

LARRY STEGENT

Player of the Week

Larry Stegent is the Batt's Player Of The Week selection for his play in the Rice game.

Stegent turned in his usual good game running as he topped the 100-yard mark rushing for the fourth time this season. Against the inspired Owls he gained an even 100 yards on 22 carries despite the fact that he was 'keyed on' throughout the game.

The 6-1, 198-pound senior tailback now has 641 yards for the year on route to being named to the All-Southwest Conference for the third year in a row. A prime All-America candidate from the Southwest, the Houston St. Thomas product will undoubtedly go high in the pro football draft.

He missed one game this year (LSU) and played half of two others because of a pulled hamstring muscle in fall drills. Stegent now holds the school records for kickoffs with 38 and kickoff return yardage with 694.

THE PRESSBOX

With the bowl game picture now a little clearer, just look what happened.

In the Rose Bowl, the granddaddy of them all, Southern Cal or UCLA will meet the winner of the Michigan-Purdue game. Everybody knows that the Buckeyes from Columbus, O. should have been invited but antiquated Big Ten decorum prevents it.

The Orange Bowl, held in Miami, Fla., is, according to many of the football teams that have played in it, the "best one to go to in terms of fun". Penn State, top team in the East, is slated to meet Missouri, a Big Eight co-champ. It would really be nice to see how well the "top team in the East" would do in the Cotton Bowl against either Texas or Arkansas.

But, heavens above, the Fightin' Irish, have let down their curtain and have finally decided to visit bowl games again after a 44-year absence. It's understandable that they did so in order to provide more money for their academic pursuits. Alas, they will provide the Cotton Bowl competition for the winner between Texas and Arkansas in their big Dec. 6 clash.

The loser receives a little consolation because it goes to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans where Mississippi, the Tennessee giant-killer awaits.

One of the real tragedies of the bowl season will be the conspicuous absence of the Louisiana State Tigers in any of the festivities. Funny, but they figured on getting the Cotton Bowl bid and when Notre Dame got back into the bowl business, they voted that since they couldn't get a major bowl invitation they wouldn't go at all. They could have gotten into the Astro-Bluebonnet classic at Houston but nixed it. Wonder why they didn't get the Sugar Bowl bid over Mississippi, who sports a 6-3 record not even close to the 9-1 Tigers?

You'll all be glad to know that the Crimson Tide of Alabama will go to their eleventh straight bowl this year, even with a 6-3 mark. Bear Bryant's boys got a Liberty Bowl bid to play a yet to be named foe.

Buckeyes Seek Second Straight Title

Ohio State goes against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday with a chance of becoming the sixth team in modern history to win successive national college football championships.

No team ever has won the title three times in a row but the Buckeyes, with a great junior squad headed by quarterback Rex Kern, aim at continuing their dynasty at least through 1970.

An impressive triumph over Michigan would make the Buckeyes a heavy favorite in the decisive year-end poll of The Associated Press. A loss probably would knock them out of the picture and elevate either Texas or Arkansas to the No. 1 spot.

This would probably turn the Texas-Arkansas game at Fayetteville, Ark., Dec. 6 into the national championship game.

The Buckeyes continued to dominate the AP's weekly poll Tuesday with 31 of 38 first place votes from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters for a total of 736 points. Points are based on the electors' placings, with 20 for first, 18 second, 16 third, etc.

The last team to win two clear-cut national crowns in a row was Alabama, coached by Paul "Bear" Bryant, in 1964-65.

Previous teams to repeat were Minnesota 1940-47, Army 1944-45, Notre Dame 1946-47 and Oklahoma 1955-56.

The Buckeyes solidified the top spot by crushing Purdue last week 42-14—the team that they knocked out of the No. 1 position a year ago.

Unbeaten Texas held onto the No. 2 rung with a smashing 69-7 triumph over Texas Christian and Arkansas, the Longhorns' Southwest Conference rival leaped over Tennessee's head to third place by trouncing Southern Methodist 28-15.

Tennessee, which had been eyeing a major bowl bid, fell from third to ninth after suffering a 38-0 defeat at the hands of Mississippi.

Penn State, headed for an Orange Bowl date against Missouri, took fourth place, followed in order by Southern California, No. 5; UCLA, No. 6; Missouri, No. 7; Notre Dame, No. 8; Tennessee, No. 9; and Louisiana

State, No. 10.

Notre Dame, breaking a 45-year tradition, is going to the Cotton Bowl to face the Texas-Arkansas survivor. The Southern Cal-UCLA winners this week qualifies for the Rose Bowl against the undecided Big Ten representative. Mississippi, 13th in the poll, grabbed the Sugar Bowl spot against the losing side of the Texas-Arkansas debate.

The Top Twenty, with first place votes in parentheses and total points. Points awarded for first 15 places based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8, etc.:
