

Part-Time Trashman

of sticks and presenting them to people such as College Station Mayor D. A. (Andy) Anderson and other members of the Beautification Committee. "I need all the help I can get," the civic-minded A&M professor emphasizes. "Everybody seems to think that 'they' should pick up all the trash, or, still better, not discard it in the first place," he reminds. "The 'they' is 'we'." Dr. Hawkins is particularly concerned about College Station being exceptionally clean and neat because the university attracts so many visitors—persons attending meetings, athletic events, visiting students or simply touring the campus.

"The university prides itself on its well-kept grounds and facilities and gets many compliments for its efforts," Hawkins observes, "so we want the community to be equally attractive."

The university, he adds, has a long-range landscape architecture program in progress. Recently the institution opened an elaborate test garden featuring a wide variety of flowers for each particular season.

So far, Dr. Hawkins' one-man litter-picking project is a success. He has received few raised eyebrows (not too many people are out roaming around so early in the morning) but lots of barks from dogs.

From all indications, Dr. Hawkins has a congenial trashman (full-time type) who comes by twice a week. The fellow hasn't said anything, but he must think Hawkins, with all his overloaded trash cans, is the messiest man in town.

LITTER-PICKING MAYOR

Grads Announce Election Results

Three newly-elected representatives of the Graduate Student Council were announced Wednesday at the regular meeting of the Council, announced Bob Fried, Council vice-president.

The three are John M. Brewer, Henry L. Williams and John C. Thomas.

Brewer, an urban and regional planning major will represent the College of Architecture.

Williams, an Agriculture Education and Educational Administration major will represent the College of Education.

Thomas, a Meteorology major will represent the College of Geosciences.

Two first-year representatives were also chosen in last month's mail-in election to serve as at-large representatives to the

They are Mrs. Patricia Caporina, an urban and regional planning major and James D. Gleason a curriculum and instruction major.

Jay Hubert, a spokesman for the Council, said the Faculty Library Committee has decided to allow graduate students to use 15 of the 155 closed studies rooms on the third and fourth floors of the library beginning next semester.

The studies are now open to faculty members only and beginning next semester 15 of those will be available for use by graduate students, he said.

The Council will establish a policy for distribution of the studies which will be announced soon, Hubert said.

Mexico Students Hosting Dance

The Association of Students from Mexico will sponsor a Christmas dance Saturday from 8-12 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus ballroom.

The Continental Orchestra from San Antonio will provide tropical music for the dance.

Tickets will be on sale for the annual event at the door at $3 for gentlemen and $2 for ladies.

Arbor Day Kits Still Available

Orders for free Arbor Day program kits are still being accepted by the Texas Forest Service.

The kits are free to any public or parochial school teacher or principal in Texas on request. Each kit contains two quality pecan tree seeds, instructions for planting, a suggested Arbor Day program, and program materials. The program materials include poems, songs and information about Arbor Day suitable for an Arbor Day observance.

The quantity of kits is limited and are available one per teacher.

Requests for the kits will be filled on a first come-first-served basis. Distribution will begin in December.

Address all requests to Arbor Day Kit, Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas, 77843.

Dr. Ledbetter Named Committee Head

Dr. W. B. Ledbetter, a materials researcher of the Texas Transportation Institute and civil engineering faculty member, has been named chairman of the mineral aggregates committee of the Highway Research Board, National Academy of Sciences.

The committee which he has been serving for several years and now will head for three years investigates problems associated with characteristics of mineral aggregates which affect their use in highway construction.

Ledbetter is conducting teaching and research projects involving synthetic aggregates and other materials. He has established rotary kiln facilities at A&M and in East Pakistan.
