Math Prof Needs Cameras for Eclipse

Persons with light weight, long focal length photographic equipment are requested to contact Prof. Jack T. Kent in the Mathematics Department.

He is interested in leasing or renting such equipment for recording the March 7 total eclipse of the sun. The math professor said the photo gear will be needed from March 1 to 10.

Kent can be contacted at 845-3261 or 846-5644.

Spring Film Festival Announces Schedule

Nine internationally produced and recognized films beginning with "La Dolce Vita" on Feb. 20 will be presented here in the Spring Film Festival.

"The spring festival consists of a series of films from Italy, France, Russia, Spain, Japan, Czechoslovakia and the U.S., each recognized for the ideas it contains and for technical and aesthetic qualities," commented Carlos Almaguer, festival chairman of Eagle Pass.

Admission is by season ticket only, which are now on sale at the Memorial Student Center Student Program Office.

"Single admissions are not available on individual presentations," Almaguer emphasized.

Season tickets are $3.50 per student, wife or date and $5.50 to the faculty and general public. All seats are usually gone before the first show.

The schedule includes on Feb. 20 "La Dolce Vita;" March 8, "Ballad of a Soldier;" March 20, said. He added that a strong cooperation between state and local government is needed if this program is to succeed.

Dies commended State Senator Bill Moore of Bryan and State Rep. Bill Presnal for the strong representation that they have given the people of Brazos County in getting bills like this passed.

He added that the comparatively small B-CS community hadn't been forgotten by the Smith administration. He said that the administration was working to create a program that would help small communities to find the types of industry that would fit their needs.

Dies closed his speech by denouncing the radicals that are protesting in this country.

"The long-haired outfits who march on our campuses and governments, and denounce our country, should leave it," Dies said. He added that if they didn't have the fare the State of Texas should pay it.

Editor:

"Esprit de Corps, Sweat, and 'Good Bull' Produced a Bonfire," is the title of an article in the recent Review (Jan. '70) that insulted every civilian that worked on the '69-'70 Aggie bonfire. That the Corps was entirely responsible for building the bonfire is all that can be derived from this article. The article described the work being done which had the "earmarks of a military maneuver." It also mentioned "Corps companies and squadrons" being assigned cutting areas, but not once did it mention the workers that the civilian dorms provided.

Those that were present during the construction, either as spectators or workers, know that there were many people working in the cutting and stacking areas, and that not all of them were in the Corps. Corps Aggies, civilian Aggies, as well as many female Aggies, that took cookies and coffee to the bonfire guards, and others were all responsible for building the Aggie bonfire. Clearly, "Esprit de Corps . . ." should have read "Esprit de Aggies . . ."

for only the undying spirit of many hard working Aggies, Corps and civilian, could have built such a successful Aggie bonfire.
