Chemical Engineering Offers Coast Courses

Four graduate-level extension courses will be offered by the Department of Chemical Engineering on the Texas Gulf Coast during the spring semester.

Associate Prof. Dr. R. G. Anthony noted each of the courses have been accepted by the Graduate College and may be used as credit for a Master of Engineering degree.

The courses and areas they will be held include: Mathematics 609, Numerical Analysis, at Galveston; Chemical Engineering 613, Unsteady State Processes, at Corpus Christi; Chemical Engineering 631, Process Dynamics I, at Victoria, and Chemical Engineering 623, Chemical Engineering Thermodynamics, at Freeport.

Classes will begin in February and continue with the regular university schedule through May 29.

Dr. Anthony explained the courses are open to any engineer interested in improving his abilities. Three hours of credit will be given in the chemical engineering courses and four hours credit will be given for the math course.

Instructors who normally teach the courses on campus will teach the extension courses, Dr. Anthony said.

Engineers can register for the course during the first class meeting or contact Dr. Anthony about requirements.

16 Vets To Speak In Dallas Conference

Special to The Battalion

AUSTIN—Sixteen members of the College of Veterinary Medicine of Texas A&M will be featured speakers at the second annual Southwestern Animal Health Conference in Dallas Jan. 30-31.

The conference, one of the most extensive in the nation, is co-sponsored by A&M and the Texas Veterinary Medical Association. The lecture staff includes a who's who of livestock experts from across the nation. Fifty speakers will cover 59 topics.

Also, Dr. E. E. Keahey, Dr. Phillip Linerode, Dr. R. W. Moore, Dr. Alvin A. Price, Dr. John Range, Dr. Harold Redmond, Dr. W. M. Romane, and Dr. Marshall Wallace.

Also scheduled to participate in the two-day conference are Dr. W. F. Krueger and B. C. Wormell of the Poultry Science Department, and Dr. R. D. Radeleff, Director of the USDA Animal Toxicology Laboratory at College Station.

Cunningham Re-elected APO President

Re-elected president of Alpha Phi Omega, campus service fraternity, was John D. Cunningham. In elections held over the weekend, William F. Cronrath was chosen vice president of administration; Vernon Bartle, vice president of projects, and David N. Weber, vice president of membership.

Cunningham said he is looking forward to a "very successful semester," noting that in the spring APO will be selling Campus Gift Pacs, working on the Student Senate Blood Drive and other projects.

APO will have its annual Fall Awards Banquet at 8 p.m. Saturday in Clayton's Restaurant, Bryan.

Cunningham added that a Spring Pledge Smoker, for any students interested in joining APO, has been set for Feb. 12.

Panhellenic Luncheon Planned Here

Members, pledges, and alumna of National Panhellenic affiliated sororities have been invited to the annual Bryan-College Station Panhellenic Luncheon at noon, Jan. 24, at the Briarcrest Country Club.

According to Mrs. Roy W. Hann, Jr., B-CS Panhellenic Club president, reservations for the luncheon, priced at $3.25, may be made by calling the country club or before Jan. 21.

She extended a special invitation to "A&M students and Aggie wives who have been members of a sorority and who are interested in meeting some of their sorority sisters in this area."

Batiks On Display In MSC Lobby

Four original Batiks, Oriental designs of fabric, dye, and wax, are being displayed in the walk-in-case in the lobby of the Memorial Student Center.

Tom Ellis, chairman of the MSC Contemporary Arts Exhibits subcommittee said the Batiks are by Joe Almyda, the finest craftsman and artist in the art form in the United States.

Further representation of Almyda's work, Ellis said, will be placed in the library during the CAC Art Festival March 8-21.

The Batiks are on loan from Mrs. Carol Lane of Houston.

Bus Transportation Available for Skiers

Bus transportation to and from Houston Intercontinental Airport will be available to "Ski the Alps-1970" participants, announced Chairman Dave Mayfield.

The chartered bus will pick up passengers at 4 p.m. Jan. 23 on the north side of the Memorial Student Center and meet returning passengers at the Houston field at 8 p.m. Feb. 1.

Round trip cost is $11. Fewer than 15 of the 40 bus seats are still available, Mayfield said.

