UNFLAGGING—Should a performer break stride or routine in drum and bugle corps competition, it would subtract from a marching unit's point total. So Sandra Grochowski, 13, maintains form despite the flag that flopped over her face during judging in suburban Greendale, Wis. (AP Wirephoto)

Sea Grant Associates to Tour Research Vessel in Galveston
 A&M faculty and staff members associated with Sea Grant or oceanography programs will tour the 400-foot research vessel Glomar Challenger Sunday in Galveston.
 Global Marine, Inc., of Los Angeles and Scripps Institution of Oceanography, managing institution for the Deep Sea Drilling Project, will host the 1 p.m. tour, according to Dr. William R. Bryant, A&M oceanographer and co-chief scientist on Leg Ten of DSDP.
 Approximately 200 faculty, staff and graduate students are expected to travel to Galveston for the tour.
 Leg Ten will leave Corsicana Feb. 11 on a 48-day expedition to study the aspects of origin and development of the Gulf of Mexico.
 The 10,500-ton vessel arrives Thursday for dry dock repairs, Dr. Bryant noted.
 Glomar Challenger was built in 1967-68 at Orange, Tex. It has a 142-foot derrick for retrieving sediment cores from oceanic areas.
 Dr. Bryant pointed out the ship recently made the deepest water drilling. The ship rested over 20,150 feet of water to take a 506-foot core.
 Its deepest floor penetration is 3,321 feet to take a core sample, Dr. Bryant added.

150,000 Mailed to GIs
Valentines Sent to Vietnam
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More than 100 cartons containing almost 150,000 Valentines were mailed here Tuesday to GIs in Vietnam.
 The hand made heart-filled greetings will arrive more than a week before Valentine's Day.
 "They'll be a little early—but better early than late," said Carl Uibelhoer, national service office of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, who told the Valentines would be in Vietnam in two days.
 The Naval Air Reserve Training Unit at Jacksonville, Fla., came to the order's rescue Monday night after National Airlines was shut down by a strike.
 A Navy plane flew the Valentines from Jacksonville to Oakland, Calif., Monday night because National could not fulfill its offer to carry the cargo without charge.
 The order, a service foundation, is sponsoring for a second year a "GI Wish You'd Be My Valentine" campaign. It is intended to bridge the communication gap between servicemen and young people.
 Uibelhoer said the Valentines "come from every state of the union with the exception of Alaska," three U. S. territories and five foreign countries.
 "They will be distributed in 27 hospitals overseas where combat wounded are brought or evacuated. Beyond this, they will go to troops in the combat zones," he said.
 The Valentines were collected in Jacksonville, Fla., by Kat Busch, field director of the order. In an effort to save money, Busch had contacted National Airlines.
 When Busch learned that National was on strike, he was aghast, but the Navy came to his rescue.
 Volunteer Marines trucked the cartons across the bay Tuesday to a loading dock here for mailing to Southeast Asia.
