

Aggie Fish Whip Owlets In Mud, 36-8!

The Texas Aggie Fish capitalized on 12 Rice fumbles and three pass interceptions to polish off the Rice Owlets 36-8. The game was played last night on a very muddy Rice Stadium in Houston. The Aggies scored first on a 35 yard drive in three plays. The Ags inherited the ball on a fumble by Rice's Bill Chilivets on the Rice 35. Max Bird covered the ball for the Fish. Vance Kerbow, the game's leading rusher with 114 yards on 12 carries, scored the first of his three touchdowns on a 10-yard burst up the middle. Buster Callaway kicked the first of four extra points and the Fish led 7-0.

With 1:21 remaining in the opening period, Boice Best and Kent Finley tackled Owlet quarterback Jody Turner in the Rice endzone for a safety.

Early in the second period, Boice Best pounced on a fumble and the Fish were back in business on the Rice 24-yard line. Kerbow popped through the Owlet defenders for a 24-yard scoring jaunt and Callaway converted the extra point to bring the contest to 16-0.

Gary Whitehead was the next Fish to get into the ball stealing act. He robbed Rice's Ron Arceneaux of an intended pass to put the Fish in control on the Rice 19.

Quarterback Lex James found split end John Sweden behind the Owlet secondary for a quick six points from 19 yards out.

Callaway's kick was good and the Fish celebrated a 23-0 lead.

Rice finally got its offense started late in the second quarter as they marched 49 yards in seven plays with Bruce Gadd hitting Greg Butler for three yards and a touchdown. Gadd rolled out to the right side on a keeper for the two-point conversion.

On the ensuing kickoff, Whitehead gave the 2,100 wet fans something to talk about during halftime as he fielded the kick on the Aggie 25-yard line and raced 50 yards down the east sideline before being helped out of bounds by Arceneaux. The last possible man who had a chance to catch him.

The Fish opened the third quarter with Grady Hoermann pilfering an Owlet pass and returning it for 14 yards. On the first of fensive play for A&M from scrimmage, Kerbow smelt the Rice goalline and was not be denied as he romped for 30 yards unmolested.

The rest of the third period involved a give and take of fumbles, pass interceptions and penalties. The Fish were guilty of 12 infractions for a total of 151 yards. They also had three pass interceptions and lost five fumbles.

In the fourth period, Fish Coach Jim Keller sent in a fresh offensive team. The spotless white jerseys cranked up a drive which yielded them a touchdown and dirty jerseys like the rest of the team. Jerry Sherman went the final 12 yards for the score to bring the total to 36-8.

Adami Anchors Aggie Defense

In these days of soaring scores, the Texas Aggies are showing that there is still a place for defense.

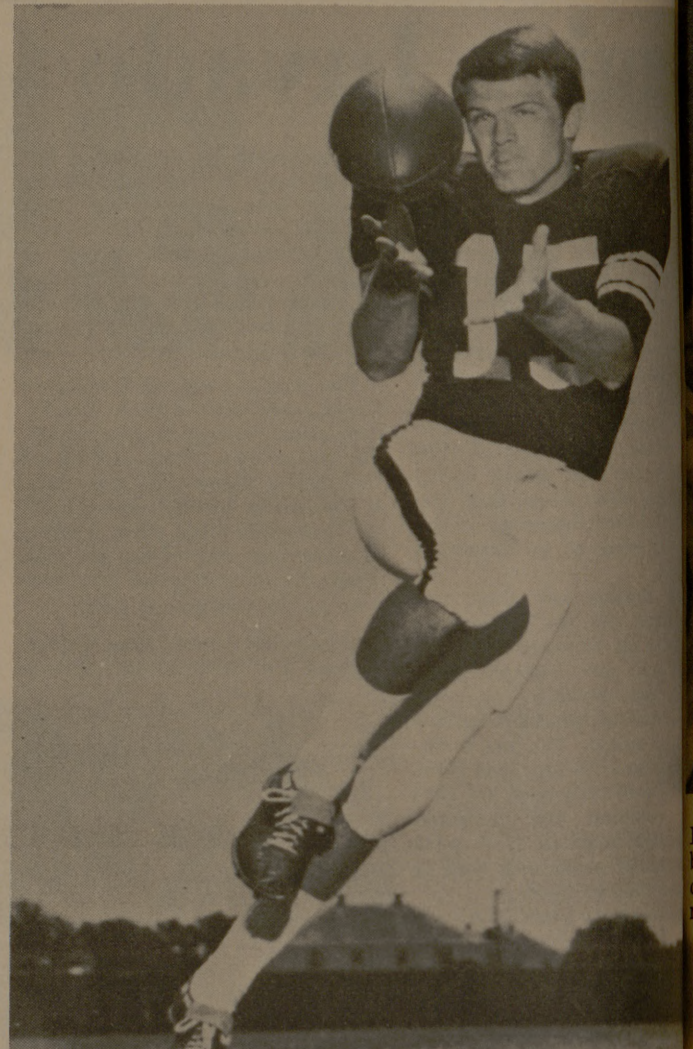

In their last five games, the Aggie defense has allowed just six touchdowns. Until Texas Tech scored with 1:16 left in the game, A&M had not allowed a touchdown in five quarters.

A major share of the credit for that performance goes to senior linebacker Buster Adami. Adami calls the defensive signals and also contributes some big plays. His performance against Tech played a big part in limiting the potent Raiders to 208 total yards.

Making big plays isn't anything new for the Freer native. Adami made a fourth quarter interception which secured A&M's 10-7 victory over Texas in 1967 and cinched the Southwest Conference title.

But despite being a two-year starter in the time-consuming pressure cooker of major college football, the 6-1, 210-pounder hasn't neglected the classroom responsibilities of his scholarship.

After coming out of Freer as president of his high school National Honor Society and valedictorian of his graduating class, Adami has made the Distinguished Student list at A&M and was voted to the All-SWC academic honor team. His major is government, and he plans to go to law school.

SURE HANDS

Manning the split end post for the Aggies Saturday was senior Barney Harris, third this year in SWC pass receptions. The 6-2, 193-pounder just needs one pass to tie A&M record held by Bob Long.
