 Big, strong and young.
 That is how the 1970 spring edition of Gene Stallings' football follies impresses most observers after two semi-official scrimmages (one last night) leading ultimately to the Maroon and White game scheduled for Saturday, May 9.

With 27 players that tip the scales at 220 pounds or more, big is really not the word that should be used to describe this conglomerate of Aggie hopefuls. They are certainly strong and with only five senior lettermen returning, the youth angle is taken care of. The major difference between this practice routine and that of other Stallings years is the basic offensive formation. Instead of the pro-style set that Edgett ran so well for three years this year the Aggies follow the staggered footsteps of the teams that run the Wishbone or Veer T, depending on what team is running it.

Brad Dusek, the all-SWC freshman of a year ago, has found a place in one of the wings of the T but he will be hard pressed to keep the slot ahead of Clint Thomas and Steve Burke. Mike Black returns to hold either the fullback slot or one of the wings and Doug Neill is another who has a chance to break into the starting lineup. Lex James, a sophomore-to-be, is running at quarterback with Joe Mac King to back him up.

The strong point thus far in both scrimmages is the performance of the Maroon (first team) defense. They have proven to be ahead of the offense as the ball carriers move toward their complete week of spring drills.

Advance tickets are already on sale for the spring game. Reserve seats at $2.50. Faculty reserved seats at $1.50. A&M date tickets at $1.50. Students advance general admission if bought with an adult reserved seat at 50 cents.

OPTION THREAT—Lex James slides down the right side of his offensive line on an option play during Tuesday nights workout. James and Joe Mac King are currently sharing quarterback duties on the maroon team. (Photo by Mike Wright)
