MISS SKYSCRAPER—Gwen Bachman is a 17-year-old senior at Englewood High School (Colo.), stands 6-foot-11 and just might try professional basketball if she gets the chance. A couple of pro teams have already expressed in

Aggie Booters Clobber Owls

The Rugby Club of A&M plucked the Rice Owls, 8-6, Saturday to push their conference mark to 2-1-1, but not without a squabble.

The Aggies scored all of their tallies in the first half and the Owls bounced back to make a game of it by scoring all of theirs in the final period.

John Rayton connected on a penalty kick and Mark Fisher muscled his way fifty yards for another score with Rayton adding the conversion for the A&M scoring. The Owls scored on two penalty kicks. The game was played well despite the rainy grounds.

Tomorrow the Aggies travel to Houston to battle the Houston Cougars.

There are 24 seats left on the Rugby Club of A&M charter bus to Florida where the team will be participating in the annual Gator Bowl Rugby Tournament over the Easter holidays.

The contest is hosted by the University of Florida and the Aggies are one of sixteen teams selected nationally to play in it. Anyone interested in going with the team to Florida is invited and the price will be $47.50 for the round trip. Interested persons are urged to contact Greg Schwei, Walton I-4, or call 845-4760.

As a tuneup for the Florida tourney, the club will play in the Texas Rugby Tournament in Austin, March 21 and 22.

Pistol Pete On TV For Second Time

By Ken Rappoport
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Yunkus, who grew up in the Midwest and plays his college basketball in the South, hopes to find a home in New York as the 33rd edition of the National Invitation Tournament opens at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Georgia Tech's Rich Kid leads the Yellow Jackets against Duquesne in the curtain-raiser of a doubleheader that opens the glamour-tinted tourney. St. John's of New York plays Miami, Ohio, in the second game.

Yunkus, who averaged 30.4 points a game to rank as the nation's 7th leading scorer, is among a covey of headline-grabbing athletes who will compete in the week-long event ending March 21 with the title game.

Most prominent among these is Pete Maravich, the crown prince of college basketball. Maravich, of Louisiana State University, is the all-time scoring king with 3,590 career points and leads the nation with a 46.6 average this year.

Also on display will be Charlie "Great" Scott of North Carolina, a 27-point-a-game scorer and a ball-handling wizard.

Other luminaries include, Mike Newlin of Utah, 26.7 points a game; Julius Erving of Massachusetts 26, and Dean "The Dream" Meminger, the high-scoring playmaker of eighth-ranked Marquette, the unofficial tourney favorite.

Following Friday night's twin bill, four games are scheduled for Saturday and a doubleheader Sunday afternoon to complete first-round action. The quarter-finals will be played Monday and Tuesday, the semi-finals Thursday, with the windup on national television next Saturday.

Manhattan plays North Carolina and Army tackles Cincinnati in this Saturday's afternoon doubleheader and it's Duke-Utah and Marquette-Massachusetts at night. On Sunday, LSU plays Georgetown and Louisiana meets Oklahoma.

The LSU-Georgetown game will be nationally televised.

Netters Down A&I

Texas A&M defeated Texas A&I, 6-0, in a nonconference tennis match played here Thursday afternoon.

In singles, Bruce Crumley defeated Gary Rauschuber, 6-1, 6-2; David Chastain defeated John Mathews, 6-3, 6-0; Mike Mills defeated Reed Smith, 6-3, 6-1; Lamar Park defeated Gordon Buckley, 6-2, 6-2.

In doubles, Mills and Park defeated Rauschuber and Smith, 6-1, 6-4; Chastain and Carl Jedicke defeated Mathews and Buckley, 6-4, 6-4.

The Aggies host UT-Arlington at 1 p.m. Friday on the A&I courts before going to Beaumont for a match with Lamar Tuesday Saturday.
