"Gruesome" Movies Here Saturday

Four gruesome movies will stand the Aggie Cinema audience's hair on end Saturday.

The Memorial Student Center Directorate's "Spook Spectacular" will consist of the original "Frankenstein," "The Mummy," "Deadly Mantis" and "Zorro's Black Whip," announced Aggie Cinema chairman Jack Abbott of Friendswood.

He said the four-feature screening will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the MSC Ballroom. Admission is 35 cents per person.

The next Aggie Cinema will be the Feb. 7 showing of "Wait Until Dark."

Justice to Address Chamber Banquet

Justice also serves as a clinical professor of social psychology at the University of Texas School of Public Health at Houston and a research associate at Rice.

Dr. Justice writes a social science column for the Houston Post and the Fort Worth Star Telegram. He has received 26 awards, four of them national, for news, science and medical writing for the public. He has also authored a number of books.

Tickets for the 7 p.m. banquet scheduled for the Ramada Inn ballroom are available at the BCS Chamber of Commerce, A. G. Edwards & Sons, ANCO, Bank of A&M, Bryan Building and Loan, City National Bank, Community Savings & Loan, First Bank & Trust, First Federal Savings & Loan, First National Bank, University National Bank and all Chamber board members.

called for formation of a Speakers Policy committee "to examine existing speakers policies and present alternate proposals if the committee deems such changes are necessary."

Tom Fitzhugh (Geos) objected, saying that the university's policy is perfectly clear, and that it is the students who aren't clear on the policy.

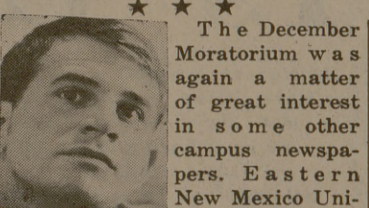

Jess Rhoden (sr-Eng) replied that though it is true that many students do not know about the policy, there are others that know about it and still don't understand it.

By Monty Stanley
Starting off with a biggie, from Rockville, Maryland, we learn that the Montgomery College Pom Pom Squad captured the first place trophy in the Silver Spring parade.

In a more serious vein, just before Christmas, Montgomery College was allegedly issued an ultimatum from the Office of Health, Education, and Welfare to the effect that, should there be a "White Christmas," it would be in strict violation of Title 2 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Furthermore, they were informed, all Christmas trees were to be decorated with at least 23.4% colored bulbs, to be placed throughout the tree's branches—not segregated in the back.

It was stipulated in addition that in manger scenes at least 20% of the angels and one of the Three Kings would be of a minority race.

The December Moratorium was again a matter of great interest in some other campus newspapers. Eastern New Mexico University's "Chase" published a half-page ad, printed in white on black, supporting the Moratorium and pleading for immediate withdrawal from Vietnam.

On the next page was a full-page ad, in red, white, and blue, in support of President Nixon's policy of attempting to establish peace with honor for our country in Vietnam.

Believe it or not, there are still some places where they really do try to print the proverbial both sides of a story.

Following her editorials including one that urged immediate withdrawal from SFA and one that said birth control pills should be made available to every woman on campus from doctors at the Student Health Service, the editor of the Washington State University Evergreen then came out in an editorial against the censorship under which she had to work. Kind of makes you wonder just what it was she couldn't print. Man, if only she could see some of the stuff that gets canned here.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

But my personal choice for the inane editorial of the week (IEW) must go to the Foghorn, student organ of Del Mar College in Corpus Christi. The managing editor's big crusade at the moment is to get paneling placed along the stairs in the Student Center so that guys can't look up girl's dresses.

Says she, "Hopefully, with the paneling, a girl can walk up the stairs without risking being arrested for indecent exposure." She is especially concerned that the paneling be "up by the time we start wearing our culotte summer dresses again."

In spite of the obviously massive pile of intellect behind a statement such as this, this plea for paneling seems just the least bit incongruous, in view of what girls are trying to put into sight in the first place.

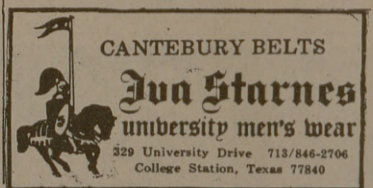

Oh, just to keep the record straight, a cursory investigation revealed no arrests for indecent exposure as yet on said staircase.

Del Mar does get to the heart of some issues, though. A panel discussion last week had as its topic, "Should Grass Be Legalized?" If a topic like that was announced at A&M, you could automatically assume that it was sponsored by the Range Science Department, and was concerned with whether or not the sale of non-domestic grass seeds should be licensed by the government.
