Silver Star for Gallantry Awarded to A&M Sophomore

A Texas A&M student has been awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in South Vietnam.

Michael Waddle, a sophomore recreation and parks major, received the nation's third highest combat decoration for heroic actions while serving as an infantry platoon leader with the 82nd Airborne Division on Aug. 26, 1968.

The award was presented recently by Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, commander of the First Army, Fort Meade, Md.

Waddle, a 1965 graduate of High Point High School in Beltsville, Md., is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Billy Mack Waddle of 10106 Green Forest Drive, Adelphi, Md.

Waddle also received two Bronze Star Medal awards for Vietnam service.

The Army reports Lt. Waddle was leading his platoon on a reconnaissance mission when the point element became pinned down from a heavy barrage of enemy automatic weapons and rocket fire.

When the firing subsided, Lt. Waddle led his unit in a counter-attack against the enemy position and overran the hostile element.

Searching out another suspected enemy stronghold, Lt. Waddle's platoon again came under heavy fire from the communist force.

The lieutenant effectively organized his men into a defensive position and called in air strikes. He then led another ground attack, completely overrunning and routing the enemy.

Following graduation from high school, Waddle attended Texas A&M for one year. He joined the Army in 1966 and received his commission through the infantry Officer Candidate School at Ft. Benning, Ga.

EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS Of Employees Noted

Dealing with employees' emotional problems and management's role in their prevention was discussed Wednesday by a Dallas physician whose practice covers half of the United States.

Dr. Robert J. Potts, regional medical director for Mobil Oil Co. and medical director of the Mobil Pipe Line Co., emphasized to 35 managers at Texas A&M's 17th semi-annual management seminar "behavior that is rewarded tends to be repeated."

He warned, "behavior that is not rewarded, or recognized, becomes less dependent and the organization suffers."

"Mental health in an organization is—in one respect—a direct reflection of the foregoing statement," he added.

The company doctor presented the workshop program on developing understanding of human behavior "which is rewarding and is to be encouraged."

Potts said "behavior which is not rewarding is destructive to the organization and should not be encouraged."

The week-long program, ending Friday, is sponsored by A&M's Executive Development Programs, headed by the College of Business Administration's W. E. (Bill) Eckles, assistant dean.

Potts urged managers to make the most of what employees can contribute and the level at which they can properly function.

"Trying to radically change the individual is never successful over the long-run," he maintained.

"Poor communications and poor morale, as well as indecisions and interdepartment conflicts, reflect mental illness in a company," Potts continued.

The seminar opened Sunday with key executives from 15 firms in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, California, New Mexico and Singapore, China, attending the sessions.

Eve's wardrobe costs a little more these days—a factor that bears directly on every young husband's financial security. True, you may not be a young husband. Yet, Statistically, however, the odds are heavily against the permanency of that condition. And it's smart to plan now—before the wife and family make the scene.

Here's one way. Invest in a life insurance program that can provide the foundation for a solid financial structure. Remember, the earlier you start, the less coverage costs, and the more security you'll have a chance to build.

So phone our office today. Or stop by and let's talk about it. In the meantime give a thought to the figleaf—and how comfortable it feels to be covered.

Humble's Education Foundation Awards University $17,500

The Humble Oil Education Foundation has awarded Texas A&M a $17,500 grant for support of programs in 12 fields of study.

J. H. Galloway, member of Humble Oil & Refining Company's board of directors, formally presented the gift Wednesday to A&M President Earl Rudder during a campus visit.

Allocation of funds included $3,000 for the Petroleum Engineering Department; $2,500 for earth sciences (Geology and Geophysics Departments); and $2,000 each to the Chemical Engineering and Mechanical Engineering Departments.

Also $1,500 each for the College of Business Administration and the Accounting and Electrical Engineering Departments; $1,000 each for the College of Engineering and the Aerospace and Civil Engineering Departments, and $500 for the MacDonald Chair of Transportation.

The gift to Texas A&M was part of $396,100 being awarded by the foundation this year to 94 institutions of higher learning throughout the nation, a Humble spokesman noted.

Companies participating in the foundation, a non-profit organization, are Humble Oil & Refining Company, Humble Pipe Line Company, Humble Gas Transmission Company and Esso Production Research Company.

 as recorded on a meter in the plane.

A credit policy is in effect, Gertson said, that allows members to fly up to three hours on credit. The amount due must be paid within a month, however, or the person will not be allowed to fly until the balance is paid, he said. Further credit will not be extended, he said, until all debts are paid.

Officers of the club, in addition to Gertson, are: Andy Keeton, vice president; Bill Bain, publicity manager; Don Parks, treasurer; Bill Johnson, secretary; and Dr. Don Weseli, adviser and associate professor of animal science.
