

HANDY IMPROVEMENT—Reading speed and comprehension improvement are available to all residence hall students, usually as near as the dorm president or corps unit scholastic sergeant. In Squadron 4, materials are even more accessible. Freshman Larry Luethke (seated, left,) gets help from scholastic sergeant Richard J. Rynearson in learning to use the mechanical reading pacer. By spending about an hour a week with the Counseling and Testing Center equipment, he has increased his reading rate by 100 words per minute.

Bryan State Guard Unit Begins Recruit Drive

The Bryan Security Unit of the Texas State Guard is beginning a large-scale recruiting drive to increase the organization's strength, BSU commander Tom Wiley III announced.

The state guard, officially organized in 1941, is an element of the state's military forces. Its mission is to provide a reservoir of military strength for use by the State of Texas as a supplement to the Texas National Guard.

Wiley said the Texas State Guard is presently organized as a cadre force with six defense groups. There are 27 battalions and 131 security units, one of which is located at each National Guard armory.

Information concerning Texas State Guard membership units in the Bryan-College Station area is available by phoning 822-1600.

Pennsylvania Students Eligible for Aid

Texas A&M students from Pennsylvania may have an unsuspected source of financial aid, according to officials of the university's Student Aid Office.

Both scholarships and loans are available to all Pennsylvania students through the state's Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA), explained Robert M. Logan.

"Most Pennsylvania students think they can apply for PHEAA aid only as a high school senior," the student aid director said.
