

SWC Winner Tackles New Mexico St. In NCAA Tourney

By The Associated Press
The National Collegiate Athletic Association invited 10 at-large teams to participate in its annual championship in March Tuesday.

But Marquette University, rated No. 8 in the nation, turned down the bid and decided to go to the National Invitation Tournament in New York in a dispute over its placement in the Midwest regional.

Unranked Dayton, 17-7, then accepted the NCAA bid, replacing Marquette.

Although the NIT said it would make no announcement until Wednesday afternoon, Coach Al McGuire of Marquette said his team was taking the NIT over the NCAA.

The NCAA invites 10 at-large teams, plus 15 conference champions, some of which have to be decided by postseason tournaments. Kentucky, the No. 1 team in the latest Associated Press poll, already has qualified by winning the Southeastern Conference title and Western Kentucky has won the Ohio Valley Conference.

The NIT will invite 16 teams for its tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden, starting March 13 and ending March 21.

The NCAA competition will be held on three successive weekends, March 7, March 12-14 and March 19-21 with the finals at College Park, Md.

UCLA, 21-1 after suffering its first defeat Saturday, has won the NCAA championship three years in a row and is almost a sure thing to represent the Pacific Eight this season.

St. Bonaventure, a leading independent with a 19-1 record and

No. 3 ranking, was invited to the NCAA along with fifth-ranked New Mexico State, 21-2, who will play the SWC winner, sixth-ranked Jacksonville, 20-1, and eighth-rated Marquette, 19-3, which was replaced by unranked Dayton.

Others receiving NCAA invitations included Notre Dame, 20-5, Houston, 20-3, Utah State, 18-5, Villanova, 17-6, Niagara, 19-4 and Long Beach State, 21-3.

Although the NIT was not announcing the invitation to Marquette, privately it was not denying the news.

McGuire said the decision of the NCAA to place Marquette in the Midwest regional was the basic factor in rejection of the bid. He said Marquette wanted to be placed in the Midwest regional at Dayton, Ohio instead of the Midwest. The regionals will be played March 7.

McGuire said Jacksonville and Notre Dame had been put in the Midwest regional which also includes the champions of the Big Ten and Kentucky, Southeastern Conference champs, in the second round after a first round bye.

In the Midwest regionals there are three members at-large, plus the winners of the Southwest Conference.
