200 Scholarship

David Jack Johnson of Wichita Falls, senior animal science major, has been named winner of the $200 Wichita Farm and Ranch Club Scholarship for the 1969-70 academic year.

The award is made annually to an outstanding Wichita Falls trade area student enrolled in the College of Agriculture.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson of 3309 Duty Lane in Wichita Falls.

Before coming to A&M, Johnson attended Cooke County Junior College, where he was president of the Cooke County Junior College Rodeo Club. At A&M, he is a member of the Wichita Falls Hometown Club and the Saddle and Sirlain Club. He was on the Junior Livestock Judging team last year.

World Events Program Begins at YMCA

Students interested in informal discussions of world events are invited to the opening of the YMCA's "Changing World Events" program Wednesday.

YMCA Coordinator Logan E. Weston said the committee will be organized during the first meeting at noon Wednesday. The group will meet each Monday and Thursday from 12-1 p.m. in the YMCA Political Science Seminar Room, second floor.

Ed Rogers is student chairman of the CWE committee.

Weston said the meetings are informal hamburger lunches and professors are invited as resource personnel. Trends in world events will be the main subjects discussed.

Campus Hospital Cited by TANE

The Texas A&M University Hospital has received a certificate of commendation and recognition from the Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE) for not allowing sales of cigarettes on the hospital premises.

The certificate is given "for the decision not to allow sale of cigarettes on the premises, thereby making the people more aware of the health hazards of cigarette smoking. This action contributes to the saving of lives, to which cause both Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education and this institution are dedicated." It is signed by Wallace J. Shelton, president, and Albert F. Tucker, executive director.

TANE is a non-profit, educational organization, supported financially by Texas churches of some 19 denominations.

You-Tomorrow Hosts Riding, Shooting

Horseback riding and supervised range firing will be sponsored by You-Tomorrow at Pleasant Acres, from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Funds are needed by the non-profit organization to continue its program of gun safety training, marksmanship and equitation, said Sidney Loveless, president.

Pleasant Acres is located one mile south of FM 60 on FM 2818. Soft drinks will be on sale and families are invited to use the picnic facilities and free fishing lake.

Further information is available from Mike Beach, president of the Twin City Junior Rifle Club, at 846-7553 or Loveless, at 846-4836.

Miss Flame Contest To be Decided Oct. 7

Miss Flame of College Station will be chosen Oct. 7, at 7 p.m. in the City Hall as part of National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 5-11. The third annual contest is sponsored by the university and College Station Fire Department.

Entrants will be judged on poise, personality and appearance, and must be a resident of College Station and attend A&M Consolidated High School. The winner will represent the fire department at parades, luncheons and meetings. A "get acquainted party" will be held for the contestants Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the City Hall.

SCONA XV Schedules Orientation Tonight

The Fifteenth Student Conference on National Affairs (SCONA XV) will have an orientation for all students interested in joining the Memorial Student Center committee at 7:30 tonight in the MSC Ballroom.

Business Administration Still Nursing Baby Ph.D. Program

Administrators in the College of Business Administration are still nursing their infant doctor of philosophy degree program—and they want it that way.

Not quite a year old, the Ph.D. in business will receive tender care so its graduates will have a head start when they earn the name "doctor."

Dr. John E. Pearson, dean of the college, said many universities make the mistake of rushing students into the first two years of a doctoral program only to find out later they don't have a staff large enough or qualified to guide the student when it becomes time to do research.

"We have been selective, not because of particular backgrounds of students, but because we have the firm belief the most important part of training is teaching him to do research which will truly advance the art of this profession," Dr. Pearson explains.

He described A&M's degree program as one of the most flexible in the nation. The first student accepted, Douglas Sarbach, received a bachelor's degree in architecture from Ohio State and a master's in architecture from Columbia, he noted.

The college currently has 12 doctoral students—four full-time, six part-time and two are teaching at Sam Houston State and taking courses in the summer only.

The six part-time students are A&M faculty-staff members.

Plans call for the admittance of five students per year to the three-year program, for a total enrollment of 15.

The College of Business was set up in 1967 and the Ph.D. program was approved in October, 1968. Five students were enrolled in the spring semester.

Despite no publicity on the degree program, Dr. Pearson reported it has spread from mouth-to-mouth and inquiries have come from throughout the nation.

It will soon be published in Peterson's Guide, a reference book on university degree programs.

Currently enrolled are A&M assistant professors Billy J. Adams, Teddy L. Coe and Carlton D. Stolle, and instructors William C. Atkinson, James W. Camprise, Wayne Cook Hansen and Harry E. Zenner.

Sam Houston instructors include George A. Elliott and Thomas W. Lawler. Graduate assistants and fellowship students include Honnudiike V. B. Rao, Kenneth B. Reinhardt and Sarbach.

HOW IT FIGURES:

Interesting statistics, right? Look at them one way, and you get 96. Look at them another way . . . long enough . . . and what you're likely to get is married. From that point on, you multiply. So do your responsibilities.

It pays to plan for responsibilities. You can do this now by investing in a life insurance program that can provide the foundation for a sound financial structure. The earlier you start, the less it costs, and the more security you'll have a chance to build.

Stop by our office today. Or give us a call, and let's talk about subtracting something from your life: financial worry.
