Industrial Engineers To Have Open House

The Department of Industrial Engineering will hold an open house for the public from 7:30 until 10 p.m. Thursday in the Engineering Building.

Students and faculty will describe and explain the disciplines within Industrial Engineering and will also demonstrate the equipment in the various laboratories such as human factor, computer science, and numerical control.

The open house is being held in conjunction with the Junior Engineering Technical Society Conference scheduled for Friday at A&M.

Shaw Given Award By Food Producers

Ronnie Shaw of Gause, food technology major, has been selected to receive the $1,000 Texas Food Processors Scholarship.

The award is provided by food processors throughout the state to recognize scholarship, dedication to food science, character and attitude among food technology majors at A&M.

Shaw is president of the collegiate branches of the American Horticulture Society, president of the A&M Horticulture Club, and secretary of the Student Agriculture Council.

MSC Men-Only Smoker To Display Fashions

Men's fashions for the coming season will be previewed in a men-only smoker Thursday evening.

The smoker will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center ballroom, and will feature displays and presentations from Iva Starnes, Country Squire, and Loupot's clothing stores.

Tickets cost 75 cents and door prizes will be awarded. Refreshments will be served by the Host and Fashion Committee.

Attendance is not restricted to A&M students.

Researcher to Conduct Seminar Thursday

Gordon A. Friesen, a leading consultant in the health facility planning field, will conduct a seminar Thursday at the Research Institute for Systems Development in the College of Architecture and Environmental Design.

George J. Mann, RISD director, said Friesen's presentation will cover the future role of health care facilities in the United States.

Friesen is president of Gordon A. Friesen International, Inc., Health Care Consultants in Washington, D. C. He founded the firm in 1954 after a 25-year career as a hospital administrator.

"Hurricane Protection" Topic of Seminar

"Hurricane Protection for Recreational Uses of Coastal Areas" is the topic of a seminar to be given here Thursday.

The speaker is Col. Franklin B. Moon, district engineer for the Corps of Engineers in Galveston.

Dr. Leinweber Named To Range Board

Dr. Charles L. Leinweber, head of the Range Science Department, has been named to the board of directors of the American Society of Range Management.

The scientist grew up on a Kerr County ranch and received his BS, MS and PhD degrees from A&M.

Colloquiums Scheduled Wednesday, Thursday

A Plant Sciences Department graduate lecture and two Physics Department colloquiums are scheduled here this week.

Dr. Martin Gibbs, chairman of the Biology Department at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass., will discuss photosynthesis inhibition at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Room 112 Plant Sciences.

The first of two physics colloquiums also will be presented at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Room 146 Physics, featuring an address on "Pion-Proton Elastic and Charge Exchange" by Dr. John R. O'Fallon, physics professor at St. Louis University.

Dr. Robert M. Cleary, post-doctoral physics student at the University of Illinois, will discuss "An Exact Symmetry of the Kondo Hamiltonian" at the second colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday, also in Room 146 Physics.