"Ski the Alps-1970" will take a large party of A&M students and faculty-staff to Courchevel, France, by chartered jet during the intercession period for skiing and sightseeing.

Local Police Officers In Training at A&M

Three Bryan Police Department officers and a member of A&M's Police Training Division are among 16 law enforcement officers enrolled in a teacher training class this week at the university.

Sergeants Lee Freeman and Howard Hill and Patrolman Bobby Maddox represent the Bryan Police Department and Tim Kennedy, former Brazos County Chief Criminal Deputy, is enrolled from the Police Training Division.

Robert W. Wagner of the Texas Engineering Extension Service's Vocational Industrial Teacher Education Division is the instructor.

Police training chief Ira E. Scott explained the methods course shows people without professional teaching experience how to plan lessons and present them in the best way.

Included in the current class are police department and sheriff's office instructors from throughout Texas.

Civilian Menu Panel To Meet Thursday

The Civilian Student Menu Committee will meet at noon Thursday in Sbis Cash Cafeteria. Howard Perry, Director of Civilian Student Activities, said that this committee acts in an advisory capacity for Fred Dollar on food service matters.

Any civilian student who desires to offer suggestions should contact one of the committeemen and attend the meeting as a guest: Pat Wertheim, Hotard 402; Bill Scherle, Fowler 413, 5-2980; Shelton Wallace, Davis-Gary 127, 5-1566; Van Kinerd, Milner 50.

TISA STAGING

probably been registered before, while others are from out of state.

"However," McClellan added, "if we find that we can register more than 50 per cent, we'll do it."

McClellan said that one reason for poor student voter response is that too many students are not even aware of the procedure involved in registration.

TISA's voter campaign is being organized through the student government agencies on college and university campuses.

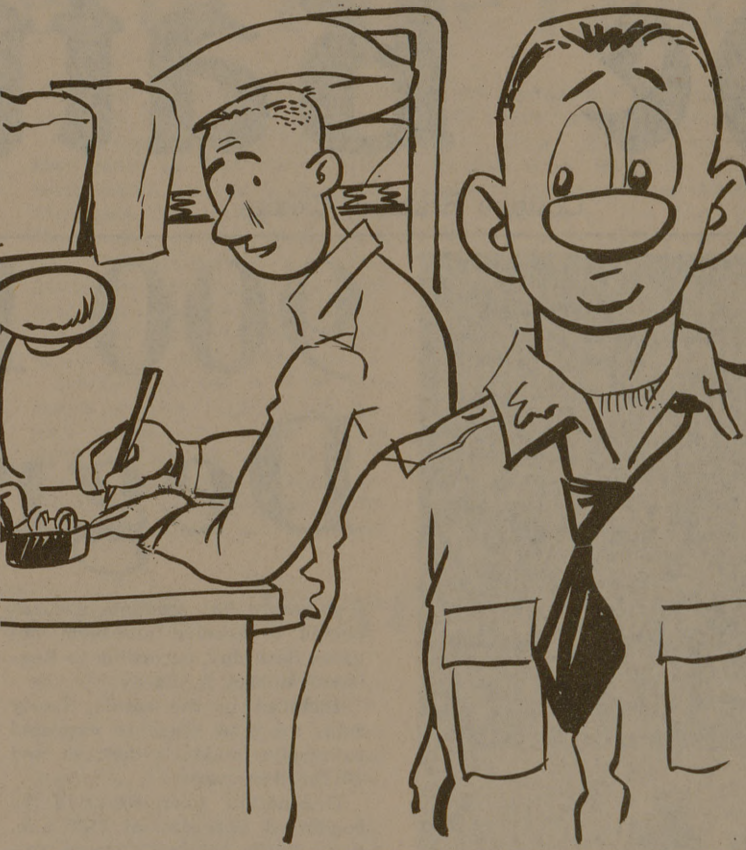

Texas A&M is not participating in the drive, according to Gerry Geistweidt, Student Senate president.

Geistweidt gave lack of time as the main reason for A&M's non-participation.

"The only thing that will be done is the drive that was done earlier this year (by A&M students last November)," he said today. "I think it is an appropriate direction to move, however."

Geistweidt said that the Senate is however, thinking of participating in other activities, such as the American Cancer Society's national drive on college campuses. Efforts may also be made in the direction of combating pollution, the student body president said.