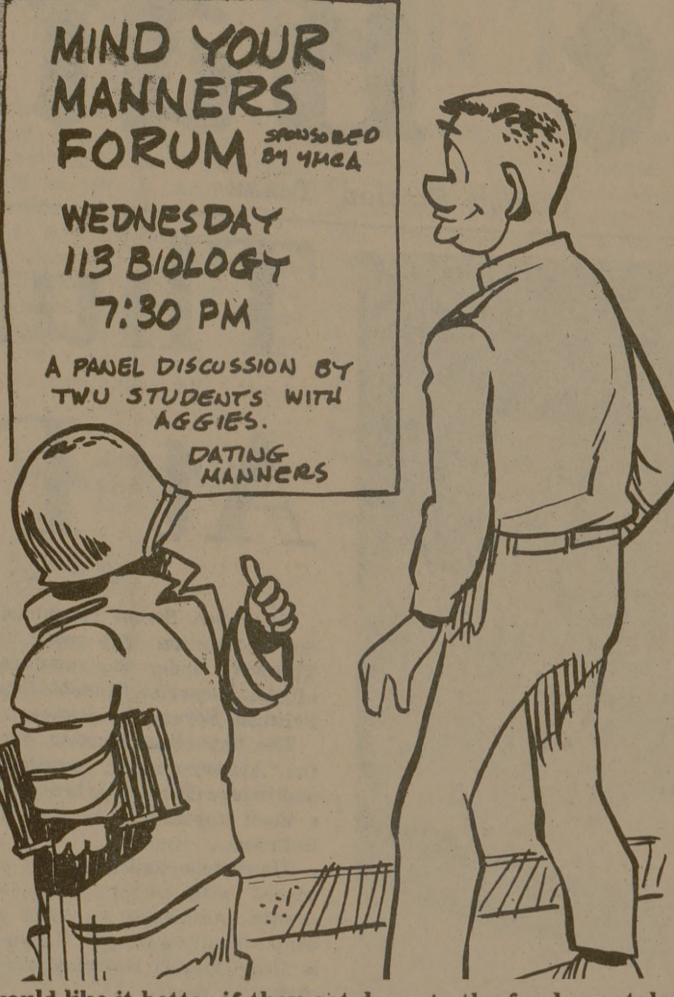

7 Wildlife Students To Present Papers

Seven wildlife science students will present their research results before the Collegiate Division of the Texas Academy of Science March 6-7 in San Angelo.

The students and their research paper topics are Clifton Carter of Pasadena, "Food Availability versus Feeding Habits of Bufo Valliceps"; Stephen Holm of Moulton and Hugh Smith of Austin, "A Preliminary Survey of Parasites of Snakes in Texas"; and Frank Montalbano of Beaumont and Reuben Payne of Annandale, Va., "A Census of Alligators on the J. R. Murphree Wildlife Management Area."

Others are Darrell Becht of Bryan and Terry Hibbits of Arlington, "Tagging and Tracing Techniques Using Ta-182 of the Rough Earth Snake, Virginia Striata, in Brazos County, Tex-

Listen Up

Sir:

For some time now the Texas A&M football and basketball teams have included substantial numbers of civilian participants. However, this fact has been overlooked or ignored by many people. This fact is an insult and a slap in the face to the civilian student body. On several occasions I have heard the Corps of Cadets, Mike Mistovich, Spec Gammon and others refer to A&M athletic team members as "O' Army" or "Cadets." This flagrant degradation of the civilian members of the teams and the civilian student body in general must not be tolerated.

In view of the above outrages, I suggest that the Civilian Student Council and the Student Senate initiate censure proceedings against the Corps of Cadets, announcer Mike Mistovich, and Sports Information Director Spec Gammon. Of course, all guilty parties would be allowed to attend the meetings and defend their positions.

Corporation VP To Keynote State JETS Confab Friday

Robert L. Smith, Jr., vice president for automation and planning of Blue Cross-Blue Shield in Dallas, will give the main address at the annual state conference of the Junior Engineering Technical Society here Friday.

Smith was with A&M from 1952 through 1967. He was director of the Data Processing Center from 1958 to 1967 and assistant director of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station from 1963 to 1967. He was honored as one of the five outstanding young Texans in 1961.

Topic of the 3 p.m. address is "Engineering and Management." The conference is expected to draw about 1,000 high school students and their counselors and teachers, who will be on campus all day.

The high schoolers will compete in slide rule, math, physics, chemistry, and engineering graphics. Awards will be presented in all categories, Assistant Engineering Dean J. G. McGuire, coordinator of the conference, has announced. Students who are not JETS are eligible also.

Engineering exhibits and tours will be conducted during the day. A "Career Counseling" panel discussion is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Paul H. Newell, director of the Biomedical Engineering Program, will speak on "Biomedical Engineering - The Development of an Engineering Discipline" during the 1 p.m. session.

Awards for winners of the competitive test, technical papers, bridge models, and JETS scholarships will be presented by Dean Fred J. Benson.
